Summer and Strawberries.
Germany's Victory.
Surprising the Greek.
The Billion Dollar Age.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LOS ANGELES, March 26.

REAL summer here, bright sunshine every day. Young women walking about with arms bare to the shoulder. Men picking red ripe strawberries on West Huntington drive in Arcadia, one of the city's well-named suburbs.

THE Boulder Dam development is assured. Private individuals will probably get the power. But this and other cities near it will at least get the extra water supply that a million more population will soon demand. And the increased power supply at presumably lower prices will stimulate the already remarkable growth of industries on this coast. The people are cheerful here.

Remember that this Pacific Coast is as much a summer resort as a winter resort.

THE House of Representatives yesterday voted to increase the national contribution to good roads from $75,000,000 to $125,000,000 a year for three years, beginning next July.

This will mean, in three years, three hundred seventy-five millions for better roads alone, good news for all citizens, for the automobile industry, its employes and for the unemployed.

GERMANY lost the war, but wins in other directions. Recently the German Bremen, lowering the record across the Atlantic, took the "blue ribbon" from the British.

Yesterday the North German Lloyd liner Europa beat the Bremen's record.

The Europa, magnificent 50,000-ton ship, according to builders here and in Britain, would be too expensive for American or British lines. The investment of $50,000,000 could not be profitable.

Germany, beaten, is able to do what the winners of the war can not do.

A GREEK philosopher was exiled because he said the sun was probably bigger than all of the Greek islands. We know now that the sun is a million times bigger than the earth. And, in distant space, other suns are a million times bigger than ours, making them one million million times bigger than the cosmic grain of sand we live on.

An Italian, Prof. Bendani, announces discovery of the fact that our solar system is fifty times bigger than astronomers thought. What would the old Greek have said to that?

THIS is the billion-dollar age. The old plain million, once revered, is as unimportant as the extinct hansom cab.

Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, foresees expenditures by his company in the next 10 years amounting to TEN BILLIONS OF DOLLARS.

Ten thousand millions is a good many dollars.

The Pennsylvania has already spent six thousand millions.

THE running time from New York to Chicago will be cut to 14 hours within a few years.

Trains will carry passengers' automobiles with them as ocean steamships now carry them. Radiophones will enable travelers to talk to their offices and to their homes.

GEN. ATTERBURY believes that consolidation of competing railroads will make possible the scrapping of some existing roads with substitution of motor highways for railroad rights of way.

That, if it happened, would be in the public interest.

There ought to be only one railroad company and one railroad owner in the United States. Uncle Sam ought to be the owner, all present stockholders liberally paid, the government employing the ablest railroad men of today, paying them as much as private enterprises could pay them.

IT IS too soon for that, and the times are against it, besides which we confess that our government is not sufficiently able or honest to do what Canada does successfully.

At least we ought to eliminate wasteful competition, unnecessary overhead.

ANDREW MELLON, now 75 years old, is the head, through ownership, of half a dozen of the greatest corporations in the world. Under three presidents he has shown himself to be one of our greatest Secretaries of the Treasury, reducing the public debt by billions each year.

IF MR. MELLON were a railroad conductor, they would tell him he was too old and he would have to give up his job.

If he were a workman, seeking employment, he would have to get his hair dyed black, and lie about his age.

The best years of a man's life, for useful work, and for intellectual enjoyment should come after 70. At 90 a man should rest.

DON'T go short of wheat with Uncle Sam's pocketbook on the bull side of the market. But don't go "long" of wheat, either.

The government is making an experiment new and risky. Wheat is piling up.

Doctor Osterlenk, an expert,

G.O.P. CHIEFS SWINGING TO DAVIS

Grundy Deserted by Mackey, Fisher Cabinet in Revolt, Armstrong Leads Here

A scramble to get on the Davis-Brown bandwagon was in full swing throughout the state today, developments in Pittsburgh and reports from Philadelphia and Harrisburg indicated,

1—Mayor Harry A. Mackey, of Philadelphia, threw his support to the Davis-Brown slate, backed by William S. Vare. Mackey previously had announced for Joseph R. Grundy for the Senate.

2—County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, Allegheny County manager for the Davis-Brown ticket, launched his campaign here, opening headquarters in the William Penn Hotel.

3—Coroner W. J. McGregor declared outright for the Davis-Brown ticket, while other political leaders here displayed decided pro-Davis sentiments.

4—Gov. Fisher's official family and departmental heads were reported to be openly aiding the Davis-Brown slate.

5—Former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, candidate for Governor, spread his platform before his adherents.

6—Mayor Charles H. Kline, despite his announced policy of neutrality, was expected to take charge of the Grundy-Lewis headquarters here.

7—Grundy, in Washington, had "nothing to say" concerning his campaign plans, and Davis campaign managers are not sure they will have a Mellon candidate to fight.

The news flashed from Philadelphia that Mayor Mackey would back James J. Davis for senator was a severe blow to the Grundy-Lewis followers.

After a conference with ward leaders yesterday, Mayor Mackey issued this statement:

"After consultation with my friends, it was agreed that they co-operate with the Republican organization of Philadelphia."

Mackey had been Vare's campaign manager in 1926 and broke with Vare later. The Vare "war board" recently urged Mackey to

DAGUE FAMILY IN COURT

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 26.—His aged father, gray and bent, and his wife and two children, whom he deserted, appeared in the courtroom today, to lend support to W. Glenn Dague, on trial for the slaying of Corp. Brady Paul.

It was a silent little group that assembled in an effort to save Dague from the fate of his blonde sweetheart, Irene Schroeder, who, doomed, to die, joked and snickered yesterday when called into court for identification.

The father, Adam L. Dague, of Dallas, W. Va., sat gravely as testimony proceeded. The defen-

Edge Visits Lyons On Industrial Tour

GRENOBLE, France, March 26.—(INS.)—Ambassador Walter Edge was here today en route to Marseilles on his industrial tour of France. He spent a busy day yesterday, the second of his tour, inspecting the silk factories of Lyons and attending the Lyons Fair. Addressing a gathering at the Lyons Chamber of Commerce he stressed the need for an exchange of exports between France and America.

Cold Wave Here Sets Record

Winter rushed back today and immediately broke a 12-year-old weather record.

The thermometer slumped to 25 degrees at 8 a. m., which was the coldest bit of weather for March 26 since 1918.

This afternoon and evening there will be slight relief, Weatherman Brotzman said, but for tonight the thermometer may drop to 20. Tomorrow more general relief is expected.

The center of the storm, which was general throughout the country, passed here last night. Brotzman expected a wind velocity of 20 miles all day.

Yacht Splits in Two; Boatmen Save Owner

BALTIMORE, March 26.—(INS.)—J. G. Bainbridge, of Philadelphia, was rescued from 35 feet of water off Cove Point, in Chesapeake Bay, today when his yacht, Josephine, broke in half. It parted when being pulled from a sandbar by other boats. Bainbridge, who was alone on the craft, said he lost all of his personal belongings. The yacht went aground several days ago.

Young Plan Burdens Peril Berlin Cabinet

BERLIN, March 26.—(INS.)—A sudden cabinet crisis loomed in Germany today over the government's financial program involving distribution of the burdens under the Young Plan.

Deputy Scholz, leader of the powerful People's Party, declared there was a "great chance" that the cabinet would break up.

Deficiency Bill Signed by Hoover

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(A.P.)—President Hoover today signed the deficiency bill appropriating $169,500,000, of which $100,000,000 is immediately available to the Federal Farm Board.

PROHIBITION VOTED DOWN 3-1 AT PITT

1,535 Drink, 1,036 Don't; Only 509 of 2,575 Ballots Demand Enforcement

By a vote of more than three to one, University of Pittsburgh students, polled by the Pitt Weekly, have declared against strict enforcement of the prohibition laws, the Weekly announced here.

Of 2,575 ballots cast, 896 were for repeal of the dry laws, 1,101 for modification, 509 for strict enforcement and 69 for continuation of the present situation.

MAJORITY DRINKS

About three-fifths of the undergraduates who voted drink intoxicants, by their own confession, as revealed in the prohibition poll ballots. They have acquired their taste for alcohol since the Volstead Act went into effect, for they were mostly boys and girls ranging in age from about 7 to 14 when the Eighteenth amendment was enacted.

While Pitt has a total registration (including extension students) of 12,000, opportunity to vote was afforded only the undergraduate and professional school students on the campus, numbering 5,030.

BRANCHES EXCLUDED

The poll includes no votes from the downtown school, the Erie, Johnstown and Uniontown branches, nor the extension students, and very few from the graduate students.

The question "Do you ever drink?" was answered affirmatively by 1,535, negatively by 1,036. The largest proportion of drinkers was found among dental students, of whom about four-fifths admitted imbibing. Drinkers made their next best showing in the law school. The non-drinkers were outnumbered in every department of the university.

PERSONAL TASTES RULE

Not legal restrictions, nor family restrictions, but personal taste is the main factor in keeping the

SCHWAB CITES MERGER NEEDS

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 26.—(AP.)—Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, who is leading the fight against acquisition of Youngstown Sheet and Tube by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, departed from Youngstown today shortly after Charles M. Schwab, chairman of Bethlehem, and Eugene G. Grace, its president, arrived to fight in behalf of the merger.

With the departure of Eaton for Cleveland, any likelihood of an armistice in the merger conflict vanished, observers said. It had been considered possible that Eaton and Schwab might be drawn into a conference in which

Yough River Bill Approved in House

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(INS.)—The House Committee on Rivers and Harbors has approved the canalization of the Youghiogheny River from McKeesport to West Newton, Pa., it was announced today. The committee approved a bill by Representative Clyde Kelly (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, providing for the expenditurs of $3,000,000 to build three locks which would make the river navigable.

COME HOME!

TO AMBASSADOR DWIGHT W. MORROW,
Member, American Delegation to London Naval Disarmament Conference:

Why shouldn't the American delegation come home and attend to their own business and the business of the United States, here in this country, now that you have demonstrated the impossibility of attaining the dream of European reduction of armaments?

Every hour that your delegation, Ambassador Morrow, remains in London, at a cost of $3,000 daily, is a waste of their time and of the money of American tax-payers.

Furthermore, three great risks are run:

1. The danger that by some trick or under some guise the European diplomats will put over on the American delegation their underlying plan to get the United States into a bush league of nations, guaranteeing the security of the imperialistic governments of Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan.

2. The danger that the American delegation, under the combined attack of pacifists and internationalists at home, and of foreign nations abroad, will be induced to perpetuate the impotence of our naval defense by further postponement of building a Navy up to a parity with Great Britain's strength.

3. The danger that in any event the United States will have loaded upon it the "responsibilty" for the European powers not reducing armaments—on the ground that we are unwilling to join in a treaty guaranteeing THEIR security.

The people feel that you, Mr. Ambassador, are one of the members of the American delegation who stood out against any "security pact" for us to sign, with the final result that the delegation as a unit declared against it.

In fact, the New York Times correspondent in London complained specifically of YOU AND SENATOR REED AS OBSTRUCTIONISTS TO THAT DELIGHTFUL PLAN TO INVOLVE US IN ALL EUROPE'S FUTURE QUARRELS.

Among the few definite facts that Secretary Stimson has vouchsafed, with regard to the work of the delegation, is the fact that you have been in charge of negotiations with the French.

You, Ambassador Morrow, know better than anyone else what the French would mean by a "CONSULTATION PACT," signed by us as a CONDITION of their reducing naval armaments.

You know that in 1914 OF THEIR REDUCING NAVAL ARMAMENT.

You know that in 1914 THE ENTENTE CORDIALE WAS NOTHING MORE THAN A "CONSULTATION PACT" BETWEEN FRANCE AND GREAT BRITAIN.

Yet it sufficed for France to get Great Britain committed to take part in the World War, long before the German armies marched through Belgium.

You know, Mr. Ambassador, that so far as France can be made secure by military alliances, she is already secure—THE TRUTH IS THAT, GORGED WITH LOOT FROM THE WORLD WAR, SHE CANNOT BE MADE TO FEEL SAFE, OR BE SAFE.

She has the guarantee of the League of Nations, with the pledge of its members to respect each other's sovereignty and territories, and its provision that IF FRANCE IS ATTACKED, THE LEAGUE COUNCIL SHALL ASSEMBLE THE MILITARY AND ECONOMIC POWER OF LEAGUE MEMBERS IN FRANCE'S DEFENSE.

She has the treaty of Locarno, which OBLIGATES GREAT BRITAIN TO DEFEND HER FROM DANGER ON THE GERMAN FRONTIER.

She has hard-and-fast MILITARY DEFENSE ALLIANCES WITH POLAND, RUMANIA, CZECHO-SLOVAKIA,, BELGIUM AND JUGO-SLAVIA, ALL OF THEM HER EUROPEAN DEPENDENCIES with their armies supported by the money which France should have paid the United States.

In fact, she has at her absolute command most of the 30,000,000 men under arms or active reserves, 10,000,000 MORE THAN BEFORE THE WORLD WAR.

President Hoover, on Armistice Day, described this situation as THE CURSE OF THE PRESENT WORLD.

France sees that the European world is again headed for war. You have read the statement of Henri Berenger, former ambassador to the United States, submitted to the French Senate on March 18th:

"Neither on the sea, where several imperialisms are opposed to one another, nor on the land, where Central and Oriental Europe are far from being consolidated, does the situation justify any lazy optimism.

"With its double determination, oft-times affirmed, of peace and domination OUR AGE CONTAINS AS MANY MURDEROUS RISKS AS THOSE WHICH HAVE GONE BEFORE."

Mr. Ambassador, let the American delegation escape the pitfalls being laid for them in the conference, and devote themselves to securing for America a defense that will make her safe from involvement in the old, unchanged system of European intrigue and War.

LET THE AMERICAN DELEGATION

West Virginia Explosion Entombs Workers 4,000 Feet Back From Entrance

BULLETIN.

ARNETTSVILLE, W. Va., March 26.—(AP.)—Twelve miners were killed today in an explosion in the Yukon mine of the Crown Coal Company here. Seven men escaped. The blast damaged a small section of the workings.

ARNETTSVILLE, W. Va., March 26.—(AP.)—Eight of 11 miners entombed in an explosion at the Yukon mine of the Crown Hill Coal Company here today were known to be dead, and rescue crews were pushing into the workings to determine the fate of three others not accounted for. The missing men were believed dead.

Six bodies were removed today and identified as those of J. H. Livingston, night foreman; E. N. Casteel, motorman; Charles Jacobs, brakeman; Henry Wills, Negro, loader; William Thompson, loader; J. H. Harvey, loader.

GAS BELIEVED CAUSE

Apparently there was no fire in the workings.

The explosion was believed to have been caused by gas. It occurred 4,000 feet from the mouth of the mine about 2 a. m.

Rescue crews were sent from the United States Bureau of Mines at Avella, Pa., and state rescue men were rushed in from Morgantown and Fairmont to help locate the missing men.

The mine, opened in 1922, is owned by Johnstown (Pa.) interests. It is a slope mine. Two hundred men are employed in it during the day and 25 at night.

POWER OFF HOURS

The 11 miners were working in the ninth right heading where the explosion happened.

Two others, at work behind the heading, were not aware of the accident. The electric power where they were working suddenly was cut off and the men sat down to wait until it was restored.

When the power remained off three hours the pair walked from the workings, and learned of the explosion.

The five men still entombed were: Sisco Fransco, trackman; Andy Smith, Negro; Frank Maricus; Adam Cult, Negro, and Ed Groves.

HEAVY TRADING CHOKES TICKER

NEW YORK, March 26.—Bullish activities on the New York Stock Exchange continued in today's trading but the advance lost some of its impetus in afternoon profit-taking in a few of the recent speculative favorites. Other issues sold into new high ground for the year.

Trading volume continued heavy but was somewhat under the 4,500,000-share pace of yesterday. The ticker was running 20 minutes behind the market in the final hour.

SECURITY PACT HINGES ON FRENCH NAVAL DEMAND CUT

MILITARY AID WITHHELD BY U. S.

Premier MacDonald Ready To Proceed With Treaty To Give France Protection

LONDON, March 25.—(AP.)—Secretary Stimson and Prime Minister MacDonald conferred at the House of Commons this afternoon, and it was reported that the premier told Stimson Great Britain was prepared to go ahead with a security pact for France.

Secretary Stimson after seeing Prime Minister MacDonald, dictated a long report to President Hoover.

It was said that the scope of the security pact would depend on what concessions France was willing to make in her naval tonnage figures of 724,000 tons presented to the conference as the French program.

MILITARY AID BARRED

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP.)—The emphatic statement that the American government would not consider any consultative pact that would obligate military support was made today by Acting Secretary Cotton, of the State Department. He asserted the position outlined by the American delegation at the London naval parley that was the same as that of officials here.

Cotton said it would be a probable inference that a consultative pact would not mean a material reduction of tonnage, although it might have a tendency toward that end.

U. S. STAND UNCHANGED

The American delegation statement of yesterday, in Cotton's opinion, was prompted by reports in London newspapers of a changed position of the United States representatives.

He said the statement marked no change in their stand, but was merely a clarification of a position which the United States has maintained throughout.

FREE SWEENEY IN SLAYING

Vincent Sweeney, 27, of Edgewood avenue, was found not guilty today on the charge of fatally shooting his step-father, John J. Fitzgerald, last December.

Evidence was concluded in the case yesterday and Judge Frank E. Reader charged the jury today.

Sweeney, and some character witnesses, offered the only testimony for the defendant. He told how his step-father, a special policeman at the Carnegie Steel mill, Homestead, had followed him to the basement and renewed an old quarrel, finally ordering Sweeney to leave the house.

"Then he lunged at with a pitchfork," said Sweeney. "I wrested it from him and he drew his revolver and fired one shot. I grasped him about the legs and we both went down. Then I took the gun from him and fired two shots," concluded Sweeney.

Girl Reduces Golf Score, Wins $1,000

SA NANTONIO, Tex.—(INS.)—You could just about count on your fingers the women whose nerves are case-hardened enough to keep them from fluttering when a $1,000 prize hangs on a single six-foot putt. Miss Lucille Cairns is one of them.

Miss Cairns' father offered her $1,000 if she brought her golf score down to 90. She came up to the 18th green in 88, with but a half dozen feet of greensward remaining between her and fortune. She tapped the ball with professional nonchalance, and just as nonchalantly collected Papa Cairns' money.

DAGUE FAMILY IN COURT

CHILDREN LOOK ON

Delmar Dague, 8, a bright-eyed, tow-headed youngster, watched all proceedings closely and his eyes roved about the dingy courtroom in wonderment. His sister, Marlys, 6, leaned her curly, blonde head against her mother's sagging shoulders. Neither of the children seemed to realize that their father, who left them and their mother two years ago to lead a life of banditry with the blonde waitress, was battling for his life.

Private Ernest Moore, who was shot at the same time Corp. Paul fell mortally wounded on the Butler-New Castle road, December 27, retold his story of the shooting today and withstood an hour's cross-examination.

He was followed by persons living near the scene who were eyewitnesses.

BATTLE DESCRIBED

Among the eyewitnesses were Mrs. Eva Baldwin, her son, Baldwin, 17, and Mrs. Martha Williams. All testified to seeing smoke coming from a woman's hand as she backed a state atrolman behind the automobile in which Irene and Dague had been interceted in their flight from a Butler store robbery.

"Where was the man at that time?" asked Special Prosecutor Charles J. Margiotti, of Mrs. Williams.

"Right back of her," replied the witness.

The commonwealth was prepared to block a possible defense move to prove Dague insane. Two alienists, Dr. H. W. Mitchell, superintendent of the State Hospital for the Insane at Warren, Pa., and Dr. C. C. Wholey, of Pittsburgh, sat near the defendant, ready to testify he shows no indication of insanity.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that caused the rain and snowfall over this section during yesterday and last night is now centered over Eastern Ontario. Lowest barometer reported is 29.38 inches, at Parry Sound. It is causing cloudy weather over the entire eastern half of the country and it is still showing over the Ohio Valley states and the Lake region.

The high pressure area following the disturbance is centered over Saskatchewan, highest barometer, 30.54 inches, at Battleford, and spreads over the entire Rocky Mountain and Plains states section. It is producing moderately cold weather over much the greater portion of the country, with freezing weather as far south as Arkansas and Tennessee and light frost in Southern Alabama. The cold weather will continue over this section through the next two days.

SUNDAY SHOWS WIN APPROVAL

WHEELING, W. Va., March 26.—(AP.)—The Wheeling City Council last night rejected by a seven to six vote an ordinance drafted by representatives of 32 churches which in effect would forbid the showing of Sunday moving pictures here. Mayor T. Y. Beckett cast the deciding vote when members of the council split even.

Council recently authorized a referendum on the question after a grand jury had declined to indict a number of theater owners for operating their shows on Sunday, but this action later was rescinded and a vote of council substituted.

Canada Acts to Halt Rum Exports to U. S.

OTTAWA, March 26.—The liquir export bill, granting the government power to refuse clearances to liquor shipments intended for consumption in the United States, today was ready for consideration in the Senate. The bill was passed yesterday in the House of Commons. The vote in the House was 173 to 11.

John Kosc, 14, of 606 Jerome street, McKeesport, and his friends were playing baseball near John's home.

A bat slipped out of a young batter's hands as he swung. It hit John on the forehead.

That was 10 days ago. Today John died in McKeesport Hospital, tetanus having developed from the injury.

REDS RETREAT IN SIEGE OF KANCHOW

French Missionaries Safe as Communists Are Forced Back by Kiangsi Forces

SHANGHAI, March 26.—(AP.)—Kiangsi provincial forces, said a dispatch from Nanking today to the Kuomin Nationalist government news agency, have dispersed Communists who were besieging Kanchow, rendering French missionaries safe. American missionaries were not mentioned.

The Kuomin dispatch said that the Kiangsi provincial authorities telegraphed the Nationalist government foreign office stating that the troops defending Kanchow against bandits and Communists had scattered the besiegers.

Anxiety has been felt for 16 American Catholic missionaries who have been unable to report their condition since the bandits began the siege of Kanchow early this month. Ten of these missionaries are men and six are women.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP.)—The French embassy is uninformed of any French missionaries being in Kanchow.

Missionaries Ordered To Stay at Posts

VATICAN CITY.—(AP.)—"Remain at your posts!" is the order that continues to go out from here to 218 American Catholic missionaries and thousands of others of various nationalities in restless China, despite the ominous, thin-ice conditions there and the recent murder of two missionaries, including an Italian bishop.

The Vatican's attitude during the last seven years of increasing difficulty in China has been unwavering, although 24 priests, including three Americans, have lost their lives.

Figures of the Propaganda Fide, which controls Catholic missionary work, show there are 1,415 foreign priests, 938 foreign religious sisters, and 201 foreign religious brothers working in China. Added to these are 1,132 native priests, 2,029 sisters and 176 brothers.

One of the reasons why there is to be no flinching in the ranks of the missionaries is that already in China there are 2,373,677 Catholics, and the number is growing.

GOOD King George has a new idea, perhaps borrowed from his grandmother, Queen Victoria. She used to get many cassimere shawls, which didn't cost anything, and used them for wedding presents. Your grandmother may have worn one, red and purple, looking like an oriental rug.

KING GEORGE is giving away phonograph records of his speech on the opening of the disarmament conference.

Each of our seven naval conference delegates receives a record of the royal speech in a leather case lined with plush, the king's coat of arms on the outside, his autograph inside.

When they come home, as they should do, each can give a party and let guests hear the king's record. That's about all this country will get from the conference.

Will Rogers ought to write about that.

SCHWAB CITES MERGER NEEDS

new agreements could be made to remove Eaton's opposition. The Clevelander, however, forestalled such a chance.

SCHWAB GIVES VIEWS

Shortly after his arrival here, Schwab issued a statement that Youngstown and the Sheet and Tube Company would have greater advantages than ever if the merger should be approved.

Much surprise was expressed by Schwab and Grace about sentiment which has developed against the combine here and in Cleveland.

"We buy plants to develop them and not to discard them," Schwab said. "Who ever heard of buying properties wirth $235,000,000 just to throw them away?"

"We want an alliance with Sheet and Tume," Grace said. "If the stockholders of Sheet and Tube don't want it; if the community doesn't want it, Bethlehem certainly does not want it."

Citing figures to prove that in every locality in which they have acquired plants, payrolls and investments have increased, Grace said:

"We are strong for creating bigger and better steel manufacturing facilities at our locations. We are in the business of making steel and selling it and not in the making of securities and selling them.

"If Sheet and Tube consolidates with Inland Steel it will still be entirely local, for Inland is local," Schwab said. "A merger with Inland will not enable you to compete any better than you do now."

RIVAL PLANT PLANNED

Eaton offered the Inland Steel Compan yof Chicako to Sheet and Tube.

Grace said that if the merger fails Bethlehem would be forced to build its own pipe plants at Sparrow Point, Md., a duplication bad for the industry as a whole.

He pointed out that Sheet and Tube's production is 69 per cent pipe, Sheets and Wire, 31 per cent heavier products.

Bethlehem's output is 70 per per cent heavy product, 30 per cent lighter. "Each of us needs what the other has," he continued.

"It is said Youngstown wants to keep out New York domination," Grace added. "We are not a New York concern. We stay out of Wall street."

Schwab concluded, saying:

"I'm one of the old folks in the steel business. I've been in it 50 years. I believe in doing big things in a big way and doing them right. If I had any doubt that this merger would not be a good thing for both of us I wouldn't take it as a gift. My policy is to take a plant and make it grow. That is the history of all the plants we have taken into Bethlehem."

Mae West Trial Halted When Gavel Breaks

NEW YORK, March 26.—(INS.)—Here is something that can be printed about the Mae West trial.

During a spirited brush today between opposing counsel at the trial the blonde actress and 57 others charged with contributing toward an indecent performance in "Pleasure Man," Judge Amadeo Bertini rapped his gavel for order.

He slammed the sledge hammer symbol of justice so hard that it broke.

Court was adjourned until tomorrow.

FAILURE LAID TO DRY FOES BY M'BRIDE

Head of Anti-Saloon League Denies Clamor for Repeal, Charges Lack of Program

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP.)—Anti-prohibitionists were accused today at the House Judiciary Committee's dry law hearing by F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, of having failed to prove three essential propositions in presenting their case for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

He said the propositions were:

THREE PROPOSITIONS

1—That the Eighteenth Amendment had failed.

2—That the people were clamoring for repeal.

3—That the anti-prohibition group had a constructive program with which to solve the drink problem.

McBride insisted the testimony of the anti-drys had failed to answer these propositions.

McBride's testimony followed a recital of Canada's experience with government control of liquor, which was cited as a warning to the United States not to embark upon such a plan. Drinking, bootlegging and crime has increased under the system, according to E. C. Drury, a former premier of the Ontario provincial government, testifying as a witness for the group supporting the Eighteenth Amendment.

Drury asserted that "whatever the solution of the drink problem may be" it was not in government control.

PERSHING STAND CITED

He took the stand after John J. Lentz, president of the American Insurance Union, with headquarters in Columbus, Ohio, had submitted insurance statistics which he argued showed that the dry statute had proved of wide-spread benefit.

Lentz also testified that Gen. John J. Pershing was partly responsible for abolition of the old army canteen.

BLAWNOX FIRE LAID TO ARSON

Coroner W. J. McGregor today ordered a post mortem examination of the body of Charles Shpilewski, 38, burned to death Monday, when a home in Blawnox was destroyed, on a report from Deputy Coroner John Danner that the blaze was of incendiary origin.

Danner's report, being investigated by County Detective John Carmichael, said that Mrs. Kostossyora Goewlk, owner of the house, blamed a neighbor with whom she had a quarrel over a flock of ducks.

Mrs. Goewlk's ducks refused to stay off a neighbor's property, it was said, and the fight resulted. George Nickodovich, another occupant of the house, is in the West Penn Hospital. Twelve others escaped when a baby's cry warned them of the danger.

Navy Lets Contracts For Air Equipment

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP.)—Purchase of 72 model R-1820 air cooled engines from the Wright Aeronautical Corporation at a total cost of $527,940 was announced today by the Navy Department.

The Navy also announced it had let a contract for six commercial type two seater training planes to the Fleet Aircraft, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., at a total cost of $33,337.

The six training planes will be used at the Naval Air station in Pensacola, Fla.

Hold Pair for Kidnaping Boy, Stealing Auto

Charged with kidnaping a boy and stealing an automobile, Barney Swearinger, 32, of Pittsburgh, and Paul Polsnack, 32, of North Braddock, were in the Allegheny County Jail today pending court trial. The men were held by Justice of the Peace Ralph T. Seneff of Turtle Creek at a hearing last night.

Robert Logan, Sr., of Monroeville road, Turtle Creek, preferred the kidnaping charges against the pair. A son, Hilliard, 13, testified the men had compelled him to accompany them when they took the automobile of his brother, Robert Logan, Jr.

The boy told the justice that the men slapped his face twice to make him keep quiet, but when they reached East Liberty they stopped the car and told him to go to the front door of a nearby house and ask for "Dorothy." While carrying out their instructions the men fled in the automobile, young Logan testified.

The car was stolen from Sycamore street, Turtle Creek, Monday night, police testified. The men were arrested and the car recovered in East Liberty later. Constable R. L. Brown, of Turtle Creek, perferred the larceny charge.

Women Mark Decennial Of Suffrage Rights

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP.)—The National League of Women Voters today celebrated 10 years of women's suffrage with a chain of luncheon parties stretching across the country.

Birthday parties were arranged in 42 states.

The luncheon tables were joined by a nation-wide radio hookup, with Carrie Chapman Catt, silvery-haired, 70 years old, the grand old lady of women's suffrage, addressing the thousands of celebrants.

Blue and yellow was the color theme of the day—the colors once borne on campaign badges and banners in the days when suffrage was still but a hope for the future. In St. Louis the party was brightened with the famous yellow umbrellas of a former parade. In Chicago the women got out their old yellow campaign hats. Everywhere the occasion was made brilliant with the militant banners of another day.

In addition to Mrs. Catt, the radio speakers included Mis. Belle Sherwin, national president of the league, and Miss Katherine Ludington, of Lyme, Conn., vice president.

Names familiar to every member of the league were on the list of speakers at the various luncheons—Miss Julia Lathrop at Chicago, Mrs. John H. Rosentiel, at Detroit; Alice Stone Blackwell, at Boston, and Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, Mrs. Norman De R. Whitehouse and Mrs. F. Louis Slade, of New York.

18-INCH SNOWFALL IN CHICAGO, HEAVIEST ON RECORD

FALL BLOCKS TRAFFIC IN CITY

Five Deaths Reported as Storm Sweeps District; Trains Behind Schedule

International News Service.

CHICAGO, March 26.—Having established a new all-time record for snowfall in this section, Chicago's freak spring blizzard continued unabated today, apparently determined to set a mark that will stand for many years to come.

This afternoon 18.9 inches of snow had fallen here since the storm began at 11:25 p. m. Monday. This exceeded by exactly four inches the heaviest previous snowfall in the history of this section, which took place January 6 and 7, 1918.

Five deaths in the Chicago territory have been directly attributed to the blizzard. The snow swept in on a 60-mile gale which piled it in huge drifts over transportation lines and highways. Traffic and communication were at a standstill.

Many Chicagoans, working in the downtown section, were forced to stay at hotels last night because they could not reach their homes. The same program will have to be followed by hundreds again tonight. Hotels were unable to handle the emergency guests and were forced to provide cots in hallways and corridors. Those turned away slept in offices and wherever they could find accommodations.

Stalled trolley cars and automobiles stood motionless and cloaked in drifts as workers on their way to the downtown district marched in Indian file along the tracks and narrow paths on the sidewalks.

WRECK CREWS WORK

C. N. Evenson, superintendent of transportation of the surface lines, said 40 wreck crews and 40 trucks had been working steadily, but admitted they were so far behind on emergency calls that they had lost track of them.

"Why, even some of our snow plows and sweepers are marooned," Evenson declared.

Through trains were from 5 minutes to one hour and a half late.

Public school officials gave up hope after less than half of the school population had reported at 11 a. m., and closed all grade and high schools at noon.

At 8 a. m., the city had a second shift of 1,000 men at work clearing the downtown district. They replaced 500 men who had worked throughout the night.

STORM HITS ONTARIO

TORONTO, Ont., March 26.—(AP.)—A trail of shattered communication systems, several inches of slushy snow and rising rivers and streams today marked the passage of one of the worst storms in the history of Southern and Central Ontario.

An electrical storm following on the heels of an all-day snow, brought about conditions decidedly treacherous on city streets.

DENTIST FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 26.—(AP.)—Elwyn Bentley, 60, a wealthy retired bank president of Springfield, under bond on charges of practicing dentistry without a license and common assault, was found shot to death in his home here last night. The body was found by his brother, Frank C. Bentley, also a retired banker, clothed in a bathrobe and propped up in a bath tub. He shot himself in the head with a revolver.

Bentley's attorneys had expected to get the charges against the retired banker dismissed under the statute of limitation when it was called in St. Louis Friday, where he was arrested last Thursday on complaint of Mrs. Mildred Rankin, 25. The woman declared Bentley two years ago extracted three of her teeth without her permission after she had agreed to let him clean them.

BAIL REFUSED DRY SLAYER

CLARKSDALE, Miss., March 26.—(AP.)—The fatal wounding of J. L. Doggett, 57, prominent lumberman and planter, in a gun fight with E. S. Chapman, deputy prohibition administrator for Northern Mississippi, was being investigated today by both federal and state authorities.

Charged with murder, Chapman was denied bail and held at an unnamed place. Officers said feeling against him was high.

Police said relations between Doggett and Chapman reached an acute stage in January when A. B. Brister, prohibition agent, was acquitted of possession and sale of liquor. Doggett's name figured in the trial.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP.)—E. S. Chapman will be suspended from the dry service at once, Prohibition Commissioner Doran said today.

"Dueling is out of date," he added.

BILLY SUNDAY'S SON ARRESTED

CHICAGO, March 26.—(INS.)—George M. Sunday, son of Billy Sunday, the noted evangelist, arrested here on a charge of intoxication, was held today for Los Angeles authorities who telegraphed he was wanted there on bond forfeiture and morality charges.

Sunday was picked up in a snowdrift yesterday, according to the police. The prisoner at first gave his name as Smith, but papers and cards in his pocket brought out the later admission that he was the evangelist's son, who left Hollywood, Cal., last November with Mauryne La Salle, cloak model.

The pair were traced to Warsaw, Ind., but no further. Sunday and Miss La Salle face social charges filed by his wife, Mrs. Harriet Sunday, in a Los Angeles court.

2 Billion Budget For New York's Improvements

NEW YORK, March 26.—(INS.)—Expenditure of $2,000,000,000 for public improvements in the next three years was New York City's answer today to men who want work.

Comptroller Charles W. Berry announced at an unemployment hearing before the Board of Estimate that this huge sum was planned for use in municipal construction.

SLOT MACHINES IN FAMILY ROW

Magistrate Thomas Jones learned in Morals Court today that all of the slot machines have not yet been taken out of circulation, when Mrs. Alma Nuehlbronner, of 4031 Stillwell street, appeared against her husband, C. F. Nuehlbronner.

"He's jealous of me, judge," she testified. "And all he does is to spend his money on slot machines. When I send him to the store he uses that money to play the machines, too."

Nuehlbronner admitted that there are still slot machines in the North Side and Woods Run, but he promised to stop playing them. He and his wife left the court room, arm in arm, after he promised to be good.

CHICAGO AGAIN SEEKS CASH

CHICAGO, March 26.—(INS.)—Whether another attempt will be made to dispose of school tax warrants to New York banks in return for emergency cash to run the city schools, is expected to be revealed today by H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the Board of Education.

Following a conference with Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the Citizens' Rescue Committee, Caldwell said last night there probably will be a joint statement issued today.

An accord on a plan which will ultimately result in exchange of warrants for much needed cash, was believed to have been reached.

Caldwell explained that Eastern financiers were willing to close such a deal and, contrary to a common opinion, Chicago bankers are not opposed to the plan although they themselves refused to advance money on the warrants.

2 HURT IN RED RIOT; 10 HELD

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—(AP.)—Ten alleged radicals were under arrest and two persons were nursing injuries today as the result of a minature riot which interrupted an address by Dan Hoan, Socialist mayor of Milwaukee, here last night.

During the address, in which Mayor Hoan was describing Milwaukee's program for working men, Michael Daniels, leader in a disturbance at a meeting of the City and County Board of Supervisors Monday night, rushed toward the platform shouting:

"What have you done for the working man?"

Several of Daniels' followers lined up behind him and pushed toward the platform. The melee ensued. Afterward Hoan finished his speech.

INDIAN TELLS WEIRD TALE OF KILLING

Wrinkled Squaw Shows No Emotion as She Details Slaying of Artist's Wife

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

COURTROOM, BUFFALO, March 26.—While a courtroom jammed with spectators listened in shocked silence, Nancy Bowen, an old, wrinkled Indian crone, told from the witness stand today her own story of how she beat a "witch" to death with a hammer in broad daylight. The "witch" was Mrs. Clothilde Marchand, wife of Henri Marchand, noted artist and sculptor.

The superstitious old Indian woman was testifying at the trial of Miss Lila Jimerson, Indian spinster, who was in love with Marchand and who is accused of having induced old Nancy to commit the crime.

Talking through an Indian interpriter who stood beside the witness chair, Nancy related in a low sing-song voice the grim details of the murder. She told how Lila had bought a hammer at a nearby store and entering the Marchand home alone—the hammer under her coat.

A hush fell over the courtroom when District Attorney Guy B. Moore, the diminutive prosecuter, asked her if she had gone to the home of Mrs. Marchand on March 6, struck her over the head with a hammer, choked her and chloroformed her.

The question was repeated to Nancy by an Indian interpreter who stood at the witness chair.

Her answer came in a throaty gutteral, in the Indian tongue.

The interpreter announced:

"She says yes."

'Judge' Lays Down Nuptial Rules; Weds 900 Pairs

EVANSTON, Ill., March 26.—(AP.)—From the pinnacle of 77 years, Justice of the Peace Samuel Harrison looked back over the 900 marriages he has celebrated in 26 years.

Some of those couples might have made a botch of it, he reflected, but after all, "a bad marriage is better than none."

Here are some of his words of counsel:

"Marry early, but not too often.

"Tell your wife every day: 'I love you.'

"Tell your husband every day: 'How strong you are!' or 'how clever!'

"Do not open each other's letters. You may not like the contents.

"If you must be frank with one another, let it be in private.

"If sometimes it seems hard to be married to him, remember that he has to be married to you.

"Forgive your partner seventy times seven and then throw away the account book."

And a last word to those still thinking about the plunge:

"The foundation of marriage," said Justice Harrison, "should be respect for each other's intelligence instead of admiration for each other's face."

G. O. P. LEADERS IN SCRAMBLE TO DAVIS

return to the fold in order to present a solid front for the Davis-Brown ticket.

KLINE MOVE AWAITED

Mayor Kline, who proclaimed neutrality was expected by some leaders to become the financial and executive director of the Grundy-Lewis campaign here. In the event that he assumes that role, he was expected to make City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley the active campaign manager.

Judge James B. Drew today confirmed a report that nominating petitions for a Superior Court seat were being circulated in his behalf by the Republican City Committee of Philadelphia. William Douglas, Vare leader, is in charge of the petitions indicating Drew will be on the Davis-Brown ticket.

Joseph N. Mackrell, register of wills, is expected to be named western manager of the Davis-Brown slate. He is on a tour of western counties where he was reported fixing the battle lines for the slate.

CAIN FOR SHANNON

Sheriff Robert S. Cain said today that he was not ready to declare his choice of candidates, "except that I will certainly support my old commander, Brig. Gen. E. C. Shannon," who has been slated for lieutenant governor on the Davis-Brown ticket.

Coroner W. J. McGregor said: "I am for the entire Davis-Brown ticket and have been for some time."

Recorder of Deeds S. D. Foster is reported to have decided to support the Davis-Brown ticket but has withheld formal announcement until he confers with W. L. Mellon.

DAVIS TO SPEAK HERE

Secretary Davis will deliver an address Saturday night in Odd Fellows Hall, Second avenue. The meeting is sponsored by various fraternal and labor organizations.

On Sunday night he will speak at the annual Welsh night service in the Church of the Ascension, Ellsworth avenue.

The position of Gov. John S. Fisher is an enigma. Although he appointed Grundy to the Senate, he never has given his indorsement to Lewis. All but one of the state department heads under the Governor favor the Davis-Brown ticket, it is reported, and several cabinet members are openly working for it in their counties.

GRUNDY STILL SILENT

In Washington, when Senator Grundy was asked concerning his campaign plans, he replied: "I have nothing to say." A Washington dispatch stated:

"A possibility was suspected that his evident disgruntled state of mind meant that he was so dissatisfied with what Mellon support could do for him in the face of the already booming campaign of his opponent, Labor Secretary James J. Davis, that he might decide not to run."

Former Gov. Pinchot will address Western Pennsylvania supporters at a luncheon in the William Penn Hotel on Monday. He will arrive here Sunday morning and leave Monday evening. Campaign headquarters will be in the Magee Building, Fourth avenue.

ACT FOR DAVIS IN FAYETTE

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 25.—Fayette county headquarters for the Davis-Brown ticket in the coming Republican primary will be opened here next Monday in the Union Trust Building with G. Orval Rush as campaign chairman.

Rush and other leaders returned yesterday from a conference in Greensburg with Vincent R. Smith, campaign manager for the Davis-Brown slate in Westmoreland county and liaison officer for the ticket in the southwestern counties of the state.

Pinchot Platform Urges 'Roosevelt Square Deal'

PHILADELPHIA, March 26.—Former Gov. Gifford Pinchot's platform, the first announced in the three-cornered race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, promises a Roosevelt square deal to all.

The platform as announced here follows:

"If elected Governor I will use the full power of my office:

"To break the stranglehold of the electric, gas, water, trolley, bus and other public utilities on the cost of living and margin for happiness.

"To free the government of Pennsylvania from combined machine and public utility control.

"To abolish the Public Service Commission. It is the catspaw of the corporations unfaithful to the people and worse than useless.

FAIR RATE BOARD

"To replace it with a Fair Rate Board elected (like our courts) by the people.

"To have the Fair Rate Board elected by districts, so that every part of the state will be represented.

"To review and reduce, through the Fair Rate Board, every unjust rate now charged by any electric, gas, water, trolley, bus, or any other public utility under its authority.

"To give the Fair Rate Board the power and duty, on demand of any householder, to check and correct any electric, gas, water, or other public utility meter.

"To prevent any electric, gas, water, or other public utility from raising any charge or rate until after it has been submitted to, investigated at public hearings, and approved by the Fair Rate Board.

"To revise the public service law so as to make the Fair Rate Board the defender of the people against high rates and poor service.

WOULD CUT TAXES

"To lift the present unjust burden of taxes from the farmer, the home owner and the business man by equalizing taxation throughout the state.

"To give the country people good roads from home to market, church and school, summer and winter.

"To give every child an equal chance for an education, and security in office for competent teachers.

"To abolish the coal and iron police, and replace it with officers selected and commanded by the commonwealth and paid by it at the company expense.

"To prevent the unfair use of labor injunctions.

"To secure old age pensions for the helpless poor.

BID FOR VETERANS

"To prevent all political assessments on state, county, city, borough and other public servants and punish those who solicit them.

"To see that the state assists disabled and neglected ex-service men, who need opportunity most.

"To stop stream pollution, and empower cities, boroughs and townships to protect their own water.

"To lift the tax from small inheritances.

"To secure clean elections in Pennsylvania.

"To maintain and enforce the law.

"I will do my level best to give the children, the workers, the farmers, the farepayers, the ratepayers and the taxpayers a Roosevelt Square Deal."

DAVIS PRAISED BY ARMSTRONG

In announcing his support of the candidacy of James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor in the cabinet of President Hoover, for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, and at the same time promising equal aid to his associates on the ticket, Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, today said:

"I have been asked by a great many people throughout the county concerning my position in the coming contest for the Republican nominations of state officers.

"There is only one answer to this: Jim Davis and I were boys together, were raised together, worked together and have grown up from boyhood as pals.

"At all times when I was attempting to promote myself in life, where Jim could be of assistance to me, he was one of the first to give aid. It was his desire for me to succeed in life as he has and is succeeding.

LAUDS RECORD

"Now that he has an ambition to sit in the United States Senate, I would not be human if I did not do everything within my power for my life-long companion, Jim Davis. There is a feeling and a sentiment between us that never could be interfered with.

"Three Presidents of the United States have called Jim to membership in their cabinets and he continues to sit in the official family of President Hoover. That in itself is ample proof of his ability as a successful public official.

"Educated in the school of hard knocks and practical experience, Jim Davis has risen to the station of life he now occupies. From boyhood and manhood in the rolling mill, he has thrice been called to become a trusted adviser of the President.

"What better training could the people of a great manufacturing state like Pennsylvania desire for the man chosen to represent them in the national law-making body. He knows the needs of all classes, understands their problems and the best method of solving them.

"There is nothing to be said against those other men who have announced their candidacies for the important offices to be filled this year, but the experience Jim Davis has gathered in his years of toil and study make him the favorite son.

PRAISES ASSOCIATES

"In a contest of the character we are entering, it is the practice to make a ticket for the primary representative of the different elements and factions. From what I learn of the men associated with Jim in his undertakings, I find them to be Republicans of high ability and with special qualifications fitting them to administer the offices to which they aspire.

"I am going to take charge of Jim's campaign in Allegheny County, and I want to assure his running mates that I will be as much interested in their success as I am in that of my friend.

"W. L. Mellon and his associates, with whom I have been identified in the last half dozen years in helping to promote their political interests, know that in the making of this statement by me there is nothing which lessens my feeling and admiration for them. They appreciate the personal friendship that binds Jim Davis and Joe Armstrong.

"Mr. Mellon thoroughly understands my position."

Thirsty Thieves Get Drug Store's Liquor

Robbers forced open the door of the drug store owned by Harry Berger, at 6742 Reynolds street, during the night and stole five pints of whisky from the prescription counter. The robbery was discovered when a newsboy found the door open early today and notified police.

Squirrel Hill Home Damaged by Fire

Fire in the three-story stone mansion of Mrs. John Worthington, 5505 Forbes street, early today caused damage estimated at $1,000.

The blaze started from a defective flue leading from the fireplace of the library on the third floor of the residence.

Firemen extinguished the blaze without occupants of the residence being compelled to flee.

2 Raids in Hour Cost Confectioner $100

Casimir Gutesko, whose confectionery store at 104 South Nineteenth street was raided by police twice in two hours yesterday, was fined $100 by Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court today. Twelve others arrested in the store were discharged. Neighbors testified liquor was sold in the place and that they were annoyed by the disorder.

Two Women Fined In Store Thefts

Luby Chestnut, 22, Negro, Mary Singleton, 24, Negro, both of Francis street, were fined $25 each today in Morals Court after police testified that the pair had stolen dresses in Frank & Seder's and Gimbel's stores. Luby was wearing two of the dresses and Mary three when they were arrested in Frank & Seder's, police testified.

Both Stores Open Monday, Wednesday and Saturday Evenings.

Figures prove that the most fashionable wear NATURE'S RIVAL

All the feminine world today is speaking in terms of figures. Over the teacups and across bridge tables one hears a continual exchange of questions: "Where does the waistline really belong?" "How much curve of the hip is fashionable?"

In answer to all such discussions, one need only point out the smart appearance of the women who wear Nature's Rival. Their graceful figures prove that the new costumes are effective only when worn over the right foundation.

Correctly fitted in a Nature's Rival creation, your own body will assume svelte, new-season lines. Spring clothes will fit smoothly in the charming way Paris recommends. And the best part is that this result may be secured with whatever type of garment you wish—Girdle-Brassiere, Bandeau and Circle Sash, Step-in, Tip-Top or Brassiere and Garter Belt.

Expert adjusters in leading department stores and shops of your city will be glad to demonstrate any of these smart styles to you.

SHOW GAIN IN EMPLOYMENT

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP.)—A decrease in unemployment for March—the first gain to be registered since August—was shown by figures made public by the American Federation of Labor, based on trade union reports to President William Green.

Ten of 24 cities to report showed a decrease in unemployment, 10 others reported increases and in four there was no change. The greatest improvement was shown in the figures of the seafaring trades, where unemployment decreased from 38 per cent in February to 27 per cent in March. Mountain unions reported an increase in the number of men out of work from 28 per cent in February to 31 per cent in March. Building trades employed more men; printing and metal trades employed less.

"Even the slight increase in the figure for the country as a whole is cause for optimism as it comes a month sooner than in the unemployment crisis in 1928 when there was no decrease until April," the report said. "Owing to the unusually large number out of work this year, it will undoubtedly be a long time before unemployment reaches normal proportions."

Archbishop Returns From Vatican Meet

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP.)—The Most Rev. Edward J. Hanna, archbishop of San Francisco, returned yesterday on the liner Ile de France from an audience with the Pope in the Vatican.

He said he could not comment on the religious situation in Russia. Once at home in California he intends to discuss marriage and divorce at some length, he said.

16TH WARD MAN SEEKS OFFICE

Edward C. Kroll, of the Sixteenth Ward, a county assessor for 15 years, has announced his candidacy for the Legislature from the Sixth district. He is active for the Republican party on the South Side.

Kroll is past commander of Lincoln Post, No. 296, American Legion, member of A. C. Woestehoff Post, No. 435, Veterans of Foreign Wars, La Societe Des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, and the B. P. O. Elks.

The Sixteenth Ward Polish Republican Organization, professional men, merchants and educators of his district have indorsed Kroll's candidacy.

14 Schools Enter Musical Contest

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 26.—Fourteen high schools of Washington County will compete in the annual musical contest, which will be held at Charleroi, April 11. Judges for the contest will be J. The contest will include solo events for wind instruments, violins and voice, and also glee clubs, mixed choruses and orchestras.

Leader Falls Dead At Royal Concert

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 26.—(AP.)—Wilhelm Poulsen, one of the best-known Danish music conductors, fell dead yesterday while conducting a concert before members of the royal family in the Odd Fellows Palace. Poulsen, who was 43 years old, suffered from heart trouble.

Prized Jefferson Volume on Display

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., March 26.—A copy of Thomas Jefferson's notes on the State of Virginia, written in 1781, printed in Paris in 1782 and presented by Jefferson to the Marquis de La Fayette, has been placed on display in the Brownsville Library by Charles Bar, of Brownsville.

One of the books sold for $5,000 in London last week. The buyer was acting for Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, of Philadelphia.

Kelly Asks Penalty For Poor Addresses

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP.)—The sender of insufficiently addressed mail would be charged a fee of five cents, in addition to regular postage, for directory service by the Postoffice Department under a measure introduced by Representative Kelly (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, a member of the Postoffice Committee.

The measure provided, however, that delivery of the mail should not be delayed pending collection of the charge.

the JOY of LIVING

is founded on Good Health

Did you know that every cubic millimeter of the normal, healthy person's blood should contain about 5,000,000 red corpuscles?

Your joy may depend upon rich, red-blood-cells

A HEALTHY body is vigorous, strong and sound. It is man's and woman's greatest asset. It demands that the red-blood-cells shall not be decreased in number.

The red-blood-cells are its workers—5,000,000 to the cubic millimeter. They give to the blood its color and are carriers of nourishment to every part of the body. Rich, red blood wards off disease. It is very dangerous to let the blood count remain below normal. Even though you have allowed your blood count to get too low, with resulting ill health, you may still be strong and well again.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells, you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin. Naturally, with your strength restored, it is easier to fight disease and infection; to enjoy your food and to sleep soundly. When firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby, you will feel strong—your nerves will become steady—more happiness and friends will follow.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S. S. S. a trial. It promotes healthy body building. It helps Nature build rich, red blood. For more than 100 years S. S. S. has been helping people regain and retain their strength and charm. It is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and is easy to assimilate. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

MARYLAND, 196, CELEBRATES

BALTIMORE, March 26.—(AP)—Maryland celebrated her one hundred ninety-sixth birthday yesterday. Schools and public offices were closed and flags displayed.

A bronze commemorative tablet, the gift of the Peggy Stewart Tea Party Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was unveiled at Annapolis. The placque was presented by Mrs. Daniel M. Garrison, a member of the chapter and vice president of the national organization. It was accepted by Gov. Ritchie.

The day's events were in commemoration of the landing of 200 pilgrims from England at St. Marys in two small ships, the Ark and the Dove.

The Pilgrims of St. Marys, an organization formed two years ago to prepare for the Maryland tercentenary in 1932, celebrated with a banquet in the Lord Baltimore Hotel here. The banquet was addressed by Gov. Ritchie and Archbishop Curley.

Remodel Bridge Made Famous In Flood

JOHNSTOWN, March 26.—The stone bridge made famous by the Johnstown flood of 1889 is the scene of one of the most difficult engineering feats on the Pennsylvania Railroad with the placing of 100-ton concrete and steel slabs to serve as a roadbed.

Slabs are being placed under one track at a time, keeping the main line open to traffic.

Farrell Boasts Three Best Postal Clerks

FARRELL, Pa., March 26.—Farrell has the three best postal clerks in the district from Erie to Pittsburgh, postoffice examiners have announced.

In a recent case examination, Ralph Skuse sorted and correctly placed 759 cards in 18 minutes, obtaining a grade of 100 per cent. Robert Smith cased 758 cards in 23 minutes for 99.86 per cent, and Miss Isabel Strizn cased 755 cards in 24 minutes for 99.47 per cent.

KIN OF DURANT ACCUSES MATE

NEWARK, N. J., March 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Margery D. Cooper, daughter of William C. Durant, financier and industrialist, yesterday appeared before Justice of the Peace Joseph H. E. Scotland and swore out a warrant for her husband, John Hampton Cooper, charging perjury.

Mrs. Cooper, accompanied by her counsel, W. Howard Demarest, asserted that at the time of her marriage to Cooper, a New York broker, he represented himself as single, whereas she stated he had been married before. The couple was married here last April 16 by Mayor Jerome T. Congleton.

The marriage was Mrs. Cooper's third, she having been divorced from her first and second husbands.

Aged Pair, Ill, Choose Death To Parting

BALTIMORE, Md., March 26.—(AP)—An aged couple, in ill health and near poverty, ended their lives, 32 years of which they had spent together, because one could not live without the other.

Police found the bodies of the couple, Harry B. Applewaite, 75, and his wife, Laura, 70, lying in their bed with their throats slashed. Two old razors, the instruments of their double suicide pact, were found lying by their bodies.

On a table beside the bed was a note telling of the fight against ill health and straitened circumstance of the couple. It was written by Mrs. Applewaite and signed by her and her husband, though police said she had done all of the writing.

Mercer Townships Granted Tax Boost

Pittsburgh Health Director Heartily Praises Flaxolyn

Was Positively Astonished By the Good Results. Hasn't Felt So Good In Ten Years. Dr. Luntz's Flaxolyn Pepped Him Up Wonderfully.

Director Paul F. Koerner, of the Roosevelt Health Studio, at the Roosevelt Hotel Building, Pittsburgh. Mr. Koerner is a great believer in Flaxolyn since he found it did him so much good personally. He speaks highly of it to the many health-seekers who patronize his interesting establishment.

Constipation That Troubled Me Since 1921, Has Gone! Appetite Greatly Improved. Sleep Much Better.

Here is another case of a man who has found that exercise alone cannot always bring physical fitness, particularly when the toxins of constipation are harbored in the body.

"I am happy to say that I can honestly recommend Flaxolyn very highly," declares Mr. Paul Koerner.

"Take my own case, for instance. Since 1921, I had suffered with chronic constipation. My nights were a misery due to the fact that I couldn't sleep.

"Having read about Flaxolyn in one of the Pittsburgh papers, I bought a bottle and took a tablespoonful twice a day. The results within a short time, were really astonishing to me. I began to feel like a new human being.

"Flaxolyn 'pepped' me up wonderfully. My appetite improved. I sleep soundly at night. I feel better all around. Hundreds of my friends have complimented me on my improved physical health. I certainly am grateful to Dr. Luntz for Flaxolyn, and I am glad to do my bit toward urging every reader to give Flaxolyn a good trial."

These Doctors Want You to Know Why They Openly Advise the Steady Use of Herbal Flaxolyn.

"NOTHING CAN COMPARE WITH FLAXOLYN"

Dr. Rodney Madison says: "About four years ago, while practicing in California, I began to use Flaxolyn. The results were so satisfactory, I recommended it to a large number of people suffering from various types of ailments. In every single case, I got nothing but the most sincere praise for the splendid health improvement Flaxolyn brought.

"Nothing can compare with the pleasant new vitaminized Flaxolyn."

WOMAN DOCTOR RECOMMENDS ONLY FLAXOLYN

Dr. Margaret Nesbitt, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "I am glad to recommend Flaxolyn because I have found that it assists Nature to perform her functions in a normal manner. I have had particular success with it in conditions arising from digestive disorders."

"FLAXOLYN A TESTED AND PROVEN FORMULA," SAYS DR. METTE

"I have been using Flaxolyn with great success," says Dr. H. K. Mette of Phila. "It is a thoroughly remarkable formula. I started to use Flaxolyn because I heard about it from a number of drugless doctors throughout the country who had tested it and found its action on the human system to be far above that of any other similar preparation. Flaxolyn has natural merits."

The Basic Formula of Dr. Luntz's Flaxolyn Compound Is the Result of 25 Years Devoted to the Study of Botanical Therapy

Every since the days when Dr. Luntz worked night and day in his little office on 13th Street, Philadelphia, Flaxolyn has been on trial with the profession and with the general public.

Flaxolyn has come through that trial most honorably—as shown by the international praise it has won. Chemists may seek to imitate Flaxolyn by taking the very same ingredients in Flaxolyn. Yet it would be utterly impossible to combine them with the same degree of balance and potency which Dr. Luntz has achieved in this unique formula.

If you are a user of Flaxolyn, have full confidence in it—continue its use steadily until you are fully satisfied with the improvement in your health and appearance. If you have never yet tried Flaxolyn, now is the time to do so. Dr. Luntz's personal guarantee which enables you to make a free test of Flaxolyn—if it doesn't do you good, by the sixth spoonful, your money is refunded.

FREE TEST OF FLAXOLYN

Hand this to any druggist, together with your deposit covering the cost of a bottle of Vitaminized Herbal Flaxolyn.

If you are not convinced yourself that Flaxolyn has done you good by the sixth pleasant spoonful, you may return the partly used bottle and get your money back. Certainly Flaxolyn must be a wonderful formula to enable Dr. Luntz to make this liberal offer.

MONACA BLAZE ROUTS SCORES

MONACA, Pa., March 26.—Ten families were homeless today as a result of a fire which swept the Keystone Building, Ninth street and Pennsylvania avenue, a two-story brick structure in the heart of the business section, late last night. The loss was estimated at $30,000 by Assistant Fire Chief George Dietrick.

The building housed the postoffice, a chain grocery and the Consolidated Wallpaper Store on the first floor, and McClain's Pool Room in the basement. Occupants of 10 apartments on the second floor were forced to leave hurriedly when the flames were discovered.

Stock and equipment of the grocery and pool room were destroyed, Dietrick said, while the wallpaper concern sustained heavy loss. The postoffice and apartments were damaged, principally by smoke and water, firemen reported.

Police today were investigating the cause of a fire which damaged the home of George Yonish, of 26 Miller road, Aliquippa, early today. Flames damaged the rear rooms of the first floor to the extent of $500, according to a police report.

LINK ORIENT IN WATZL TRAGEDY

VIENNA, March 26.—The mysterious philosophy and fatalism of the Orient played a part in the tragic careers of Dr. Ernest Watzl, Cleveland (O.) and Austrian chemist and inventor, and his bigamous wife, the former Mrs. Mary McGranahan, of Cleveland, who were found dead in a suicide pact in a once-fashionable hotel here.

Dr. Watzl shot Mrs. McGranahan, then turned the gun upon himself, according to the police. Among a mass of correspondence left behind was a letter to Dr. Richard Bernkop, official of the Austrian ministry of education and a former war comrade of the dead man, which revealed that the couple had tasted of oriental mysticism and that the philosophy of the East played a part in their tragic end.

Inventor Convict, Freed, Admits Robbery

ERIE, Pa., March 26.—(AP.)—Carl Mueller, 47, who was pardoned from a state penitentiary a year ago as a reward for an invention which the state applied to the manufacture of automobile license plates, pleaded guilty to robbery and was sentenced to four to eight years. The plant of a dry cleaning company here was the place robbed by Mueller.

Husband, Nephews, Nieces Share Estate

The will of Mary T. Kramer, of the Aberdeen apartments, Bayard street, was admitted to probate today. After leaving bequests to six nephews and a niece, she leaves the residue of her $20,000 estate to her husband, T. C. Kramer.

IF BACK HURTS FLUSH KIDNEYS

Drink Plenty Water and Take Glass of Salts Before Breakfast Occasionally.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

M'FADDEN NEXT D. A. R. SPEAKER

By MRS. LOWELL FLETCHER HOBART

President General, Daughters of the American Revolution.
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The fifth speaker on the patriotic radio program of the D. A. R. will be Congressman Louis T. McFadden, of Pennsylvania, who will speak on a coast-to-coast hook-up of the National Broadcasting Company at 5:30 p. m. Eastern Standard time, Thursday.

Congressman McFadden's subject will be "Straight Thinking in International Affairs."

In many recent articles in newspapers and magazines Mr. McFadden has expounded beliefs and facts in wide variance from accepted theories of international relations particularly in the field of international finance.

His stand on these subjects has attracted much public attention and his speech is being awaited with interest by students of world banking and political relations.

Previous speakers on the D. A. R. program have been Brig. Gen. Henry J. Reilly, former Senator George Wharton Pepper, of Pennsylvania, former Ambassador Richard Washburn Child and Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, member of Congress from Illinois.

OPPOSE PARDON FOR CARREN

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 26.—Members of the Pardon Board were not favorably disposed today about showing clemency to Milton L. Carren, 44, former payroll clerk of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, under sentence for stealing $15,000 from the company November 22, 1929.

Carren was paroled when brought into court to face the charge, but was sentenced to from 18 months to three years in the penitentiary five days later for alleged threats against J. L. Dashiell, company efficiency expert.

"We can't turn a man like this loose on society," Attorney General Woods said in commenting on the threats Carren is accused of making to secure $2,000 from Dashiell.

Lieut. Gov. James said that the application for pardon is "a little premature" since he has been in jail a little more than two months.

Chinese Earthquake Recorded in London

LONDON, March 26.—(AP.)—A considerable earthquake was reported at Kew Observatory today. The first impulse was received at 7:32 a. m. The record indicated that the epicentre was in Southwest China.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP.)—The seismograph at Fordham University registered several minor quakes over a three-hour span this morning. It was estimated the quakes were in the vicinity of Newfoundland.

Trade Board Holds Bellevue Banquet

More than 200 persons last night attended the annual banquet of the Bellevue Board of Trade held in the auditorium of the Bellevue Young Men's Christian Association. George H. Quaill was the toastmaster. Speakers were William B. Rodgers, W. H. Newmyer and the Rev. J. B. Magee, pastor of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church. Park H. Martin, candidate for state senate, Joseph Gould was the humorist of the evening.

Bill Would Admit Alien Parents Of Citizens

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP.)—A measure to exempt from the immigration quota fathers and mothers of naturalized Americans was approved by the House Immigration Committee after both were made to apply only to persons not over 50 years of age.

The bill introduced by Representative Dickstein, D., N. Y., New York, was designed to eliminate hardship to families through separation forced by Virginia law. The committee held that persons over 50 years of age would not become satisfactorily competitive with American labor and should be barred.

Lamont's Son Sued In Auto Accident

DENVER, March 26.—(AP.)—Robert P. Lamont, Jr., son of the Secretary of Commerce, was made defendant in a $25,000 damage suit filed in District Court here by Jewel A. Ball, the plaintiff claims the damages for injuries she suffered when struck by Lamont's car here recently. Young Lamont was on a large ranch near Lariat, Colo.

Workman Beaten And Robbed of $600

W. T. Giltz, of 820 Lockhart street, reported to North Side police that while he was en route to work at 5 a. m. today two men stopped him at Lockhart and Cedar avenue, beat him and took $600. At Allegheny General Hospital, he was treated for a fractured rib and a cut on the head.

HUSBAND FREED IN KILLING

Leora McKay, 14, before a coroner's jury today testified that while two men held her father on the floor of their home in Wireton, her mother kicked him in the face three times with the high French heels of her shoes.

The father, Charles McKay, 41, was arraigned at the inquest into the death of Arthur Lewis, 21, of New Sheffield, Pa., and the jury found that McKay was justified in shooting Lewis, who was one of the two men. McKay was freed.

He shot Lewis following the scuffle and after he had accused Lewis of trying to break up his home, according to testimony.

Withers Now Sued For Auto Crash

LOS ANGELES, March 26.—(AP.)—Grant Withers, film player whose recent marriage to Loretta Young, motion picture actress, brought an alimony suit from a former wife and objections from his bride's mother, was sued in Superior Court here for $55,000 damages as a result of an automobile collision last January.

The damage suit was brought by the parents of three girls and two boys hurt in the accident. The complaint charged that Withers drove his machine into the youngsters' car.

To women who are particular , , ,

BEING particular is thoroughly modern. Being particular gives us better automobiles, better radios, better homes.

Why not be particular about bread? You eat it three times a day, every day in the year.

The new Mother Hubbard Bread is meant for particular people, modern people, people who want the very best.

Mother Hubbard Bread is the perfected loaf—made of a blend of Northwestern short patent flour, pure milk, sugar, shortening, salt, yeast—everything of the same high quality you would use yourself. And Mother Hubbard Bread is so skilfully baked that every important feature of bread has been brought to the highest degree of perfection.

Ask for this perfected loaf—Mother Hubbard Bread—at your dealer's, and welcome it to a permanent place in your home.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor

IN THE cabin of the trawler Spray at anchor in New York Harbor the cast of the Forty Fathom Trawlers will present their regular sketch tonight at 8:30 o'clock. Short wave equipment will be used by the Columbia System in conveying the program to WJAS and network.

Colored washing strung on a clothes line outside a chateau during the Chemin des Dames salient in France gave German artillery the signal for firing on American troops when they marched over the "Sunken Road" a camouflaged passageway to the front lines. How Maj. C. E. Russell discovered this deceit on the part of a supposedly friendly innkeeper will be revealed at 10 p. m. in the Philco Hour from WJAS.

Parsons

KDKA will have the National High School Orchestra at 10 while WCAE at 10:30 will present Stewart Maiden, the golf professional who discovered Bobby Jones.

Rosita, the Penco mule, will start her trip to the states tonight when WJAS broadcasts at 7:30. Jo Tyler's Orchestra will be the ship's musical complement.

H. R., of New Kensington, reports that he saw an automobile with license plates "2LO," the London call.

We wonder what kind of a car drew "2X4."

Miss E. Miller, 1014 Morrison avenue—1. Yes. 2. Gene and Glenn play all the parts in the Puritan Malt program.

* * *

Virginia Harmon is recovering rapidly and is scheduled for an early appearance with the Little Symphony over KDKA.

Will Rogers, independent candidate for president, will broadcast through KDKA Sunday night at 8.

Ben Alley, staff tenor at Columbia, is a product of Alderson, W. Va.

TODAY'S TID BIT.

Ted Prendergast's acute ear is responsible for this one.

When Peter Higgins, tenor, sang "Mother Machree" on the RKO Hour, he slipped in a cute "Hello Ma," for his mother in Pittsburgh. Higgins is a very fine boy and a product of Pittsburgh radio.

AIR-RAIL TICKET PACT MADE

BERLIN, March 26 (AP)—Interchangeability of air and rail tickets throughout Europe is within sight as a result of the acceptance of the Deutsche Luft-hansa's interchangeability system—already in operation throughout Germany by the Passenger Traffic Subcommittee of the International Railway Union.

Providing the committee's action is ratified at the next plenary session of the railway union, travelers in Europe next summer will be able to buy air passage to any point in Europe with the assurance that, if it rains or for other reasons it seems better to start or continue a journey by train, the unused portion of the ticket need only be exchanged for rail passage at the nearest station.

Banish PIMPLY Sallow Skin

Lift the Ugly Veil of Blemishes

Beneath the surface lies radiant complexion beauty, ready and waiting to give the charm of glowing health to the skin—clear, silken, soft, fine-textured and warmly colored—just as soon as the basic cause of blemishes is removed.

Pimples, acne, sallowness, blotches, and dull, pasty complexions all too frequently result from intestinal stasis—an internal sluggishness that poisons the entire system. A toxic blood-stream feeds impurities to the skin tissues. Infections and blemishes flourish. Such a condition is septic, and bodily resistance is low. Disease finds a septic system easy prey.

Correction is often easy—if the condition is due to constipation. But septics seldom know. No one will tell you of a fetid breath or body odor. But your mirror will reveal these skin blemishes—Nature's signals of a septic system.

Three Days Will Often Work A Marvelous Change

Try this week-end test: A few tiny calcium wafers (Stuart's) will supply the elements that Nature may need. Speedily everything will be made sweet and clean, inside as well as out. A purified system often shows immediately. Eyes Bright! Skin Clear—soft, smooth and warm with color! Let one dime open this easy way to skin beauty and health.

Anthony H. Trimble.

Funeral services for Anthony H. Trimble, 72, of 48 South Euclid avenue, Bellevue, president of the Superior Fire Insurance Company, who died yesterday, will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of his brother, W. L. Trimble, 49 South Euclid avenue. The Rev. Dr. James M. Ferguson, pastor of the Bellevue United Presbyterian Church, of which Mr. Trimble was a member, will have charge. He was a member of Bellevue School Board for many years and was connected with numerous business enterprises of the North Side. He leaves two sons, W. F. Trimble, Jr., of Bellevue, and T. Lee Trimble, Newark, N. J.; four daughters, Mrs. Mary Wolfe, Mrs. Helen Kipp, Mrs. Margaret McKnight and Miss Eleanor Trimble; two sisters, Miss Mary and Miss Annette Trimble, and five brothers, Judge Thomas P. Trimble, of Orphans Court; W. L., Charles P., Robert D. and Alexander F. Trimble.

Mrs. Jeanie Collins

Mrs. Jeanie Collins, 58, of Union avenue, Bellevue, died in St. John's Hospital Tuesday. She was a member of Forest Avenue United Presbyterian Church and Craigielea Lodge, Daughters of Scotia. Mrs. Collins was born in Glasgow, Scotland. She leaves her husband, Matthew Collins; two daughters, Miss Anna and Miss Margaret, and three sons, John, Matthew and Thomas Collins.

Robert G. Vandervort.

Robert Gilleland Vandervort, 75, of 540 Marie avenue, Avalon, for more than 50 years an architect in Pittsburgh, died Monday in his home. He was a member of the Allegheny Council No. 445, Royal Arcanum. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary Christina Wilson Vandervort; two daughters, Miss Roberta G. Vandervort at home and Mrs. George E. Nichlas, of Bellevue, and four grandchildren.

Henry A. Ksensky.

Henry A. Ksensky, 72, died Monday in his home, 350 Saybrook apartments, Craft avenue. He was born in Troy, N. Y., but came to Pittsburgh 50 years ago. He had been an employe of Frank & Seder Company since coming to this city. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Hattie Markstone Ksensky; two sisters, Miss Jessie Ksensky and Mrs. M. Rothschild, both of Denver, Col.; and four brothers, Joseph, Solomon and Louis Ksensky, of Denver, and Moe Ksensky, of Troy, N. Y.

Wetzel Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Bertha Louise Wetzel, 56, who died Monday, will be held tomorrow from the home of a son, 1510 Nobles Lane, Carrick. Mrs. Wetzel was a member of the Lutheran Church. She leaves a daughter, Mrs. William Brewer, of Beaumont, Tex.; five sons, Charles W., Harry L., Edward G., Theodore Roosevelt and Robert J. Wetzel; one brother, William Johnston, and one sister, Mrs. Maude Bechtold, of Los Angeles, Cal.

Miller Funeral.

Funeral services for Thomas Holmes Miller, 78, who died Monday in his home, 1911 Webster avenue, will be held tomorrow. Burial will be private in the Miller-Hampton vault, Allegheny cemetery. Mr. Miller, a life-long resident of Pittsburgh, formerly was a councilman from the Fifth ward. For more than 20 years, he served as assistant chief ordinance officer of the city.

A GREAT DISCOVERY

MORE than half a century ago, the discovery was made that emulsification helped make cod-liver oil easy to take and digest. It is the adaptation of this principle in

Health Means Clear Skin

"For nine years I was troubled with acne. I tried everything I could think of and everything people told me but it didn't do any good. Last winter a nurse where I was working told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build up my system from the inside, so I did. When I had taken three bottles my face was 95% better. I kept on and now I haven't a single pimple on my face, chest or back."—Mary L. Heinitz, Carrington, North Dakota.

NEWS FROM BROADWAY AND FILM CAPITAL; LOCAL AMUSEMENT NOTES

About Hollywood's Sick List, Restaurant And Mr. Brown

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.

SICK list: Benny Rubin. Flu. Laura Hope Crewe (head dem of Gloria Swanson productions). Flu with a pneumonia threat. The weather is a bit treacherous, these pippy March days.

DOROTHY DALTON (Mrs Arthur Hammerstein) and Blanche Sweet lunching at the Assistants League. Mrs Benjamin Glazer waiting on table. This department boldly reports that Mrs Glazer remonstrated with her victims because they demanded much service.

Whereupon, in due course, Evelyn Brent, Vivienne Segal and Rita (Mickey) Flynn marched in and sat down at another of Mrs. Glazer's tables. Alice Blanche Sweet (Mrs. G.) importuned them to order a plate luncheon. Indeed, such an eloquent sales talk this scribbler has yet to hear equaled. The secret leaked a few minutes later. Mrs. Abe Lehr, now in charge of the Assistants League's restaurant, said it was easier to serve the plate luncheon than independent orders. It was then tactfully suggested by Miss Segal that Mrs. Lehr fire Alice, but Ann was cautious. She must confer with her lawyer first to learn if a volunteer waitress can be fired.

JOE SCORES AGAIN

PERHAPS the greatest fun hit made in a flick in a decade was scored by Joe E. Brown in the local premier of "Hold Everything." Joe tucked that musiker into his vest pocket and took it into headlines. The prize-fight sequence is guaranteed to throw the most hard-boiled into such convulsions of laughter that hiccoughs threaten.

Joe E. Brown

Joe was accompanied to the premier by his two sons, Donald and Robert (I think). Mrs. Brown was unable to come as she is convalescing from a recent operation.

After the picture was ended, on the way out Beulah Livingstone remarked to one of the boys:

"Wasn't your father splendid?"

The lad nodded solemnly. "I thought he was real keen!"

CHANCE TO TALK MORE

BUSTER WEST rises to explain he has gone five-reel because "it gives me a chance to talk more." West was assigned a part in Gloria Swanson's picture, "What A Widow!" I heard the assignment was cancelled.

AN UNSUNG HERO

"LEAVE it to Murphy." Frank Murphy. The unsung hero of the Warner lot. Whenever anything electrical or microphonic goes wrong, the lot yells for Murphy. And Murphy fixes it. He's a young chap. Modest. Uncomfortable when praised. Years ago, when Sam Warner started making short talkie subjects and handed Broadway its first laugh (Sam and his brothers relished the last laugh), Murphy was given the job of head man. Murphy is reckoned to be a born electrical engineer genius. He's no university graduate. He doesn't draw blue prints. He can't read 'em. He goes ahead and does it pronto when the experts opine it'll take months. Other companies have offered Murphy more money and a more flaunty title. He isn't interested. In addition to his other unusual traits, Murphy happens to be loyal.

OFF FOR A REST

LOUISE FAZENDA treks to a sanitorium in Santa Barbara today. Idea: To get a lil' rest. That Fazenda dame would be a busy flickerite if she were triplets.

NOW that Louis B. Mayer's daughter, Edythe, has married Bill Goetz, interesting human stories drift from the wedding party. The one that impressed this department most was the Mayers invited their butler and their cook (they've been with the family for years) to the wedding. They were guests and they had a lovely time.

One of Them

Connellsville Pair Married 50 Years

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., March 26.—Surrounded by children and grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Shearer celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary. Nine children, 42 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren are living.

Makeshift Rig Of Racer Drills Oil Well

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 26.—Using a water well driller and the engine of a discarded automobile, Joseph Heidlemeyer, automobile racer, has turned oil operator, making a strike in the Dunkard sand which it is estimated will result in a 10 to 15-barrel producer.

The well was drilled by Heidlemeyer on the George Bedilling farm, just south of this city. Methods employed by him in sinking the well are the most unique in recent years.

NEWS REEL OCCUPIES EXALTED PLACE IN THEATERS

The amazing popularity of the news reel is the sensation of the motion picture industry today. Never before has it occupied such an exalted position. Never before have theaters allotted so much time on their programs to the news reel as they are doing today.

Sound has done much to bring the talking news reel into the splendid position it now holds. When the Hearst news reels secured the first motion pictures ever made of a Pope, and permitted the world to visualize the movements of the Holy Father in the Vatican, it was a long step forward in the way of progress.

When Hearst Metrotone News secured the first talking motion pictures ever made of John D. Rockefeller, permitting the public not only to familiarize themselves with his actions, but also to hear his voice and the words of wisdom he spoke, the ultimate had been accomplished. Mr. Rockefeller is only one of a score of famous personalities to be brought before the public by Hearst Metrotone News.

SUCCESS OF METROTONE

The success of Hearst Metrotone News, now in the seventh month of its existence, has been truly phenomenal. Affiliated with the 28 Hearst newspapers, whose ramifications extend to every quarter of the civilized globe and which are read by more than 20,000,000 persons every day, Hearst Metrotone News is enabled to bring to the public the news of the world in sound and action with almost unbelievable rapidity. With more than 65 recording units located throughout the world, news events, personalities, strange people and remarkable countries are becoming as familiar today to the American theatergoer as are the sights and sounds of his home town. It is an interesting fact that since Hearst Metrotone News was established it has shown pictures from 24 foreign countries and from every part of the United States and Canada.

INTRODUCES NOTABLES

Among the oustanding personages who have appeared in Hearst Metrotone News are the following: King Michael, of Rumania; King Albert, of Belgium; the Prince of Wales; Queen Elena, of Italy; Winston Churchill, Henry L. Stimson, King Gustave, of Sweden; Queen Elizabeth, of Belgium; Glenna Collett, Henry Ford, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, John D. Rockefeller, President Hoover, King George, of England; Premier Mussolini, Babe Ruth, Alfred E. Smith, Charles E. Hughes, Mayor James J. Walker, the King of Afghanistan, Princess Marie Jose, of Belgium; Julius Rosenwald, Charles M. Schwab, Aristide Briand, of France; Vice President Charles Curtis, Pasquale Ortiz Rubio, president of Mexico; Andre Tardieu, of France; President Cosgrave, of Ireland; King Victor Emmanuel, of Italy; Emperor and Empress Hirohito, of Japan; Dr. Albert Einstein, Helen Wills, Thomas A. Edison, Sir Esme Howard, Nicholas Longworth, Crown Prince Umberto, of Italy; Calvin Coolidge, Bernard Shaw and many others. The two issues of Hearst Metrotone News each week are released to theaters on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

The Fox-Hearst Corporation, which issues Hearst Metrotone News and Fox Movietone News, is responsible for the establishment in New York City of the first news reel theater in the world. In this theater, Hearst Metrotone News and Fox Movietone News are shown exclusively to approximately 40,000 persons each week.

O'NEILL'S NINE ACTS; 'MERRY WIDOW' COMING

Eugene O'Neill's nine-act drama, "Strange Interlude," begins a two-week engagement in the Nixon Monday night. It will be presented by a company of the Theater Guild's own metropolitan players. Performances begin at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon and there is an intermission for dinner.

Seats go on sale in the Alvin box office tomorrow morning for the one-week engagement, commencing Monday evening, of "The Merry Widow," that sovereign mistress of operettas. The continental star, Beppie de Vries, has the title role and Donald Brian is the original Prince Danilo, appearing in the same role which made him famous.

Gladys Unger, author of "Two Girls Wanted," next week's attraction of the George Sharp Players in the Pitt, was better known as a translator and a play doctor, until she turned her attention to writing herself. "Two Girls Wanted" brought her fame in a new field.

Special Dinners for Nixon Play Patrons

With the opening of the "Strange Interlude" next Monday, the management of the Nixon Restaurant has made arrangements to serve a special dinner during the intermission between 7:40 and 9 p. m. Ben Pollack, orchestra leader of New York, will succeed Ben Bernie next week.

New Holmes Travel Offering Tonight

Burton Holmes' second travel presentation in his current series will be given this evening in the Carnegie Music Hall. His subject will be "Motoring Through France, from the Pyrenees to Brittany."

Spend Less than You Make

A Savings Account is the Green Light to Go Ahead

by

Irvin F. Lehman
Vice-President and Director
Blaw-Knox Company

Mr. Irvin F. Lehman's early business experience was acquired in his father's business, the firm of Lehman & Kingsbaker. While interested in that business and giving to it the best of his abilities, he was also alert to the possibilities of Pittsburgh's great industry, Steel, and its fast development. He became deeply interested in patents then being developed on Water Cooled Devices for Open Hearth and High Temperature Furnaces. He helped organize the Knox Pressed & Welded Steel Company, which grew rapidly and in 1917 merged with the Blaw-Knox Company. Mr. Lehman has given freely of his time and effort to solve the problems of human welfare through philanthropic work.

In presenting this series of editorials, the Union Savings Bank wants to show what Pittsburgh's leading business and professional men think about the value of Thrift and Saving. As Mr. Lehman says, money in the bank means opportunity—to get ahead in business, to travel, to educate your children, to buy a home.

Save regularly, even if you can only save small amounts. It is easy to save for special things by joining the Purpose Club at the Union Savings Bank. If you haven't heard about this pleasant method of accumulating money, come in and ask about it at the Club Department near the Grant Street entrance.

IT is easy to see that in order to be happy you must spend less than you make—and save the difference. A few dollars saved regularly every week makes a reserve fund that is always ready when you need it. But if you continually spend a few dollars more than you make, worry and debt surely result. A Savings Account is the green light to Go Ahead. Don't put it off until tomorrow, thinking that your income will increase or that your expenditures will miraculously decrease—Save now. Then you will find safety, pleasure and opportunity.

REQUIEM

LOVE is sleeping a long deep sleep.
Love is peaceful and quite serene.
Take my hand, it is time to creep
Tip-toe now from the somber scene.

All my roses are old and dead.
All the night is a maze of quiet
Now when beauty has strangely fled
Who so bold as to dance and riot?

Shed no tears for the times now past.
Love will waken for you again,
Even if roses fail to last
Who can say that they bloomed in vain?

You will rise to a sweeter day
Quite content that our vows took flight;
Wish me well as I take my way—
Turn and whisper "Good-night. Good-night!"

EAVESDROPPED

IT was in front of a Times Square hotel and a newcomer was being wised up to the local big shots. "Now see that guy," said the Broadwayite, "he's one of the biggest suckers in town. He owns five apartment houses and has millions, but what a chump! And that guy over there is another sap. The chorus girls take him at will, but he owns the bank on the corner and is crummy with coin."

Walter Winchell

The conversation was interrupted by a lad who asked the Broadwayite to lend him a five spot.

"And who's that feller?" asked the newcomer after the touch was made.

"The smartest cheater in town," was the devastating reply. "You ought to see what that guy can do with a deck of cards!"

NIFTY

The best of the recent "Forms of Criticism" was Jefferson Machamer's, who chirped, "I thought the '9:15 Revue' was awful, I saw it five times."

"If you thought it was awful, why did you see it five times?"

"I jus' went there to cough!"

IN FEWER WORDS

IF the success magazines only told the truth a lot of men with "both feet on the ground" take orders from a guy with both feet on the desk.

AS A MATTER OF FACT

Harry Evans, Life's movie oracle, covers the flicker "Men Without Women" in the March 21 number and says in part: ". . . the principals include Kenneth MacKenna, Farrell MacDonald and Walter McGrail—practically an all-Jewish cast."

Well, as one kidder to another, and all joking aside, Kenneth MacKenna's real tag is Leo Mielziner.

NEWSPAPERGAL STUFF

GREATER love hath no woman than to help a sister in distress. A palm analyst for a local newspaper, however, crossed her friend in need during the recent trial of Gladys Mae Parks Baker, the Camden baby murderess. The palm reader was assigned there to bring back a print of the woman's hand and, not being able to make the connection and afraid that failure would cost her the job, begged a sob sister on the same staff to let her make a print of her paw. The sobbie agreed and the palmist passed it off as that of the murderess. This was okay with the sob sister until she discovered that her hand, according to the reader, revealed "the split head line, a sign of insanity, crime and unstabilized emotions."

To this day the sob sister refuses to tell where she has hidden the palmist's body.

FACT

After a girl has been on Broadway two years they refer to her in this manner: "She's a nice girl—wasn't she?"

PETERKIN PEPIGRAMS

JULIA ("SCARLET SISTER MARY") PETERKIN and Mary Rennels, the book critic who just became a bride, recently met in Chicago. The following Peterkin observations are forwarded by Mary: Texas Guinan is only an example of arrested mental development . . . yellow freezia is the loveliest of all flowers, it is like a love affair . . . New York is humming with bone-cracking noises . . . there is little enough joy in the world without people prohibiting things.

HE PLAYS THE FUNNIES

Izzy Kaplan, of the staff, can make up a sentence with the words "welfare" and "horsehair" like this: "Welfare crying out loud, look horsehair!"

O, MR. WILSTACH

SUGGESTIONS for Frank J. Wilstach's simile dictionary: Katharine Brush's, "Her shoes left muddy marks, toe and heel, like fat exclamation points on the parquet" . . . Nancy Barr Mabity's, "His smile was like the hard smoothness of cake-icing about to crack" . . . Kessinger's, "Man is like a thermometer: Make things hot enough for him at the bottom and he'll climb" . . . Harry Beresford's, "Useless as a waste basket in Scotland."

OOP!

IT is only fair to warn those readers that the column is usually tiffing with this night club or that rendezvous and that it will do nobody any good to use the name of Winchell to curry any favor. Take the joint in Greenwich Village which has served as a target. It is a third-rate dive, anyway, and we have scored it frequently. Little wonder, then, that when a couple went into the joint last night and said to the waiter:

"It's okay, we know Winchell," that the aggrieved hostess bellowed: "Friends of Winchell, eh? Charge them double!"

MERCILESS TRUTH

A vaudevillian who hasn't had a good season in the past 10 went up to view the remains of the late E. F. Albee.

"Mr. Albee, please," he said to the funeral director.

"To your left," was the reply.

"Gee," almost choked the trouper who was about to sit down and wait, "this is the first time they ever let me in that quick."

No More Sleepless Nights

No more sleepless nights caused by "NERVES." No more tense, wakeful hours with every nerve "on edge" . . . and the miserable morning that follows. When your "NERVES" are overstrained—when they keep you awake at night . . . do as thousands of other nervous men and women do to get sound, restful sleep.

Before you go to bed, drop a Dr. Miles' Effervescent NERVINE Tablet into a glass of water. You'll like the sparkling effervescent drink it makes. Effervescent NERVINE Tablets are safe and harmless. In them the time-tested Dr. Miles' NERVINE formula is combined with bicarbonate of soda and citric acid which tend to correct acidosis—a frequent cause of nervousness. Usually one or two NERVINE Tablets will quiet your "NERVES" and bring welcome relaxation and sleep.

You'll Get Relief or Your Money Back

To prove what satisfying relief Effervescent NERVINE Tablets give for sleeplessness and most other nervous troubles, we make you this liberal offer. Get a package at your drug store and try them. Attractive House Dress

Pattern 292

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

One needs many cotton frocks for morning household duties and for summer wear and the simpler they are the more attractive. The model sketched today has one inverted pleat that affords ample fullness in the skirt. The long rolled collar and pointed vestee create becoming lines. The short kimona sleeves are very comfy.

Design 292 makes up delightfully in percale, gingham, pongee, cotton broadcloth, dimity, etc. Tiny, colorful designs on white grounds are crisp and neat, and trim so nicely with white pique.

Designed only for sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 36-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

'JAKE' SUPPLY FIRM RAIDED

ST. LOUIS, March 26.—(AP.)—The Norris Products Company was raided last night by federal prohibition officials upon receipt of information that Jamaica ginger sold by a St. Louis firm was found in communities in the South where numerous cases of paralysis have been attributed to the drinking of such a beverage.

The dry agents seized a quantity of Jamaica ginger after buying a small quantity as evidence. They ordered John C. Norris, 70-year-old proprietor of the company, to appear today in Federal Court to answer charges of violating the dry law.

New Tri-Motored Plane Record Set

Success Came Late in Life

"For the first time in years I am able to eat the things I like without becoming nauseated, and suffering cutting pains afterward, and lying awake hour after hour unable to sleep," says Mrs. Marion L. Foenges of 509 Cass St., Chicago. "Ever since I started taking Acidine I am clear of all that. At first I took a dose after each meal. Now I take one at night and another after I get up—my stomach is so sweet I am eating whatever I want, and my nerves are calm, now."

That shows how easy it is for people with a sick, sour stomach to help themselves now. It is usually caused by excessive acidity from failure to digest starchy foods. Acidine liquifies the scouring mass, sweetens the stomach, the inflammation is soothed and the tension on the nerves is relieved. Try Acidine, it tastes good and costs so little at any drug store.

A Gift from GOOD HOUSEKEEPING!

EVERYWOMAN'S MAGAZINE

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING, as its contribution to National Good Housekeeping Week, March 25 to April 1, gives with April GOOD HOUSEKEEPING a 12-page Bulletin of New Ideas for Spring Housekeeping and Happy Homemaking.

346 pages of entertainment and help in April GOOD HOUSEKEEPING

FASHIONS: A cable from Worth, the famous couturier, appears in April GOOD HOUSEKEEPING. It gives American women the keynote to the new mode.

April GOOD HOUSEKEEPING's Fashion pages present the Paris Openings—models that combine smartness and simplicity . . . important news of the spring silhouettes; the new colors and fabrics; clothes for street, afternoon and evening wear; sweaters and blouses . . . what the 1930 bride will wear and what her trousseau should cost.

Romance in a smart Fifth Avenue Shop

Back of the glittering shop windows of Fifth Avenue, behind the counters and coat-racks . . . romance goes on! Rarely do we have writers who can catch the vivid color of these romances of the shops. Claudia Cranston can! She is rare in her ability to portray the drama and romance in the lives of business people. Out of her intimate knowledge, she tells a series of charming stories. The first story, "Women & Misses," appears in April GOOD HOUSEKEEPING.

There is also a new novel by Margaret Widdemer; a jungle story for children by Mrs. Martin Johnson, and other fascinating tales by important writers.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING INSTITUTE: Doing Sunday's housekeeping on Saturday; how to clean Spring fabrics; new recipes, new cookery.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING STUDIO: A Colonial hall; a Colonial Bedroom Group.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING BUREAU OF FOODS, SANITATION AND HEALTH: Dr. Walter H. Eddy, Director, tells how to Feed Your Teeth against Decay.

FOR THE HOME OWNER: How to prevent leaks; annuals for the garden.

New Ideas in Decoration . . . Meal Planning . . . Housecleaning, etc.

CHANGE IN BUS ROUTE OFFERED

Shortening the White Star Lines bus route nearly two miles between Pittsburgh and Washington, Pa., and reducing the running time 10 minutes, was objected to before the Public Service Commission by the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

The protestants claim that it will increase street car competition, while, on the other hand, the White Star Line claims it will eliminate five railroad crossings and be of distinct service to the patrons of their lines.

The White Star Line wants to use through buses on the new route, which would follow the old route to Donaldson's cross roads, then run by way of Hill Church, eliminating Canonsburg. Through buses do not carry or pick up way passengers, and Canonsburg offered no objection. From 6 to 8 through trips are made daily during the rush hours, it was testified yesterday.

MANLEY TALKS ON RUSSIA

Dean Louis K. Manley, of the School of Business Administration at the University of Pittsburgh, will address the Monarch Club of Pittsburgh on "Russia" tomorrow. The meeting is slated for 12:15 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

A student of political science for many years, Dean Manley has been associated with Pitt since 1918. International affairs have occupied a large part of his attention. He is reputed an authority on economic and political conditions in Russia today.

ROBBERS LOOT GEM STORE

Robbers took jewelry of undetermined value from the August Loch Company store at 405 Federal street today. Wrist watches, pins and fountain pens were taken from a display window and $10 from a cash register, but a more complete check will be necessary before the owners are able to say whether the loss exceeds a few hundred dollars. Attempts to open the safe failed.

The robbers gained entrance by forcing the storm door and dropping through the transom of the inner door.

Gone Since Dec. 12, Police Hunt Man

Alexander Tirpak, 19, of 1 Riverhill street, East End, has been reported missing since December 12. He disappeared while on his way to work at the Pittsburgh Electrotype Company. At the time of his disappearance he was dressed in a grey felt hat, dark overcoat, serge suit, black oxford shoes and a blue and white necktie. A report has been made to the Missing Persons Bureau.

Transfer Company Seeks State License

Storage and trucking business to be carried on in full legal status comes under the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission, it was developed today at a hearing before Commissioner Charles H. Young, in the City-County Building, in the application for a certificate of public convenience by the Keystone-Lawrence Transfer and Storage Company, of New Castle. Young stated that it was the first application that had been made by a transfer company in the state.

School Paper Honors Pittsburgh Youth

Morris Wolk, 5434 Aylesboro avenue, has been appointed to the editorial board of the Wharton News of Finance and Commerce, business monthly published by undergraduates of the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School. Wolk is a freshman in the Wharton School. He graduated from Peabody High School. An associate editor of Peabody's handbook, active in baseball and dramatics, he graduated with honor in June, 1929.

Wetmore to Address Catholic Women

"The Catholic Church and the Modern World" is Louis H. Wetmore's subject for his talk before the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women Thursday, April 3. A musical program has been arranged for the meeting, which is slated for the Council house, 5216 Penn avenue. Mrs. Thomas P. Horan, president of the council, is to preside.

When Babies CRY

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

GANDHI SCORES WEDDING RUSH

BROACH, BOMBAY PRESIDENCY, India, March 26.—(AP)—This district is so busy making marriages to forestall the new Sarda act raising the age for consent, which comes into force April 1, that attendance at a meeting addressed by Mahatma Gandhi at Tresela was comparatively sparse.

Commenting on his small audience, Gandhi said: "Without knowing what is proposed in the Sarda act, you are afraid of it and are busy marrying off little children. All this ignorance is the cause of your slavery."

He said that some Mohammedans had asked why he did not march through their villages and declared that he would if he were invited.

Woman Charges Husband Bit 3 Children

"I need money to run the house, judge, but when I ask for it he throws it at me." Mrs. Edward Winowinok told Morals Court Magistrate Thomas Jones today when she appeared against her husband for mistreating his family.

"He got a bottle and tried to hit me with it when I picked up the money, and then he just went crazy. He turned into a dog and bit one of my sons on the chest, my daughter on the arm and our other son on the back."

She said she wants him to leave them. The case was turned over to social service workers for adjustment.

Kiwanis Club Hears Talk on Aviation

Ditmar F. Stahlkenpht, instructor at the Pittsburgh School of Aviation, was the principal speaker at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the South Hills Kiwanis Club held in the United Lutheran Church, Academy avenue, Mt. Lebanon, yesterday. Mr. Stahlkenpht spoke on "Aero-Dynamics." Vice President Hamilton Tressler presided.

DECKS CLEARING IN CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The Hoover Congress, having slashed taxes, extended relief to agriculture and drafted a new tariff bill, today seemed on its way to creating a record for legislative activity.

While the tariff must be finally approved after the House and Senate compromise their differences, Congress will dispose of an ambitious program of other legislation before the final gong sounds next summer. Among its achievements will be disposition of the tenacious Muscle Shoals problem, initiation of a tremendous public building program and a far-reaching extension of federal aid to states in constructing good roads.

The reorganization and transfer of prohibition enforcement to the Department of Justice, regulation of motor bus lines and possible reforms in the Indian service will be added to the program.

With the Senate in recess until Friday, the House is continuing to grind out legislation. The Muscle Shoals bill is pending in the Senate.

15 Dry Visitors Fined For Getting Drunk

"We're getting too many fellows who come here from dry towns to get drunk," Magistrate Leo Rothenberg declared in Central Police Court today when 15 out-of-town offenders appeared before him.

"You come here from towns like Wilkinsburg, Waynesburg, Butler and Bellevue, where you vote dry, and when you get here you get drunk. In an effort to stop this, I'll fine each of you $5."

$10,000 in Luggage, 2 Wives Arrested

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 26.—(INS.)—Mrs. Raymond Gallagher and Mrs. Roy Tate and a suitcase containing $10,000 in currency, believed to have been part of the loot in a New York payroll robbery, were held by police here today for New York authorities. The women revealed an expensive automobile tour with their husbands after the $60,000 robbery in New York last October, ending here 10 days ago.

MEXICANS HOLD U. S. SUSPECT

MEXICO CITY, March 26.—(AP.)—Joy Palmer Harper, wanted in several American cities on charges of counterfeiting travelers' checks and stealing an automobile, was held last night for the American authorities after having been released on the temporary charges that caused his arrest March 19.

He was rearrested immediately on other charges, a procedure allowing the Mexican detectives to hold him for three days longer. Under Mexican law, his release was mandatory at the expiration of 72 hours in the absence of definite charges showing why he was held.

The possibility that he might go free passed when the American embassy received telegraphic advices from Washington that the State of Oklahoma had formally asked for his detention pending the receipt of extradition papers from Washington in a week or so.

The receipt of these instructions precludes the possibility of Harper's going free under a writ of amparo on account of lack of charges. This writ was granted to Harper yesterday, but common criminal charges were immediately placed against him.

Private detectives, who traced him here, will remain for the hearing when the papers arrive from Washington.

SICK PEOPLE NOT TO BLAME

Cannot Learn the Truth Except Through Stories of Others.

WORLD IS FULL OF FOLKS WHO HAVE TO BE RUDELY SHAKEN INTO GOOD HEALTH.

"It is queer," said the World's Tonic druggist, "queer how so many people have lost faith in drugs when they are sick. They seem willing to mope around half sick until their condition gets so bad they are desperate. I don't know, however, that they are so much to blame. There are so many medicines that are put together only to sell, that it is a little hard to get people to realize that some medicines stand out like giants among all the rest because of their merit.

"Take some of these incomplete medicines, for instance—the kind that you have to take this pill or that with them. The pill itself makes you feel better, and the medicine gets the credit. Just contrast that with World's Tonic. Here is a remedy that cost years of work and thousands of dollars before it could be put upon the market, because it had to be exactly right before the public could have it. The laboratory set out to find a real and effective remedy for catarrhal conditions, something that would be complete in itself and effective. Did they find it?

"You couldn't go about the country as I do and answer that question in any other way than with an emphatic 'Yes.' The results I see every day, the restoration of people who are desperately ill, all convince me, as they would anyone, that many thousands who are half sick now could avoid severe illness and be restored to excellent health by the use of World's Tonic." World's Tonic is for sale at Dow's, May's & Liggett's, Mayflower, and all other first class drug stores. (A-15)

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

THERE is an anti-climax to the story of the trumpet player who paid a $25 fine after he had made katzenjammer gestures at Public Safety Director Clark's limousine as he passed that gentleman on the boulevard in his forth-handed lizzie. A few days later Director Clark was having dinner in the restaurant in which the trumpeter trumpets and he asked the band to play "Lonesome Road." The trumpeter not only played the number, but for good measure added a solo. And now they're good friends and we hope they live happily ever after.

We have decided to crusade for a bath for the Pennsylvania Railroad clock, whose hands are faintly discernible on the rotunda of the station. From the Sun-Telegraph windows we can see the outline of the railroad's clock, but we have never been able to determine the exact location of the hands. The Pennsylvania Railroad has a duty to the people of this city, and that duty, as we see it, is to keep the clock clean. What if everybody failed to bathe his clock, then where would this country be? How could we tell that it was 12 minutes past four in the afternoon if all clocks were allowed to collect dust? We have always been one of the Pennsylvania Railroad's biggest boosters. When somebody asks us where a fella can get a good ham sandwich and a cup of coffee we never fail to advise him to take a Penney excursion to Atlantic City just to eat a few of those delicious sandwiches the train butchers sell. But if the Pennsylvania Railroad intends to ignore the will of the people so rudely as it appears to be doing, we, for one (or two, or three) will eat no more of the excursion sandwiches.

This is serious business and we intend to campaign for a clean clock in business-like fashion. First we shall petition Bertrand Sisson, the railroad's editor. That failing, we shall lay our demands before E. W. Smith, the vice president. And from there it is just an overnight ride to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

INCIDENTALLY, we encountered much difficulty in obtaining from one of the railroad's information clerks Mr. Smith's initials. Once our clock campaign is successful we shall crusade for more available initials.

COURT RULES AGAINST UNION CAB LINE

WHITE HOUSE GANG

Gangsters Trap President In Elevator

Theodore Roosevelt, when President of the United States, started the adventurous, rollicking, joyous career of the White House Gang by sending his youngest son, Quentin, to the Force Public School in Washington. Here the gang was recruited. The accredited members are Charles (Taffy) Taft, "Brom" Seeley, Dick (Sailor) Chew, Edward (Slats) Stead, also called "Bedstead," Walker White, "T. R." the most active member of the gang; Quentin, the leader, and Earle Looker, the author of this story.

Each day, after school, the gang went into a huddle to confound all rules of deportment in high places, mingle in the lives of presidents and policemen, win victories, taste honor, suffer punishments and engage in escapades which were swept along the wires to national publicity. Many exploits of the gang, however, either remain unknown or were known only to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Some there were securely hidden even from them.

CHAPTER XIX.

AS WE came the more thoroughly to realize that we must acquire the earth—if at all—by our own individual effort, each of us withdrew unto himself. . . and the anomaly was furnished of a number of small boys, supposed to be inseparable, but who, in reality, were set miles apart by their personal preoccupations.

Expressing their feelings at random and by curiously dissimilar movements; suddenly becoming aware of each other with irritation and anger; altogether self-conscious and mentally clownish, we mutually made of life a thing, not to be enjoyed, but suffered and endured. Not, of course, that all action and intercourse between us ceased; but there were longer lapses between thoughts and, in consequence, longer intermissions between acts. These, when united in a common endeavor, were more than likely to turn against society in general, with which we now knew we had to wage perpetual war.

Q, brimming over with a plan against the White House staff, imparted it to us with every assurance of success. Putting it immediately into action, we moved silently and alertly through the upper hall, turning into a recess in which there was the tight little service-staircase, and the elevator.

For the good and sufficient reason that, "we shouldn't be seen fooling around the elevator, or somebody might remember it," Q enjoined us to slip down the stairs. These were as circular as if built in a lighthouse well, and rushing past the smooth walls as we descended the narrow spiral made us dizzy and breathless.

Elevator Crate

Built of Wood From Famous Church

Arrived at the basement floor, Q pressed the automatic control button upon the door-frame of the elevator and the car rose, revealing the crate below—it was built in two stories, for both passenger and freight use. The Gang entered the crate; Q manipulated the buttons and we sank below the basement floor, our crate being in semi-darkness, and the passenger car presenting the usual appearance of an empty elevator, ready to be used. . . .

Like many another detail about the White House, even this elevator possessed historic associations. The timber of which it was built once formed part of the Old South Church in Boston, and was neatly mitred together, in order to make the best use of odd-shaped and unmatched pieces. This was done with true craftsmanship, and in a gesture of sentiment. And rightly so; for it was in the Old South Church where met the angry citizens after the "Boston Massacre" (1770) and where later were voiced the first secret suggestions and made sure the plans which led to the "Boston Tea Party" (1773) . . . to revolt of the Colonies, and, eventually, to our independence as a nation. . . .

Lots of Fun

Boys' Manipulations Trap A Passenger

The historic passenger car remains to this day, but its operating mechanism has been modernized. The freight-crate has, long since, been eliminated. But, on the day of which I write, it would have taken the combined skill and knowledge of an elevator expert, an electrical engineer and a public-relations counsel to explain the erratic workings of this individual elevator. It was one of the early automatic models, vagares of which have since been overcome. It could be stopped by the thoughtless or careless touching of a button, on any one of the floors it served. Thus, a passenger, finding himself suddenly frustrated in his attempt to rise or fall, naturally imagined the annoyance as being caused by someone on another floor desiring to use the elevator.

We rose from the basement on orders above, but Q punched the basement button and the fight was on—up or down? The elevator, having no personal predilection, simply obeyed the last order received, like a good soldier.

Having committed ourselves by punching the "down" button, we were compelled, every time the passenger above reversed it, to immediately follow suit; so, the elevator, its motor constantly stopping and starting, worked hard but arrived nowhere. Neither did the passenger. As a matter of fact, he did not even start, since the elevator had to be brought to a dead stop, before the car-door would open.

The Gang, elboving each other aside in their eagerness to manipulate buttons, continued this satisfying sport. The passenger above seemed to be just as determined as ourselves to have his way; the fight went on for five minutes, possibly, neither side making concessions.

TR Is Victim

Nothing Is Said About The Prank

Finally there was a tremendous thud upon the floor of the passenger car—our ceiling—and a great voice came thundering down the elevator shaft.

"I have stood this long enough," it cried. "Have done with it, and at once!"

"Father!" said Q, in an awed whisper.

Several of the Gang sat down hard upon the floor of the car. With his hands behind his back, Q stood as far away from the buttons as possible. He was not afraid, but he was startled, perhaps shocked, by the sudden materialization of the one possibility none of us had considered.

The machinery clicked again; the car rose slowly and unopposed; it stopped at the floor of the private apartments; the door above opened and closed and we stood in absolute silence, holding our breath. Suddenly Q pushed the "up" button; it was just as well to go and take our medicine. But TR had vanished—simply gone away; doubtless he had given the matter all the time he could spare. No explanations were ever demanded and none—so far as we knew—ever given. Our private opinion was that the President, not wishing to approve the incident in our presence, but relishing it down in the heart of him, had gone away to laugh heartily at the fun.

On another occasion, Q,

SUPREME COURT HEARS VOTE TEST CASE

Two Appeals Taken From Common Pleas Decision Barring Late Assessments

The right of thousands of voters of Allegheny County to register and vote under assessments on the additional assessment books, declared null and void by judges of Common Pleas Court, is listed for argument before the Pennsylvania Supreme Court in session here.

The question is involved in two appeals, one by county officials from a decision to strike off names from the extra books on petition of the special committee of the Allegheny County Bar Association, and the other a test case on appeal by Stanley Domback, whose registration in the Fourth district of the Fourth ward was ordered stricken off by the registration commissioners.

Appeals from other counties argued yesterday were:

Orms against Traction Bus Company, appellant, Cambria County; Frank National Bank and others against Kennerly Coal and Coke Company, appellant, Cambria County; First National Bank of Hooversville appellant, against Cauffiel, Cambria County; Carothers Estate, appeal of Verne O'Brien, Indiana County; Wilson and others against Vincent and others, appellants, Lawrence County.

CLUB OPPOSES JAIL REMOVAL

The Civic Club of Allegheny County has notified the Jail Removal Association that the club board has voted unanimously not to support the removal of the entire county jail building, according to Maurice R. Scharff, president of the club. The Jail Removal Association would use the whole site of the present jail as a public square or plaza.

The club board favors the removal only of the high walls and the additions which haye been made to the original structure. This would restore the jail to its original condition as designed by H. H. Richardson, famous architect.

The club board would have the original jail made into a hall of records, as recommended by the Pittsburgh chapter of the American Institute of Architects. It is proposed to remove jail facilities for convicted prisoners to some place outside the city and to use a portion of the new county building as a detention jail.

YELLOW CO. SCORES AT HEARING

Judge Swearingen Refuses To Dismiss Complaint In Fight Over Injunction

Judge Joseph M. Swearingen, presiding at the hearing on the preliminary injunction granted the Yellow Cab Company against the striking taxi drivers' relief committee, today denied two motions of dismissal made at the completion of the company's case by Attorney Henry Ellenbogen, representing the committee.

In the first motion, Ellenbogen asked for the dismissal of the bill of complaint on the grounds that the union cabs are not common carriers, because of individual contracts with customers whereby passengers give drivers any fare they please.

"OVERRULED"

Company attorneys argued that the money obtained by the union drivers is turned over to the Relief Committee and that this action makes the union cabs common carriers.

"The motion is overruled," the court said, "proceed with the testimony."

"But if the court please," Ellenbogen interjected, "I have another motion."

"How many motions have you?" the court inquired.

"Just one more."

DENIED SECOND MOTION

Ellenbogen then moved for dismissal of the bill of complaint against each individual defendant and was overruled again. The drivers began presentation of their side of the case this afternoon.

One of the drivers' first witnesses, Norbert E. Snyder, treasurer of the union, was required on cross-examination to produce the union's books for examination.

Counsel for the cab company set out to determine whether these records disclosed that receipts from the relief cabs were used to further the union cause.

Before the company's case was completed, Judge Swearingen inquired as to Ellenbogen's position in the case.

"Mr. Ellenbogen has not entered his appearance with the court in this case," the judge said.

"I represent Local No. 249 A. International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stable Hands and Helpers, and also A. D. Sifford and other members of the committee," Ellenbogen said.

PUPILS MARCH AT FUNERAL

Four hundred pupils of St. Martin's Parochial School, Steuben street, West End, led by a police escort, today attended solemn requiem mass and marched in the funeral procession of their friend and classmate, Beatrice Hoover, 14, she died last Saturday.

Services, held in St. Martin's Catholic Church, were in charge of the Rev. John Angel, pastor. The Rev. Peter Gotschall was deacon and the Rev. J. Canter was subdeacon. The school choir of 15 boys sang. Interment was in St. Martin's Cemetery, Elliton street, Elliot.

Miss Hoover died in Montefiore Hospital, after a week's illness of pneumonia and peritonitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hoover, of Herschel and Weaver streets, West End, are the parents. Beatrice also leaves a sister, Millicent, and two brothers, Albert and Roy.

Sleuth Gets Girl Who Just Tore 'Em Up

When an autoist ignores 14 tags for violating traffic ordinances, police believe things have gone far enough. So Traffic Officer Louis Ebner, armed with a John Doe warrant, yesterday went in search of the motorist charged with passing up 14 tags since February 1. At Highland avenue, near Penn, he spotted the license number of the offender. He returned to the East End Police Station with pretty Josephine Bennett, of 3433 Shadeland avenue, who posted $39 for a hearing Saturday morning.

Will Be Hostess To Aid Society

Members of Circle No. 5, Ladies' Aid Society, Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church, will meet Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. S. Ferguson, 912 California avenue, Avalon. Mrs. J. L. Goodlander and Mrs. Mary Lowe will be associate hostesses.

SLOT MACHINES IN GAS STATION

W. R. Dinnin, of 350 Beverley road, proprietor of the Beverley Service Station, Mt. Lebanon, was to report to county detectives today as a result of a visit made to his service station yesterday. According to Chief County Detective George W. Murren, two slot machines and a punch board were found in the service station. Detectives visited the establishment after receiving a complaint from the Children's Service Bureau.

County detectives also confiscated a quantity of moonshine in the home of John Baganias in East Monongahela, Forward Township. Detectives say an information will be made against Baganias.

ANDREW MELLON AND PITTSBURGH

The passing years have brought remarkable changes to Pittsburgh since Andrew Mellon was born here 75 years ago. When Mr. Mellon arrived here this city was rated very prosperous, but it was as nothing compared to the Pittsburgh of today. Read Herbert Kaufman's views in his article, "A Beholder of Miracles," on today's editorial page.

Council Must Solve Overbrook's Status

One question Council must solve is whether Pittsburgh is to have 31 or 32 wards. Some residents of Overbrook, recently annexed, want the section made the new Twenty-second Ward. Others want it a part of the Twenty-ninth Ward. City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt is to make a report on that problem.

This annual exhibition, organized by the photographic section of the Academy of Science and Art, ranks the best of its kind in the cozy grandeur of international photography.

The foreign note introduced by 60 European prints is augmented by about 40 more prints, esoterically decorative, contributed by Japanese photographers resident on our West Coast.

Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 26.—

MY ORIGINAL Democratic white hope come through great in a speech out here where a university conferred on him the degrees "Doctor of Dividends" and "Purveyor Extraordinary to Financial Conferences Where Hopes Are High But Funds Are Low."

He said, "Economics had no business in politics."

Now some might think that was bad foresight to knock politicians, but it was on my advice he did it. Everybody knew Mr. Hoover was not a politician, and that fact alone gave him a majority of nine million. Now if my man can even go further and show that he knows politicians, but has no use for their methods, why he can win by 29 million. The old Democrats are perking up every day.

Yours,

ATTORNEYS PREPARE APPEAL TO SAVE COAL POLICEMEN

ASK NEW TRIAL FOR LYSTER AND WATTS

Aim to Balk Term in Prison For Pair Convicted in Slaying of Tyre Miner

Attorneys Edward G. Coll and Charles B. Prichard today began preparing their list of reasons for a new trial for the two coal and iron policemen convicted at Franklin, Pa., on a charge of involuntary manslaughter for the beating to death of John Borkowski, Tyre miner, February 9, 1929.

Notice was received by the attorneys yesterday that the stenographic copy of the testimony had been filed with the Venango County court. The lawyers have 10 days in which to go over the testimony and file their reasons for a new trial. The judge will then set a day for argument of the new trial motion, probably during the last week of April.

Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk, who tried the case for the State, also received a copy of the testimony, and from it is preparing his answer to the argument. If a new trial is refused the judge will set a date and sentence Walter J. Lyster and Harold Watts, the defendants. After that their attorneys have one remaining move, to take an appeal to the Supreme Court, asking it to set aside the verdict or grant a new trial.

MUM ON P. R. R. INJUNCTION

Pittsburgh & West Virginia Railroad officials today refused to say whether the injunction sought by the Pennsylvania Railroad will delay construction of the P. & W. Va's. so-called Donora branch line. Preparations for construction had been made and it was expected the branch would be completed early this summer.

The Pennsylvania's injunction petition, filed Monday in Federal Court here, has resulted in the issuance of subpenas directing the Pittsburgh & West Virginia and the Interstate Commerce Commission, the respondents, to file answers by April 1.

The Pennsylvania lost a fight before the Interstate Commerce Commission to halt the building of the branch line.

CHOIR SEEKS MORE VOICES

The Mendelssohn Choir, stellar local musical organization, seeks 25 more voices. Selection of new personnel from candidates will begin after the April 8 concert. At the same time, rehearsals for the 1930-1931 season will begin. Additions will include voices in all sections of the chorus. Solo voices will be given preference, and, as far as possible, local talent will be used.

Applications can be made by phoning the conductor, Ernest Lunt, at Mayflower 1089. All who apply will be given tryouts, regardless of affiliations, according to Lunt.

Bakery Sales Heads Attend Meet Here

Representative sales executives of the leading bakeries in all parts of the state will attend the spring meeting of the Pennsylvania Chapter of the Bakery Sales Promotion Association to be held tomorrow in the Keystone Athletic Club. Horace W. Crider, president of the Western Pennsylvania Bakers' Association, will welcome the visitors.

Matters affecting sales and distribution of bakery products will be discussed during the several sessions on the day's program. S. S. Watters and E. R. Braun, of Pittsburgh, will participate in the discussions.

Bishop Mann Attends Episcopal Election

Bishop Alexander Mann, of the Episcopal Diocese of Pittsburgh, was in Chicago today to attend a meeting of the House of Bishops of the Episcopal Church for the purpose of electing a successor to Bishop H. P. Anderson, presiding bishop of the church, who died last fall.

The House of Bishops is made up of all the Episcopal bishops in the United States, about 150 in number. It is expected that 75 will attend the meeting. The House meets every three years at the general convention of the denomination.

STATE PLANTS PHEASANTS

Good news for hunters.

English male ringneck pheasants were released in Allegheny County yesterday. The birds were furnished by the State Game Commission, and distributed equally in every district by the respective state game protector. All of the birds are matured. Pheasant season opens in November.

According to State Game Protector Ralph A. Liphart, who is in charge of the Homestead and immediate district, "the hunters, at the last hunting season, killed off quite a few of the male birds, therefore the state thought it advisable to secure and release male birds only for the coming spring hatching."

The beautiful birds were released in secrecy yesterday to frustrate the activities of poachers, Protector Liphart said.

Names 2 Homestead Election Officers

Because of the redistricting of the voting precincts of the county, Judge Harry H. Rowand, making appointments to fill two Homestead election board vacancies, stipulated that the new appointees are to serve for the spring primary only.

They are Beulah Pyree, 217 East Sixteenth street, to be judge of the First district of the Third Ward, replacing Catherine Conlin, moved from the district, and Saul Lovejoy, 316 East Thirteenth avenue, to be inspector in the same district in place of Harry Carman, also moved away.

Fire Bureau to Get 2 New Automobiles

Council yesterday decided to give the Bureau of Fire two automobiles for battalion chiefs, the total cost to be $2,400. At the same time $5,000 was appropriated for the improvement of Carrick and Overbrook engine houses. Nearly $13,000 was asked for the latter purpose.

'Possum Dinner On Hoof Lost In Hill

Someone in the Hill district was loser of a 'possum dinner and the residents of Webster and Sixth avenues enjoyed a 'possum chase early today.

Following the boulevard instead of a trail, the 'possum rambled down Webster avenue about 3 a. m. Attendants of the William Penn garage stalked the animal into the adjoining parking lot. An old sewer pipe was the 'possum's first refuge. It was forced to abandon its hole to meet death from a brick and bullet.

JEWISH 'FRAT' TO GIVE AWARD

The Zeta Beta Tau Fraternity, the largest and oldest Jewish college fraternity, will present the Gottheil medal to the American who has done most for Jewry and Judiasm during last year, at their meeting in New York May 10. The medal was first awarded in 1925, being given to Dr. Stephen Wise, of New York.

Although the fraternity presents the medal it leaves the selection of the annual award to a committee of Anglo-Jewish newspapers and magazines. Charles H. Josephs, of Pittsburgh, is a member of the committee this year. The ballot for 1929 is now being taken and the winner of the award will be announced with in two weeks.

Father, Son Accused Of Beating Officer

Frank Samara, proprietor of a butcher shop in Monongahela avenue, Swissvale, and his son, Frank, Jr., will be given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Ralph Knisley on a charge of attacking a policeman and beating him with his own club. Patrolman Peter Quinton accuses the Samaras of having attacked him Monday night in a quarrel over a traffic tag. Both have posted $1,000 bail.

OBSERVE K. OF C. FOUNDING

The forty-eighth anniversary of the founding of the Knights of Columbus will be observed with appropriate exercises here next Monday. Supreme Knight Martin H. Carmody, of Grand Rapids, will head the degree corps, which will confer the first degree at services that night in the William Penn Hotel. The gathering will be held under the auspices of the 40 councils.

Supreme Knight Carmody will have for his staff State Deputy John R. P. McGill, of Philadelphia; Past State Deputies Patrick A. Kennedy, Harrisburg; John B. MacDonough, Reading and Leo G. Griffith, of Pittsburgh; State Treasurer John M. Boissou, of Pittsburgh, and Past District Deputy John H. Lauer. Lauer will be lecturer and master of ceremonies.

State Deputy McGill will address a special meeting of the Pittsburgh chapter Sunday afternoon, in the William Penn Hotel.

Pickles, Tar Cleared From P. R. R. Track

Workmen today had cleared the eastbound track of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Glenfield, following the derailment of three cars of a merchandise train resulting in the scattering of pickles, tar and automobile parts over the tracks. Traffic was tied up for several hours after the accident last night.

West Penn Power Output Shows Gain

The West Penn Electric Company, subsidiary of the American Water Works and Electric Company, Inc., report an increase of 3.52 per cent in the output of power in February over that in February, 1929. The increase in January and February over a like period last year was 4.51 per cent.

ELECTION GRIPS HOSPITAL MEET

Filling of prescriptions for discharged patients at the hospital's pharmacy was advocated during round table discussions of economic questions today by the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania convention in the William Penn Hotel.

Election of officers was important business before the afternoon session. The nominating committee submitted the following candidates to serve with President-elect William M. Breitinger, Reading; President-elect (assuming office in 1931) M. H. Eichenlaub, Pittsburgh; first vice-president, Webster S. Kohlhaas, Harrisburg; second vice president, Sister Illuminata, Philadelphia; treasurer (for re-election) Elmer E. Matthews, Wilkes-Barre; and trustees, Miss Elizabeth H. Shaw, retiring president; and George Wilson, Erie. No opposition was expected.

The morning session, Sister Irenaeus, second vice president, of Providence Hospital, Beaver Falls, presiding, opened with the annual president's address by Miss Elizabeth H. Shaw, superintendent, St. Margaret's Memorial Hospital. Preceding committee reports, O. J. Keller, editor, the Post-Gazette, spoke on "Publicity and Ethics."

President Shaw will preside

President Shaw presided during the afternoon. A five-reel motion picture showing every department of the Reading Hospital will close the afternoon program. The annual dinner will be held tonight.

West View Fixes Tax Rate at 14 Mills

West View council fixed the 1930 tax levy at 14 mills last night, the same as last year. The borough has a taxable valuation of $5,700,000, C. A. McClain, borough clerk, reported. Ordinances were approved for the paving of Center avenue from Harlem avenue to Bronx avenue; Harvard avenue, from Cornell to Columbia and Park avenue, Frankfort to Martsolf. Purchase of a new motorcycle for Chief of Police W. S. Kaesmeier and of a new truck for street work was authorized.

Thieves Beat Man, Rob Him of $600

Three thieves held up William L. Geltz, 52, of 826 Lockhart street, three blocks from his home early today, beat him and robbed him of $600. They then fled while Geltz shouted for help.

Pedestrians found Geltz lying in the street. He was taken to Allegheny General Hospital and treated for a fractured rib.

Church at Bellevue To Elect Trustees

The annual congregational meeting of the Bellevue Presbyterian Church has been called for next Wednesday at 8 p. m. Ten elders and four trustees will be elected and reports submitted by the different departments.

TROLLEY WAGE PARLEY TODAY

Representatives of the Pittsburgh Railways Company and the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes of America were to meet today to discuss the wage scale to replace the present agreement with their motormen and conductors which ends May 1. The present scale has been in effect two years.

Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president of the railway company, has headed the utility delegation in recent conferences while the employes were represented by William White, president of the union, and P. J. McGrath, secretary of union division No. 85.

It is understood that the union is seeking an increase of five cents an hour for motormen and conductors, making the maximum 75 cents an hour and an increase of 15 cents an hour, or a maximum of 90 cents an hour for operators of one-man cars.

HACKER SEEKS BUS PERMIT

David Manheim, who has been employed in William Penn way for 15 years as a hacker and who wants the Public Service Commission to grant him a certificate to operate a public conveyance, ran up against stiff objections.

The City of Pittsburgh, the Peoples Natural Gas Company and the Yellow Cab Company, which is the Parmelee Transportation Company, objected on the ground that William Penn place is already too highly congested.

The William Penn hotel representatives told Examiner W. E. Best that 1,000 to 1,200 taxicab trips are made daily from the hotel, not to mention incoming trips. It was admitted the seven-seated auto hacks, however, are a necessity.

Seven persons have certificates for such a service.

The gas company, through its president, J. B. Tonkin, says there are too many hacks, but admitted that the hackers have lately been co-operating with the company in making conditions better.

CREDIT MEN ASK BAD CHECK LAW

Advocacy of a state-wide campaign for legislative action to make passers of bad checks subject to immediate arrest in Pennsylvania will be discussed tomorrow night by the Pittsburgh Hotel Credit Men's Association at Webster Hall.

A law patterned from New York State's act to eliminate the necessary 10-day delay after a check has been returned for insufficient funds will be proposed. The credit men's action is part of a local campaign to reduce losses totaling approximately $100,000 yearly. The Western Pennsylvania Hotel Managers' Association and Pennsylvania State Hotel Men's Association will be asked to join in the campaign. A state hotel men's credit bureau also will be urged.

Speaker for Alumni Banquet Announced

W. D. Niswander, national secretary of the Ohio Northern University Alumni Association, will be guest speaker at the annual founder's day banquet of the Pittsburgh chapter of the alumni, to be held Friday night, April 11, in the Fort Pitt Hotel. He will represent the campus at the university.

S. A. Ringer, instructor at South High School, president of the local chapter, will be toastmaster. A program of entertainment and the election of officers will follow the dinner.

600 PICNICS AT PARKS

Nearly 600 picnics will be held in Pittsburgh's four major parks during the coming season.

Between 300 and 350 permits have already been issued, according to James Moore, superintendent of parks. About 225 more are expected to be sent out soon.

Riverview Park, on the North Side, is the favorite city picnic ground, with Schenley and Highland parks tied for second place. The new forest-clad Frick Woods is least known, Moore said, the fewest number of requests having been made here.

S. H. Crass, supervisor of Frick Woods, announces the park is ready for picnics, three open shelter houses and a log cabin with open fireplace offering inducements to those wanting outings. Eight miles of trails through the woods are also available.

PASSION PLAY IN 11TH SEASON

Parishioners of St. Michael's Catholic Church, South Side, for the eleventh season have opened presentation of the religious play, "Veronica's Veil." Seven presentations have already been given in St. Michael's auditorium, Pius street, and 15 more will be given before Easter.

Joseph H. Gabriel, who enacts the triple roles of Pontius Pilate, Centurion and Priest of the Catacombs, has taken part in every play presented, Joseph J. Moeller, who at 16 portrayed the Christus, at 36 now enacts the role of Caiphas. Dorothy Goldstrom, the 21-year-old Veronica, has played the character five times. Others in the cast are Margaret Mitterbach, Rose Heck, Alfred, Maria and Dolores Yochum.

C. OF C. ELECTS NOMINATORS

William B. Rodgers, T. P. Gaylord, Leo G. Griffith, W. A. Phillips, and R. R. Cappe were elected members of the nominating committee for the coming elections of the Chamber of Commerce board of directors, at a meeting yesterday.

The committee must nominate a ticket for the annual election on the second Thursday in May, when a third of the seats in the board are vacated and refilled.

Several hundred members voted for the committee. William Meyer, George B. Stewart and J. M. Orr were the tellers in charge of the election. George E. McIlvain gave an address after the committee was chosen.

Man Hit By Door Dies in Hospital

John A. Roth, 40, of 2425 Diehl avenue, Carrick, died last night in the South Side Hospital from injuries suffered several hours before when an overhead garage door of a downtown furniture firm fell on him, according to a morgue report. Roth was employed as a shipper.

PHOTOGRAPHIC SALON OPENS

which the medieval tower resembles a conception of the modernist German architect, Mendelsohn. Frits of Vienna's tone poem of a country evening shows a man and a woman walking in a lonely landscape.

Fardel, of Paris, does perhaps the most graceful picture of beast or bird, of which there are many, in "Shadows," with gliding swans.

In the portrait group, Walter Jarrett, of Pittsburgh, and De Vos, of New York, achieve the most spontaneous prints of children. Morgan, of Rochester, has a tristful pixie-like model for his expressive compositions. Happich, of Philadelphia, has taken a line from Filippo Lippi in his simply named "Profile Study" of a girl. Clifford Norton has a distinguished portrait of a well-poised young woman.

The modern idea of still life, comparable to that of modern painting, dominates. One finds Mary Raymond glorifying the skin of an onion—large and Spanish. Crary in "The Woodpile" amuses with his repetitive short lengths. Dr. Arthur Nilsen juxtaposes glass gloves with a mortar and pestle to render usual forms different. The most excellent of the modern still life has been consummated by Bertoglio, of Turin, Italy. His "Colloquy" with faience birds on either side of a glass bottle might drolly satirize prohibitionist America's idea of the "Tree of Life."

The group of photographs derived from industrial themes reflects our major activity as paintings almost never do.

Doolittle in "Bull Wheels" makes a pictorial comment upon oil. Lederle and Lowrey, of Cleveland, show the ore industry in graphic beauty; Connell, of Los Angeles, reports the grotesque job of the diver, and Byron Chatto, in "Modern Magic," metamorphosizes man into a robot.

Rittase, of Philadelphia, in "The Forgers," gives a mill interior. Arthur E. Cheesman's "Steel Workers" is a dynamic study of riveters looking down from their lofty parts.

ADOPTS CHURCH MERGER VETO

A report of a commission which investigated and disapproved of the proposed merger of the First and Second United Presbyterian churches of this city has been adopted by the Monongahela Presbytery at a meeting yesterday afternoon in the Third church, Shady and Northumberland avenues.

Dr. William M. Woodfin, pastor of the Third church, was elected moderator of the presbytery at the meeting yesterday. He succeeds Dr. George A. Long. The Rev. C. E. Ramsey, of Woodville, was elected vice moderator.

The commission that reported unfavorably on the proposed merger was composed of Dr. Long, Dr. A. R. Robinson, Dr. A. G. MacLennan, Judge H. Walton Mitchell and John C. Hill. The First church is at Fifth avenue nad Thackeray street, Oakland. The Second church is at Stanton and Negley avenues.

The University of Missouri, Muskingum College, University of Miami, Penn State, Allegheny College and Carnegie Tech are to be represented.

Margaret Hall, Pitt, national president of the society, will preside at the meetings in the Kappa Alpha Theta and Kappa Kappa Gamma houses, on Neville street, and at the banquet in Heinz House, Saturday evening, April 5. Mary W. Greene, dean of women at Carnegie Tech, will entertain all delegates to the convention and the Pitt and Tech chapters, Friday, April 4.

MAN, 75, ROUTS STORE BANDITS

Bandits who robbed a drug store, but who were frustrated in holdups on two other stores last night, were being sought by police today.

An armed Negro obtained $154 from a cash register in the Magee pharmacy at 1300 Fifth avenue, after holding Benjamin Goodman, the proprietor, at bay with his revolver. He escaped in an automobile.

Seizing a butcher knife when two bandits entered his store at 235 Omega street, John Papale, 75, father of Police Magistrate Charles Papale, chased the thugs in a commandeered automobile for a half mile.

Three youths fled without loot from the confectionery store of Andy Geleti, at 605 Carson street, when they became frightened during an attempt to hold up his wife, Mrs. Mary Geleti.

Geleti pursued them and encountered one a short distance from the store. In the scuffle, the confectioner pulled off the thug's right shoe and cap, but was forced to release him when one of his confederates began firing. One of the bullets went through the door of the store.

Driver of Bandit Car Held By Court

Walter Linnert, 21, of Becks Run road, was held for investigation after he admitted in Morals Court today that on a half-dozen occasions he had driven the getaway car for three young bandits. ## START ACTION ON SEWER

Council has decided to start action on the $135,000 Beck's Run sewer project.

Demanded by the State Department of Health, the proposition has been considered for several months. The reason given for the delay is that Council objected to starting the construction, which will cost Pittsburgh $86,000, until Dormont, Mt. Lebanon and other municipalities have the money available for their share.

"We should start it," Councilman John S. Herron insisted at a meeting yesterday. The construction ordinance was approved conditionally, City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt being instructed to get in touch with the other municipalities to learn their attitude.

Today's question: Pennsylvania vital statistics indicate that the population of the state will be stationary in 30 years. Is this an alarming condition?

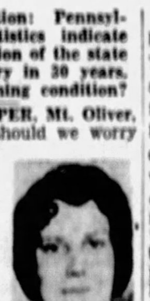
ROSELLA CASPER, Mt. Oliver, waitress: "Why should we worry about the population and its lack of increase? Even if it does increase, what is there to gain? Of course, our state would be more developed but there may not be enough work to employ everybody. China is a good example of what a large population does to a country."



Rosella Casper

CLAUDE OXLEY, East End, dietitian: "I can see nothing alarming in our population becoming stationary. It does not affect us or those to come. If our population would keep growing with no limit then there would be something to worry about. Pennsylvania has plenty of space for everybody—that is the best way."

Claude Oxley

VERNE REPKO, Bellevue: "I believe it is an alarming condition. This state or any state can not afford to fall behind and that is exactly what would happen if our population remained stationary. Industry should expand and the land should be cultivated. If we have not enough people to carry on these occupations, it's too bad."

Verne Repko

VIOLA EWING, Mt. Washington: "In this age of machinery and labor-saving devices there is not so much necessity for workmen. If we had no machinery we would need a large population. I can see no cause to be alarmed because the population may become stationary. The figures may be wrong anyhow."

Viola Ewing

ANNA PALESK, Lawrenceville: "This state is not yet fully developed. There are vast tracts of farming land, coal fields and industrial sections waiting to be worked. The more people there are the faster this development will come about. That's why I think the citizens of Pennsylvania should view the condition as alarming."

Anna Palesk

STEPHEN JOYCE, Oakland, cook: "My experience has taught me to beware of statistics. They often show only one side of the problem. In this case they may or may not be correct. If, however, they are correct what is alarming about such a condition? Nothing in my opinion. A state needs room and we have it—why worry."

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Folks Turn Out To See Comedy Given By Stage Society

LAST night just about everyone who's in town was at Carnegie Music Hall to see the Stage and Play's production of Claire Kummer's amusing comedy, "Rollo's Wild Oat." I do believe Stage and Play audiences are the beautifully gowned of all theatrical and musical events.

Striking indeed was the costume worn by Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby who was taking tickets at the door. Her gown was of white moire and tulle sweeping the floor, and her wrap was a brief jacket of ermine. A corsage of orchids provided the only color in her costume.

Among the numerous arrivals was Mrs. W. Edgar Reed gowned in black crepe and a black lamb's wool coat. And Mrs. Gordon King wore a cinamon brown lace gown with a wrap of green metallic cloth.

Mrs. Reginald Quaile chose blue lace for her gown, and Mrs. George P. Bassett blue crepe. Mrs. Joseph M. Scribner chose black velvet and Mrs. Alan S. Humphreys blue crepe.

Colors Varied

I CAUGHT a glimpse of Mrs. Dorwin J. Donnelly and of Mrs. A. Cameron Mann wearing a gown of white chiffon with a sash of green. One of the buds of the season, Martha Edmonson, chose a black crepe gown fashioned with a train and a vivid green velvet wrap, furred lavishly with white fox.

Smart Frocks

The Reginald Churches were there, with Mrs. Church wearing black net and Betty McCance in a black crepe gown and a wrap of rose metallic cloth.

Embroidered black net was worn by Clarissa Reed, and tan lace by Mrs. James W. Brown. Mrs. Samuel Ringsdorf wore a smart gown of black crepe with a blue velvet coat with white fox collar and cuffs, and Mary Shiras had a gown of black chiffon and tulle.

I saw Frances Fitzgerald Harriet Pickes and Frances Forsyth chatting in the foyer before the play. Frances Fitzgerald chose a Nile green crepe gown and Frances Forsyth black chiffon and tulle. Harriet's gown was of eggshell satin, and she wore a rose coat with white fur.

ANOTHER deb of the season, Jane Miller, wore eggshell moire, and a coat of black velvet with white fox. Louise Evans, a popular member of the younger set, wore red satin with a metal cloth coat of red and gold. Another representative of the younger set was Neil Stewart Zang, who chose deep red satin and a wrap of bay green velvet, collared in sable. Her mother, Mrs. William Zang, was in black crepe.

Debs Attend

Priscilla Hall, president of the Junior League, looked smart in a gown of black crepe, and Mrs. Joseph W. Marsh wore black chiffon and tulle and a coat of black lamb's wool with a collar of ermine. Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald chose a gown of black chiffon and lace as did Mrs. Elizabeth Moorhead Vermorcken. Mrs. John W. Lawrence was in black velvet, as was Mrs. David E. Hunt, of Philadelphia. Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby's mother.

AND Ruth Friday was there in a gown of black tulle, and Mrs. Louis R. Schmertz, Jr., and Eleanor Grier in peach crepe with a wrap of green velvet. Mrs. Alfred P. Brill was in black crepe, and Mrs. Edwin F. Scheetz in a peach gown. Clara Louise Eaton was there, and Mrs. John Wilbert.

And I might add that the members of the cast were Mrs. William Bacon Schiller, Jr., Mrs. Wallace Hurtte Rowe, Jr., Mrs. Frederick Bachmann, Mrs. Jacob Simpson Payton, Mrs. Clarence B. Watkins, James Macfarlane, Chester Wallace, Howard Wilbert, Reginald Church, George P. Bassett III, Harold Geoghegan and Alan Donnelly.

I KNOW who some of the patronesses for "The Devil's Disciple" by George Bernard Shaw, are to be. The play, by the way, is to be given tomorrow night by the Arnold School at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association. The patronesses are: Mrs. J. V. Ballantyne, Mrs. H. V. Blaxter, Mrs. David M. Craig, Mrs. Charles Durrenberger, Mrs. Harvey B. Gaul, Mrs. C. H. Hubbard, Mrs. Lowell Innes, Mrs. Joseph W. Kennedy, Mrs. G. McC. Kountz, Mrs. Hugh Leith, Mrs. H. A. Lord, Mrs. A. Cameron Mann, Mrs. W. C. McClintic, Mrs. W. F. McCrady, Mrs. T. E. McMurray, Mrs. Morris W. Mead, Mrs. I. D. Metzger, Mrs. Theodore E. Miller, Mrs. J. M. Phillips, Mrs. Charles M. Reppert, Mrs. Oliver P. Scaife, Mrs. Cornelius D. Scully, Mrs. Kenneth Seaver, Mrs. Theodore F. Smith, Mrs. I. B. Thomas, Mrs. George C. Watt, Mrs. Charles W. Wilder and Mrs. J. Merrill Wright.

Kenyon Gives Talk Before City Club

MORE than 200 members of the Woman's City Club and their friends attended the luncheon given yesterday in Pirate Hall, William Penn Hotel, in honor of Elmer Kenyon, of the New York Theater Guild. Preceding the talk in which Mr. Kenyon discussed the plays of Eugene O'Neill, particulary "Strange Interlude," Mrs. Cooke Bausman, chairman of the program committee, announced an evening meeting on April 1, to which men are being invited. P. J. Coffee, president of the National Jewelers' Association, will give a talk on diamonds, illustrating with slides.

For a proper appreciation of "Strange Interlude," Mr. Kenyon said one should know what O'Neill is striving towards. The quality of intense emotionalism as shown in all of O'Neill's plays is one thing that must be considered. The play is frank because for the first time in English drama a playwright has written the new psychology for the stage, a psychology of which novelists have taken advantage for sometime. It is an attempt to get below the surface of life, a revulsion against the artificiality of the stage. If one approaches "Strange Interlude" with a literal mind, the meaning of the play will be lost, he said. There is nothing immoral in the playwright's frank expose of this highly emotionalized woman, with whom one never feels sympathy as one does, for instance, through the dramatist's legerdemain, with the vicious Iris march in "The Green Hat."

SUCH topics as "Leasure Time and Social Change," "The Educational Value of Camping," "Some Aspects of Psychiatry and Mental Hygiene," "Recreation as a Treatment in Class Work," "The Second Generation Girl" and "Conditions Under Which the Girl Is Working" will be taken up for discussion in addresses and round tables at the fourth institute to be held by the Pittsburgh Girls' Conference in the William Penn Hotel April 22.

Leisure Time

Henry M. Busch, professor of group work at the Western Reserve University, will have "Leisure Time and Social Change" as his subject at the luncheon with which the institute will open, and after luncheon he will conduct a round table on "The Educational Value of Camping." Dr. Henry C. Schumacher, director of the Child Guidance Clinic, Cleveland, is the speaker on psychiatry and hygiene. Other speakers will address the dinner session.

ARMAND CLEANSING CREAM

SHANTUNG RULES WORLD OF NEWEST SPORT CLOTHES

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 26.—Last summer it was sun-tan, this year it bids fair to be shantung that will dominate the world of sports clothes. This fabric is strongly represented in every collection of any importance here, and it would seem that this Chinese gesture to the mode will be welcomed by most women. This durable and essentially "wearable" material staged a partial comeback last year, after having been eclipsed for several seasons by other materials, and this year it should be worn at resorts on both sides of the Atlantic for both beach and general day and sports wear. Some printed shantung is also being shown, but many models are made up in the natural unbleached color and of course in white. Women will discover that, like chiffon, shantung is a logical summer fabric. Chiffon, is of course, firmly entrenched in the mode and and already splendid versions of monotone and printed frocks of this material are being shown, a pleasing and appropriate reminder that summer will presently swing along.

TO SHOW you just how attractive a shantung sports ensemble can be, we have had sketched for you a model just completed by Drecoll-Beer. It is of white shantung with a collar and scarf of bright blue shantung printed with white dots. The belt is piped with the blue and the buckle is covered with it. Appliqued vertical pieces ending in scallops ornament the top of the frock and are repeated in slightly flaring pieces which form the flounce. The tailored jacket is slightly shaped at the waistline.

THE same establishment is responsible for the graceful printed chiffon evening frock also shown. The design is of rather large pale pink flowers on a black ground and black tulle borders the trailing skirt and the amusing little cape which starts at one side in front of the arm and crosses the back of the other shoulder. The silhouette is princess, but the skirt is very wide and flaring.

Because of Its PERFECTION!

A love of perfection, of exquisite beauty and magnificent performance, is humanity's most precious heritage. It is the sure index to superiority . . . the force that drives us forward to constantly higher attainment.

And it is this same love of perfection that leads best families all over America to prefer the KURTZMANN PIANO ahead of any other on earth. This is just as true of professional musicians as of connoisseurs and lovers of music in the home.

But you do not have to pay a huge price for the Kurtzmann. You can have the thrill of its magic performance and the lure of its golden tone at a price well within your means, with plenty of time for payment, if desired.

New Model a Revelation

There are structural reasons for the supremacy of this great instrument. Such features as the far-famed Capo d'Astro Bar, Duplex Scale, Triplex Pressure Bar and Double Repeating Action confer an advantage on the Kurtzmann that will probably never be equaled.

You are invited to hear and see this new marvel of Piano perfection. First showing now at Schroeder's. Come for pleasure and information; buy if you please.

Chickie's Hopes Fade When Bad Luck Visits Barry

CHAPTER XLIII

THEIR promise drew them to each other in a poignant, almost terrifying sense of nearness.

It filled Chickie with awe, mantled her with a shy, uncertain wonderment. She sometimes stopped abruptly in her work, saying with startled, hammering pulse: "Married! We'll soon be married—" Her thoughts drifted tremulously in a warm, vague excitement. They brought Barry to her as he touched her hair, raised her face in his hands. He was now become godlike—in his eyes, flame; in his voice, music—so he swept her.

She emerged from these dreams flushed and confused, fearful lest Janina might have perceived and would begin to mock her. But in a little while the dreams returned like white birds communing in song about her ears—the more piercing because she listened alone.

Coming home with a new purchase she had often a wish to drop in on Mary, to say merrily: "See what I bought today! And oh, all the others in the second drawer of my bureau! Even Jennie doesn't know!"

One Saturday afternoon when she and Mary were walking—like old times—trundling the go-cart, they passed a bungalow nearly completed. Chickie had almost said: "Mary, ole dear, like me for a neighbor? I'm thinking this very minute of moving into that darling little hole—me and my own!"

But no—this holy thing—this love—keep it to herself. Wait till it was very certain.

But Chickie visited the bungalow herself. Smiling in timidity and eagerness, she passed the carpenters studied each of the four bright sun-filled rooms. The kitchen with its white breakfast nook, its new glistening cabinets, held her in a charm. Just fancy little dotted Swiss curtains on the windows and a few golden poppies in a yellow jar on that cunning little table!

A young workman in white plasterer's overalls came in from the porch, regarded her sheepishly. "Like it, miss? Guess you're a bride?"

"Oh, no! I'm just looking around for a friend of mine." She hurried into the living room.

Barry Visits Bungalow

Here her imagination reveled. It tossed a gorgeous blue rug on the floor—a heavy Chinese thing like that she had seen at Jake's. It put an odd rosewood desk in the corner, bookcase against the walls, living coals in the open grate. They would sit here in the evenings, living out the sweet dream.

Just as the place was completed she and Barry passed it one Sunday. Chickie said, as though she had never noted it before: "Look at that shiny little place. Don't you just adore going through new houses?"

So they went in. And now finished, ready for some one to come and make of its four walls a home, it seemed to Chickie alive, a friendly personality bidding them welcome. When she saw that bookcases were already installed she smiled. Barrie would like that.

A side window in the living room gave on a low trellised gate opening to the back yard. They were standing at this window. She said suddenly: "You could easily train a rose to climb over that, couldn't you?"

He leaned down and grinned into her face. "Ah—mystery is solved! So that's why we came a house-hunting, is it?"

She colored: "Isn't it a sweet place?"

"It were."

"Don't you like it all cozy like this better than an apartment?"

"I do." And still looking into her face, his breath hurried, the intensity of his eyes made hers close. "I wish we were moving in today! Open them! Yes—you don't know how terribly I wish that, Chickie!"

Covets New Home

She answered faintly: "Don't look at me so, Barry. You make me weak! Well, you do. Why, are you so impatient now and a little while ago you seemed to hold away—to be pushing me always from you?"

He laughed: "Couldn't get away with it, could I? I seem to be very much here at present."

"You wanted to put me from you, didn't you? You never wanted to love me."

"Listen. Don't say that, Chickie, though it be true. Can't you see how it was? When the dear one sat next to me or gave me the blessed smile I wanted to grab her, crush her to her death, that sweet she is! And there be a law which say it are not right—though I doubt it—for a man to feel so far for a maid. That is for a poor young man with nothing in his pockets. So it was crush you to death or beat it—"

"And now?"

"Now we have prospects! And they'll ease the chains of matrimony! And he'll marry the girl and get her off his mind. Lordee, Chickie, the way you come stealing in on me when I'm trying to work! The way you have of slipping your hand under mine. I'm all but ruined. My concentration, has gone hang."

"And you'll marry me to get rid of me, Mr. Red?"

"That clever he is!"

"And shall we perhaps, take this little place?"

"Or one like it on top of the earth where we can sit on our front porch and look down on the world and its mother, the mountains." And buy her a blue check apron to tie around her little waist—and she'll cook his little meals."

"And serve them on that little table! Oh—"

When they went out through the back yard and the trellised gate Chickie picked a weed from the ground and stuck it in his buttonhole. "A rose it shall be before many moons!" She looked back at the cozy brown shingles—tenderly—as though the little house were already hers.

And every day afterward she passed it, thinking: "Not gone yet"—— She came to regard it as destined for them. She looked at furniture in the shop windows and wondered which things would adapt most pretty to its small rooms.

Jake Confuses Chickie

One noon time, when Barry did not meet her she went alone to a restaurant not far from Broadway. She was half finished when Jake came over quietly and took the chair opposite. Black eyes and vivid mouth smiled with a kind of indulgence that had in it a trace of sadness. Without prelude he said: "I hear you're engaged, Chickie."

She stammered: "Yes—why, who said that? I'm sure I don't know who can be the fortunate swain."

At that Jake's laugh rang. "Our friend Red, Chickie. Nice boy, but young—just starting. Others know it, Chickie—won't you tell your old friend Jake about it? You know I've more than a passing interest."

"There's nothing to tell."

"Except that you and he have had lunch together every day for nearly six weeks. And he's taken you out every night, so that no one else had a ghost of a chance. So I gather it's about half settled, anyway. I wonder if you're letting yourself in for a four or five years wait. I hope not!"

Her confusion grew. She did not know what answer to make. She stumbled: "I don't know what you can be meaning, Jake."

"That it's a sorry business, Chickie, my dear, for a girl to deliberately plan to throw away the five best years of her life."

She laughed: "Don't weep for me, Jake, you kind, nice friend. Because I've no intention of throwing anything away—not one single little year. I'm going to gather them all in."

Barry Disappointed

"Oh—" He pushed the things from him, leaned forward on his elbows, the rich, flashing smile going slowly over his face. "Chickie, if you change your mind between tomorrow and the week after or two days after that, more or less, will you let me know? Send me an SOS. Will you do that, Chickie?"

"I wonder if you'd like to see me dash on the rocks just that you might rescue me? Am I to take it that you would?"

He repeated soberly: "Will you let me know, Chickie?"

"Tish! Well, I may, and then again I may not, seeing you wish me ill."

"You've never believed that, Chickie. I know you haven't. It's not true—now, anyway!"

The quiet strength in his voice, the stillness in his intent, handsome face moved her like his warm, magnetic hand pressing her palm to the table. She said nervously: "Indeed I know that, Jake. I think of you as—oh—as some nice friendly king—"

He helped her with her coat. "I'd like to be that and more to Helena Brice. I'd like that mighty well."

She was touched. But as soon as she said good-by he was dismissed from her thoughts.

That night Barry and she drove to the beach. He sat a long while with his arms folded. Not even smoking. She moved toward him—waited.

And finally he put his arm about her. She could feel his breath, rough, heavy. He said, not looking at her: "I don't know how to tell you, Chickie. This is hell. Moore's gone. Back South. They've let the whole thing slide."

His hand touched hers. It was shaking, cold. But she had no heart to take it, or turn her fingers under his. Not going to be—all off—she was mute with the chill shock.

He entreated, "Chickie say something."

But she closed her eyes, letting her hands lie quiet and shivering in her lap. Quickened to pain by her hurt, piercing silence, he bent toward her: "Ah, listen—may not be so bad—may come out all right. Don't feel so. Say something to me, Chickie."

"I don't know what——"

"But suppose we hadn't counted on this?"

"But we did! Oh, I counted on it terribly—"

He saw her lips trembling, and underneath his own baffled resentment there went flushing and warm a quiver of exultation. Soft and delicate, leaning against him. He said uncertainly: "You care that much, Chickie? Say it!"

"You know I do." She rubbed her fingers against her eyes. "But now you will begin to push me from you. Now it can't be and you will think of all those things again——"

He took her hands and pressed them against his lips. "Like the devil I will! No! I can't. That's all there is to it. I won't!"

"You mean we'll just go on like this and wait those years?"

"Oh, something will happen. There will be other chances. Other fellows get by. We're still here, aren't we?" He laughed. "We can still have a kiss, can't we? It may come out. They may take it up again——"

But she had given herself too fervidly to the dream. Now she felt stilled and cold. She moved toward him, wanting achingly his arm about her. She said, trying to laugh: "I can wait if you can."

Everything reminded her of her hopes. She came into her room that night and, unthinking, opened the drawer where the filmy, exquisite things she had bought were hidden away. She closed it sharply.

And now when she passed the shingled bungalow she hurried. At the end of the block she could never resist glancing back. Seeing the "To Let" sign still in the window, brightness flashed through her. It was waiting for them. Might be—yet.

She told this to Barry. He had not tried to push her from him. He came more often to the window. He idled; he hurried to meet her in the alley at 5 o'clock. He said in moods of recklessness: "Let them go hang! We should ask their permission to love each other! Huh!

It frightened her, seeing the eagerness in his eyes. Then he would bend down and kiss her and laugh at her. She grew more radiant, sure of his love. Now, when she spoke of the "shiny little place still waiting for them," he moved uneasily—took a long, harsh breath.

"Yes, yes. It is? Well—"

She answered with a high, nervous laugh: "We might have moved in next month—"

He pressed her hands—hurt her, he pressed them so hard. After a throbbing pause he said: "Something's got to happen. That's sure!"

By FAY KING

BY NATURE woman is the gentler spirit.

This womanly sympathy and understanding seldom forsakes her, though she suffer from the bitterness of life, and sink to sorry depths.

Some of the most unfortunate women have not lost that spark of womanliness which still tenderly responds to the cry of a little child or the helpless aged.

That is why it is so revolting to all the world when a woman abuses little children.

A woman may be weak and immoral, but there is still something left in her to admire and respect if she has not lost her womanly nature—which is kindness.

No matter how sordid her environment a woman's influence can always be for something better if she is true to her womanly instinct.

In dire poverty inspired mothers have planned brighter futures for their children.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Loves Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Dickey's Parting Words and Anxiety for Her Thrill Madge

LILLIAN'S admonition to stop worrying about Hugh was one far easier for her to give than for me to heed. I tried hard to follow her advice, and partly succeeded in the hours which intervened between our colloquy and my departure for the farm. Indeed I hardly had time to breathe after I had bidden Mary goodnight and left her in Lillian's kindly care. For two hours I worked swiftly, steadily, typing Helena Brixton's letter to Lillian from memory that Harry Underwood might have it in his investigation of Samuel Brixton's activities, sending a night letter to Helena, telling her that I was trying to find a country house for her near us, for the Christmas holidays, and putting Dicky's clothing and belongings in perfect order, with a list of them and their location for his guidance after I should have left.

In my sorting, I came upon his missing laundry, just as I had expected I would do when he uttered his familiar plaint concerning it. But I was careful to make no reference to it when, after a two-hour nap, I rose for my journey to the farm and wakened him to say goodbye, as he had insisted the night before that I should do.

"Your poor little goat!" he said fondly, when I had wakened him with a kiss. "I'll bet you've been packing all night? Did you get any sleep at all?"

"Oh, yes." I returned brightly, sternly supressing the impulse to tell him that my own packing for the journey had taken less than ten minutes. "I had a wonderful nap, and I'm feeling very fit. Here's that typed letter to give Harry. And here's a list of your clothes and the drawers in which I have put them."

"Police! Also the state troopers!" he groaned. "I'll bet you've upset all my things. I shan't be able to find anything."

The ringing of the telephone bell punctuated my words and twisting away from Dicky's detaining hands I went to it and took down the receiver.

"The car is here, Mrs. Graham," said the husky voice of Tom, the night man. "Shall I come up after you now?"

"Yes, thank you," I returned, and with a look to see that my bags were ready for the carrying down, I returned to Dickey.

"Have you had any breakfast?" he demanded.

"Please!" I protested. "I had coffee and toast with Mary after midnight, and just before waking you I had a glass of grapefruit juice. I couldn't take anything else now, and when I get outside of the city, I'll get some breakfast. There's a good all-night lunch room in Flushing."

"I don't like you cavorting around all-night lunch rooms at this time of the morning," he began dourly, but I put my hands on his lips, and laughed down at him.

"Nary a cavort shall I indulge in." I told him, "so rest your mind. There's Tom now," as a knock sounded on the door. "I must run. Good-bye."

I kissed him again while his arms held me closely, possessively. Then I fairly ran to the door, followed by a tender last admonition which dwarfed the other annoying ones.

"Take care of yourself, and remember I'm missing you, lots."

The words went with me into the cold grayness of the outside air. Tom shivered as he put the bags into the car.

"Are you sure you're wrapped warm enough Ma'am?" he asked anxiously. "It's pretty dampish, this cold."

"Oh, yes, I have plenty of wraps," I returned, and I spoke truthfully, for I do so much driving in the cold weather that I always prepare for it. And as I settled myself in the seat behind the wheel and wrapped the warm robe around me, I was conscious that my heavy coat and gloves would make my drive comfortable were it twice as long as the journey to the farm. But more than material comfort was the warm little glow at my heart which my husband's parting words had given me. I would have been supremely happy were it not for the persistent little conviction that something terrible had happened to Hugh Grantland.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Fortunate Young Wife

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have been married a year, and have never met my husband's family, who live quite a distance away. Neither have I ever written to any of them. In each letter his sister writes she sends her love to "your wife," and in the mail today my husband received a lovely book from her, and in the same package was a lovely silk nightgown for "the little wife." Should I write her a personal letter thanking her for the lovely gift or just thank her through my husband's letter? MRS. J. F.

I URGE you to change this situation at once and begin your own correspondence with your husband's family. Apparently they have made every effort to start a correspondence with you, and certainly wondering why you do not write to them directly. They sound like delightful people, eager to be most hospitable and friendly. Write them at once, and tell them how happy you are to be in such a family, how proud you are that they welcome you so affectionately, and how you are looking forward with great pleasure to knowing them all.

Don't make your letter skimpy—write a chatty letter, an appreciative letter, a daughter-in-law letter. Then I am sure that not only will your husband's family be proud of their new daughter but that your husband will be proud and delighted that you, yourself, have started a connection with his family.

A Question of a Gift

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have been chosen to be god-father. Am I supposed to give the god-mother a gift?

NO.

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Saints and Sinners

SAINTS and sinners, listen now
To the song of Spring,
Blossoms on the red-haw bough,
Robins on the wing!
South wind blowing over-lea,
Clouds like wind-tossed spray;
Saints and sinners, who could be
Overwise today?
Deeper thoughts are well enough
For bleak Winter hours;
But the wind weaves magic stuff
Out of April flowers.
Little lilts of love arise,
Rippling to the lips,
Gay as golden butterflies,
Fleet as distant ships.
Saints and sinners, wisdom grows,
All too early, gray;
Let us choose a song, a rose
For an April day!

Every man has a sneaking conviction that he could have made a dazzling success at something else—something bigger or better or pleasanter than the thing he happens to be doing. Usually something pleasanter.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Dodge the Worry Habit

HOW often we hear the expression "Why worry?" Well, why, indeed, worry?

No good results can come out of worry. It kills sleep, impairs the appetite, and dulls the nerve centers of the brain. The nerves are on "edge" and there is loss of weight. The person is miserable, and all the family with him.

DR COPELAND

What is it that makes such a mental attitude react upon general health? It is because the emotions affect the heart to a great extent. That most important organ of the body suffers.

What an intricate machine the heart is. Even when there is no especial emotional strain, the daily pressure on it is tremendous. It pumps away day in and day out, sending the blood stream to every part of the body. It must never miss a beat.

Emotions of every sort affect the heart. Sudden fright or fear, prolonged anger or sorrow, all make very great demands upon the heart muscles and nerves. They hurt the heart action.

Worry may become a habit, and when the worry habit becomes fixed it is very apt to bring ill health to people. Disease is the outcome of not one but of many conditions in the body and mind. One thing follows another, until disaster is met.

The worrying habit saps the vitality. It is the cause of a great deal of unhappiness. Sometimes people are predisposed to worry, in a sense they have inherited the tendency to it. Almost any habit if taken in early life, and even in later life, may be corrected. If only this habit of worry could be overcome it would end many miseries, and life could be made very worthwhile.

Of course, some worries are justifiable. But the petty worries of life set up a mighty toll.

To a certain extent every one can control the number of years of his life. Your life depends very much on the condition of your heart. Worry damages that vital organ.

It helps immensely to keep cheerful; to be sanguine and philosophical about things as they come along. Why not take both success and adversity with equanimity?

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, March 27

A DAY of sudden and possibly unusual developments may be looked for, under the impetus of the very lively lunar and mutual configurations. While there are many auguries for new and profitable ventures, yet there are certain money hazards, and much will depend on sound business acumen and wise use of opportunities.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a year of larger opportunities, with promotion and preferment of an unforeseen nature; but all depends on wise management.

A child born on this day will be equipped for a successful career, with many splendid opportunities, but it should have prudence, thrift and self-control instilled early in its childhood.

The White House Gang

Charles, Dick and myself gave the elevator so many conflicting orders, that, finally, it mutinied, and refused to obey. Jamming all its buttons in an angry short-circuit, it remained mulishly immovable, half-way between the living-quarters and the attic, for, what seemed to us, to be 40 days and nights, although it may have been a few minutes only. Finally, the mechanics were brought to the rescue.

For this escapade Q criticised himself and us with one of his own personal words, "That was most imprudent!" he remarked. Perhaps he used this word because it enabled him to quote Edward Lear again, which he proceeded to do:

"There was an Old Person of Chili,
Whose conduct was painful and silly;
He sat on the stairs,
Eating Apples and Pears—
That imprudent Old Person of Chili.'

I think it would be safer for us to use the stairs from now on—" he added.

"I know some better buttons than push-buttons," Dick said abruptly. Q flushed with anger. "Don't talk about them! he said, and the Gang laughed.

Quentin Aroused

His disturbance, which reference to this subject occasioned, related to the only seriously deep irritation the Gang was ever able to make him exhibit. It arose out of his loyalty to his father; the matter was political, and harked back to the end of Theodore Roosevelt's first term. Pre-election partisanship ran high and campaign badges and buttons were prominent. Q took such special delight in snatching off Parker buttons—his father's opponent was Judge Alton B. Parker—worn at school and stamping them underfoot. Soon they were being flaunted before him, simply to make him angry.

The fact that no one could vote in the District of Columbia had no weight with Q. None of the boys wearing the emblems were within many years of registration age, even had they been where were the rights of citizenship. The bare thought, that there were people in the United States who did not want his father to be President for the next four years was enough. He regarded it as something to be over-ridden and beaten down.

There were others at school holding exactly the same sentiments as Q. They admitted the correctness of his stand, but were not given to detonate quite so quickly. Moreover: Q's drastic methods were quite likely to involve them in a fight, or, more often, a series of fights, without scarcely a word or sign of warning.

On this account the boys' coatroom, just off the classroom, often became the scene of the wildest confusion. Coats and caps would be strewn, indiscriminately, from one end of it to the other. Q's friends would take his part, surrounding and restraining him, until he could be shoved into line and marched a way from the impending danger of corrective authority. Once released, however, and stepping across the outside door-sill into the schoolyard, Q would charge all Parker buttons and Parker partisans with the fury of a small but thoroughly roused young bull, seeing red in every corner of the meadow.

Defeat Big Boys

This is particularly worthy of comment, on account of Q's unquestioning belief in the justice of his cause; his creditable personal pride; his utter disregard of the size or strength of his opponents. These qualities enabled him to overcome boys in the grade above ours, until he had trounced some notably big fellows, much older and stronger than himself.

"You just can't possibly quit on a thing so important as this," he once said, right in the middle of an encounter. He was going strong, and quoting between blows:

"There was a young lady of Clare'

("That's you, you fat-headed, freckle-faced, long-eared Parker pup!")

'Who was sadly pursued by a bear;

'When she found she was tired,'

("I've got you tired, because you're a Democrat, ha-ha, hee-haw!")

'She promptly expired.

'That unfortunate Lady of Clare.'

And so will you if you don't give me that button! You're lucky I didn't make you swallow it! There are a lot of fellas staying away from school because they have buttons inside of 'em. . . ."

Questioned by Teacher

While this latter was a happy thought of Q's and doubtless intended as a deterrent to some who would otherwise have worn the offending buttons, it had, of course, no basis in fact. The suggestion spread, however, until it finally reached the ears of Quentin's teacher, who immediately questioned him.

"No," he admitted gravely. "That's not true, at all; it's only my desire—"

Later, we used that word in Gang discussion in its generic sense when our various outcroppings of the spirit became so acute as to insist on being ventilated among ourselves. These talks, if we happened to be Q's house-guests, and quartered, all together, in one big bedroom of the White House, extended well into the night, until one after the other dropped out of the conversation and off to sleep. Regardless of the character of the subjects discussed those old walls have rarely had such sincerely serious reasoning done within them, since the cornerstone of the White House was laid by George Washington, gentleman, first President of the United States.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

A complexion of coarse texture is sometimes inherited. Again, it may be the result of lazy, sebaceous glands, or sluggish circulation. Hot water is likely to make large pores larger; cold applications will contract them. Witch hazel and alcohol are good astringements. The white of an egg has a refining influence on the skin. Beat slightly and spread over the surface. In 10 minutes remove with cold water and apply cold cream.

When the hair is streaked after henna has been applied, it is because every hair has not received attention. Henna must be applied hot, it must be put on quickly, it must be evenly distributed. The pack is made by mixing two tablespoonfuls of henna with enough hot water to form a fairly thick paste; it should simmer in a double boiler for five minutes.

The brush curl is popular now, especially for the long bob. The moist hair is brushed over the finger in ringlets, anchored with hairpins and dried.

GLANGESIA, R. K. MELLON ENTRY

*Pittsburgh will be represented in the Grand National Steeplechase over the Aintree course of four miles, 856 yards, near Liverpool, England, Friday by Glangesia, owned by R. K. Mellon and entered from the Rolling Rock Country Club. The thoroughbred is conceded one of the best chances among the American entries. The race is run twice around the difficult course mapped out above. Taking one of the hazardous water jumps in the center picture is Glangesia (on the far side) and another entry in a workout. Gregalach, last year's winner, is favored to repeat, especially with Easter Hero out. Easter Hero looked like a sure winner last year until forced down late in the race to finish second. ### LIKELY TO FARM SANKEY FOR SEASON

NOT only does the Pirate infield shape up in most promising fashion, with Gus Suhr exceeding expectations at first base and Dick Bartell showing improvement over his form of last year at shortstop, but another important item not to be overlooked is the fact that the club is going to be splendidly fortified with reserve material for the various positions on the first line of defense. It looks as if Stuart Clarke and Charley Engle will be the men retained for the substitute roles in that department. This because each is capable of playing second base, third base or shortstop in satisfactory style.

Stuart Clarke.

Clarke, who appeared in all three of those positions here last fall, is a particularly good bet as a substitute for 1930. In the coast camp this spring he has shown h'mself to be a greatly improved youngster, especially at bat. He has changed his stance at the plate with gratifying results, driving the ball so much harder and farther that he is practically certain to add many points to his last year's average of .264.

ENGLE, though not a great hitter, is an uncommonly good fielder, and as he, like Clarke, can play second, third or short, it will be seen that Manager Ens will have nothing to worry about on the score of occasional breaks in the infield. He will be able to plug up any hole in a manner to keep the team going steadily in its stride pending the return of an absent regular.

Though the management has given no hint of its intentions, it will not be surprising if Ben Sankey is placed with a good minor league club for another year's seasoning. With Bartell established at shortstop, and all-around men like Clarke and Engle available for substitute duty, Sankey will not be needed, so the logical thing to do in Ben's case is to send him out where he will have a chance to play every day and further develop the native ability that is likely one day to make him a star. Sankey looks like a great prospect for seasons to follow, and even this year he has helped the Bucs by making Bartell extend himself to the best form he has ever shown.

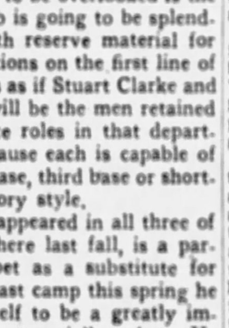
THE failure of Manager Bob Shawkey to use Pitcher Fred Heimach in any of the Yankees' spring exhibition games prepared fandom for the announcement that the left-hander has been shipped back to the minors. Heimach goes to Toledo, in the American Association.

This is the third time that the southpaw, now 28, has been returned to the smaller league. The Athletics brought him up first from Raleigh in 1920 and sent him to Moline for 1921. He was recalled and retained until 1926, when he was traded with Baby Doll Jacobson and Slim Harriss to the Red Sox for Howard Ehmke. The Red Sox sold him to St. Paul in 1927 and he remained there until the Yanks bought him in 1928.



Fred Heimach.

IT HAD been clear from the start of spring practice that Fred did not stand very well with the new Yankee manager. Perhaps Shawkey figured that in Herb Pennock, Eddie Wells, Tom Zachary and Vernon Gomez he had enough fork-hand pitchers without Heimach. Besides, he is said to have expressed the opinion that Heimach was only a five-inning pitcher in the majors. Some of the New York critics are questioning his judgment in letting Heimach get away, just as they are pointing out that the Yanks won six pennants with simple signals under Miller Huggins, whereas the introduction of a complicated set of new signs caused the loss of a game to the Braves the other day. However, the fact that 15 other managers were willing to waive on Heimach indicates that they shared Shawkey's views in this instance, at least.

REPORTS from the training camp of the Pirates continue to bring the pleasing assurance that in spite of the time that has been lost on account of rain, the Pittsburgh club is in the best physical shape it has been known in many years at this stage of the conditioning period.

Teams that claimed to see an advantage for themselves in training in some other parts of the country this spring have not enjoyed the same progress. Rain and high winds have retarded the operations of the clubs working in Florida, and the Giants and White Sox have experienced many idle days in Texas. It has been a bad spring, all around, but it is clear that the Bucs did not lose anything by sticking to California.

EVEN if Eddie Roush fails to join the Giants before the conclusion of the training trip, it may not necessarily follow that 1930 will

PARKERSBURG PINMAN THIRD IN SINGLES

CLEVELAND, March 26.—Divers and sundry dips of generous proportions were made in the American Bowling Congress prize fund yesterday by Pennsylvania and other Eastern pinsters.

Most prominent of the dives into the dough bag was that made by Frank Bailey, of Parkersburg, W. Va. He gave the sticks a ride for a 703 and landed in third place in the singles event. His games were 202, 244 and 257.

This only put a pleasing finish to a most successful day for him as he paced with B. Dorn to get a 1,264 in the doubles and mount to a tie for tenth place with Sloan and Cornwall, of Chicago. A most unusual situation developed as Dorn smashed the timber for a 703 in the two-man event and it was this same count in the singles that put Bailey up so high among the leaders.

GOOD MARKS ROLLED

Numerous good marks were hung up during the day, the best in the singles being 662 by W. Dyke, of Lima, and H. Tomkins, of Syracuse; 658 by C. Fronk, Worthington; 657 by N. Williams, of Greensburg; 652 by F. Baisch, of Reading; 646 by C. Foetz, of Greensburg, and 641 by W. Wolven, of Bradford.

The latter also went up into the doubles money when he paced with J. Read for a 1,230, the third highest doubles total of the day. H. Thompson and D. Jones, of Delaware, O., had a 1,237 to better it. Other hot two-men counts were: 1,221 by C. Bobinmyer and B. Gruehs, of Hamilton; 1,200 by F. Lou and A. Schroeder, of Muskegon; 1,199 by Underwood and Macris, of Syracuse; 1,184 by H. Guest and H. Votel, of East Pittsburgh, and 1,183 by their townsmen, G. Oakes and A. Bennett.

Yesterday's Pittsburgh district scores follow:

Geneva Floormen Elect Montgomery

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., March 26.—Lindsay Montgomery, of Pittsburgh, sophomore floor star, was elected captain of the Geneva basketball team here last night at a banquet tendered the team by Dr. M. M. Pearce, president of the school, at his residence.

The following men were awarded the varsity basketball insignia: Retiring Captain H. Friedman, Captain-elect Montgomery, Ransom, Fair, Manning, Hecker and Martin.

PIRATES OPEN AGAINST CUBS TOMORROW

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

OAKLAND, Cal., March 26.—The Pirates will finish with the Oaks today and will then get back into the big show for the four following days. The interesting series with the Cub champions is due to be cracked open tomorrow in Los Angeles, and while the Freebooters will go into battle with two or three headliners out of action, Manager Ens welcomes the test for his club.

The average major league performer, together with the managers, prefers to compete against big league clubs for more than one reason. For one thing, the competing batters have a chance to look at the same sort of pitching they will have to combat when the bell rings. That, in itself, is a big issue. The barnstorming games with minor league teams are very good in a way, but after a major league player once reaches physical condition, he likes to contest with like athletes.

REMY HONORED

The same argument that applies to the batters may be put upon the pitchers. Every smart pitcher in the big show would rather work on batters of whom he knows much. That is one reason why you read of a star hurler being knocked for a goal by a team of minor league hitters.

Consider the case of Ray Kremer, who has been a consistent winner for the Pirates these past few years right in his home town. Yesterday Frenchy was bombarded by a bunch of kids, many of whom he had never worked against before. The same smart sharpshooter who often makes the Giants, Cardinals or Cubs look like mediocre batters

LAFAYETTES COP FIRST IN PLAYOFF SERIES

VERONA FIVE BEATEN BY 37-22 SCORE

By JULIUS LEVIN.

The Duquesne Lafayettes pointed toward a fourth consecutive County League championship last night when they set down the J. J. Veronas, second half winners, 37 to 22, in the first game of the titular playoff series. Columbus Temple was packed for the event. They will meet in their second contest on the Duquesne High floor Monday night.

PENN FIVE VICTOR

Another important league playoff game saw the Penn Five defeat the Schneiders 30 to 24 in the West Penn series.

The big hero of Duquesne's triumph last night was Peck Minnick, sturdy Lafayette forward, who netted no less than seven goals and two foul baskets to register 16 of his team's 37 points. Last year's champions led 11 to 8 at half-time.

VANITIES COP, 86-0.

The Goldenson Vanities set up some sort of a record, locally at least, when Miss L. Cantwell, of the South Side sextet, rung up 35 two-point baskets in 14 minutes of play to aid her team in walloping the Langley Club 86 to 0. She had to leave the game shortly before the half ended due to an ankle injury. The lineups:

GRIMES LEAVES HOT SPRINGS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 26.—Burleigh Grimes, veteran right-hander of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who has been in training here for some time pending settlement in his salary dispute with the National League club, left here yesterday for Canton, Ohio.

Grimes plans to leave for the Wisconsin woods after he winds up his domestic affairs in Ohio. He announced that his demands for a two-year contract must be met before he accepts terms with the Pirates.

Grimes also announced that he was refused a chance to take part in the exhibition series between the Minneapolis Millers and the Little Rock Travelers.

Grimes stated that he had heard nothing from Pirate headquarters of late.

TEXAS BEATS CHICAGO

AUSTIN, Tex., March 26.—(AP.)—The University of Texas defeated the University of Chicago in a dual meet here yesterday, 62 to 46.

WILMER ALLISON WEDS

be an off season for him in a playing way.

For Roush is one player who appears to be able to get along without spring training. The best evidence of this is found in the fact that he missed two such trips while with the Reds yet led the National League in batting both years.

Art Shires.

ART SHIRES probably is convinced by this time that no "individual can set himself up as being bigger than baseball and expect to get away with it. Though he obeyed the orders of Commissioner Landis to get out of the boxing game, the talkative first baseman of the White Sox became openly defiant recently when Owner Comiskey, of the Chicago club, informed him he would have to answer satisfactorily several questions about his fistic activities before a 1930 contract would be tendered to him. From all accounts, Shires finally saw the light and answered the questions yesterday, and then signed a contract said to call for $7,500, which is just $17,500 less than he originally said he would demand. Entirely too much has been made of Shires and his case and the conclusion comes as a welcome relief.

AS USUAL, the National Football Rules Committee could not refrain from tinkering with the code. The rules makers appear to consider it their duty to do some shifting or changing every year, no matter how little. The gridiron regulations are altered oftener than those of all other sports put together.

The further curbing of the shift play by extending the official's count from 1-2-3-4 to 1-2-3-4-5-6, the authorizing of each official to call a foul of any sort and the frowning on the practice of using head gear or jerseys of the same color as the ball with a view to confusing the opposing team are all intended for the betterment of the sport, but it is hoped the time will come when steps for such betterment will not be annually adjudged necessary. It will be a decided novelty if the code is ever allowed to stand for a year untouched.

WHEN the Pirates open their four-game series with the Cubs in Los Angeles tomorrow they will face a club that has been hitting above .300 in the practice games to date. The only regular below that mark is Lester Bell, with a mark of .219.

Woody English leads with .474, followed by Stephenson 4.19, Hartnett .353, Hornsby .342, Cuyler .306, Grimm .306 and Wilson .303. English has been in only half of the games. Beck, who divided the work at shortstop with him, has an average of .263.

George Trafton.

PRIMO CARNERA doesn't face any great danger of having the success of his dollar-grabbing tour of America interrupted as he prepares to enter the ring in Kansas City, Mo., tonight for his twelfth bout in this country. His opponent is better known as a professional football player than as a fighter, being more so than George Trafton, whose greatest Queensberry achievement was the winning of the decision in a four-round bout with Art Shires. Greater credit will be required to beat Trafton, and as Carnera has that there isn't much doubt as to the outcome. Primo probably will win in his usual quick time, as he will continue to do until somebody makes him take on a real fighter. From Kansas City, Carnera will go to Denver, thence to Omaha, to Sioux City, to Los Angeles, to San Francisco and back East. The birthplaces are as numerous as the birthrate is high.

Sport Vignettes

Lying before me is the musty sports page of the Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph of Tuesday, December 31, 1901 . . . . The Chronicle Telegraph is one of the ancestors of the present Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, the other one having been the Pittsburgh Sun, born in 1906 . . . . Let's turn back the hands of Time those 29 years and look over the news items of that earlier era . . . . What is this? . . . . "Gridiron Game in California" . . . . Under a Pasadena, (Cal.) dateline is a story about Michigan's famous undefeated football eleven being ready to battle Stanford on the morrow . . . . That was the first game of the Tournament of Roses, which was to become so famous in later years . . . . Stanford, the account reads, hopes to be the first team to score on the Wolverines . . . . (Michigan won easily, 49-0) . . . . Several stories tell of trouble in the National League . . . . A movement is under way to get control of the Cincinnati club out of the hands of John T. Brush . . . . A. G. Spalding is a storm center . . . . There is an attack on Al Herford, manager of Joe Gans, uttered by Lou [illegible], under the caption, "A Rough Roast" . . . . "Yet another easy mark has been picked out for Faker Joe Gans by Manager Al Herford of notorious memory," it reads, and has to do with a proposed 20-round match in Baltimore between Gans and one Jack Downey, a "decrepit Brooklyn lightweight, who has been out of the ring for nearly a year and never ranked higher than a sixth-rate performer at his best," and winds up with "How long do the Maryland sports intend to tolerate the poisonous influence of the Herford microbe in the pugilistic atmosphere?" . . . . News of a six-day bicycle atrocity in New York, and a challenge from one swimmer to another or to the world . . . . Jesse Burkett, who has been signed by Ban Johnson to play for the St. Louis American League club in 1902 and 1903, declines an offer of a "fancy salary" from Andrew Freedman, owner of the New York Giants, to act as manager-captain of the New York club . . . . Eugene Carter, one of the greatest billiard players of his time, is dying at the age of 48 in his Chicago home . . . . He was known as "You Know Me Carter," and the story details his brilliant career . . . . He is credited with having been a better shotmaker in some respects than Jake Schaefer, the elder . . . . Lorne Campbell, of the local Bankers' hockey team, is laid up with injuries and will be missed from his team's lineup . . . . Cap Anson airs a grievance against President Soden, of the Boston National League Club, who, he says, refused him [illegible] a few years before when he could have purchased the Chicago club . . . . From Buffalo comes the intelligence that the American Bowling Congress has been requested to permit the entry of seven women stars of Chicago. This is not permissible under the rules, and the status hasn't changed any since, although women bowlers now are crowding the men in their interest in the sport all over the land . . . . Monongahela valley reader, in a letter to the editor, urges that association football (soccer) be given a trial, as it is "much better than the college game, is less hazardous and the play is faster," and he elaborates on how the game is played . . . . Jim Jeffries and Tom Sharkey have just agreed to fight for the heavyweight championship and are open for bids from promoters, the match to be staged "between March 17 and April 30 before the club offering the best inducements" . . . . A rumor has it that Willie Keeler, "after mature deliberation" has accepted an offer of $5,000 to play in the outfield for the Detroit Tigers of the American League next season, jumping the Brooklyns, of the National League . . . . A photographic likeness of John Malarkey, Rochester's best pitcher, who will be with the Boston National League club next season . . . . A headline reading "A Rank Display By A Buffalo Pugilist" appears over an account from Philadelphia of a bout between Joe Gans, the lightweight champion, and Joseph Youngs, of Buffalo, in which Youngs, after being "carried" by Gans, quit cold in the fourth round. Billy Rocap, sports scribe and later the first chairman of the State Athletic Commission, was the referee . . . . Youngs is described as a boxer who "had no stomach for the game and less knowledge of it and quit like a rank cur." He also is referred to as a lobster (or soft opponent) for the champion . . . . A crack at William C. Whitney's $50,000 racing colt Nasturtium, in which it is pointed out that the thoroughbred is not a world-beater, as claimed . . . . A couple of pot-shots at Ban Johnson, aggressive young organizer of the American League, who is causing all of that unrest in the ranks of the National League . . . . Rocco Defina cut-points George Keller and gets the decision at the end of a stirring bag-punching exhibition of five two-minute rounds, with one minute rest between rounds, for the championship and a sidebet in New York . . . . Just a sports page from a daily newspaper of almost 30 years ago . . . . Have we really changed much in the interim?

BUCS, OAKS END SERIES

was at the mercy of a bunch of sandlotters and collegians, for many players of the Oakland club of the Coast League are lads who are getting their first taste of professional ball. Kremer was one of the principal casualties yesterday as the Oaks smeared the Pirates, 9 to 2. Three homers were struck by the victorious Oakland team.

The Pittsburgh veteran was honored by many of his home friends and the members of the Pittsburgh club just before the battle began. The home folks went in with Remy's buddies to present him with a lovely watch. And then the Oaks serenaded Frenchy.

HEAVY HITTING

Only one of the trio of four baggers was made off Kremer. Ray left the game in favor of Steve Swetonic in the seventh. Buzz Arlett and Louis Martin nicked Steve for homers. Devitt-eros reaching Kremer for a circuit clout. Young Martin, who had a tryout with the Buccos at Paso Robles last spring, was the hero of the game with four slashing hits.

Two youthful pitchers, Lefty Dumovich and Monty Pearson, held the Buccos to five hits. Dick Bartell's single, with two out in the fourth, gave the big leaguers their only runs. Dumovich is a kid brother of Nick Dumovich, the southpaw who did a hitch with the Cubs. The two youngsters had the major nine batters mystified during most of the battle.

Grays Set to Open Southern Tour

After about 10 days of training at Hot Springs, the Homestead Grays tomorrow will pull stakes and proceed to New Orleans, La., where they are scheduled for games next Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

The Grays will play games in Louisiana and Texas until mid-April when they will start northward, the return to Pittsburgh being broken by games in St. Louis, April 19 and 20.

Jockey Rides Six Mounts Into Money

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP.)—Buddy Dainty, the Canadian sensation of the winter turf season, may have his off days, but yesterday was not one of them.

Accepting six mounts at St. John's Park, the little Canadian jockey booted the entire sextet into the money in a brilliant exhibition of riding. His record consisted of three winners, two seconds and a third. He did not have a mount in the seventh race.

GIZZY BOXES ANDRUCCI TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK.
Sports Editor.

A double windup card will be dished up for the boxing fans at Duquesne Garden tonight, with those two Italian lightweight rivals, Andy Andrucci of the East End and Battling Gizzy of Donora, mixing in the feature event. Johnny Smackey of Canonsburg and Ray Collins of Erie are in the other 10-rounder.

Battling Gizzy Chiodo.

Two six-round bouts bring together Young Chiodo, of Johnstown, and Ken Hargraves, Negro, of New Kensington, in the second number, and Peaches Gallagher, of Swissvale, and Frankie Moran, of Homewood, in the opening event.

This will be the club's fourth show and it promises to draw as well as the others, which have been on a paying basis.

Between Rounds

Harry Whitehead, of Butler, stablemate of Chuck Taggart, will be the opponent of Frank Novak, of the North side, in the second bout at McKeesport tomorrow night, and will try to follow in the footsteps of Chuck, who [illegible] over Novak in the main event recently. Two 10-round bouts and Taggart paired with Ray Fay, of Charleroi, and Young Rudy, of Charleroi, boxing Jimmy Herman, of Detroit.

Johnny Montabano, of Braddock, and Dan Fraser, Chicago Colored Negro featherweight, who was brought here by James Mason and Johnny Duckich, in the opening bout at the Motor Temple Friday night. This bout rounds out the program. Jack Wilson, of the North side, meets Mickey Schneider, New Castle middleweight, in the 10-round main bout. Billy Schoen, North side Sunset lightweight, boxes U. S. Carmichael, in the semi-final, and Jack Lambert, of the North side, takes on Johnny Haggerty, of Lawrenceville, in the second bout.

Johnny Dean, of New Kensington, received word [illegible] to the 4-mile race at Point Park, Lake Erie, Friday night, about which a promise that no would get the next crack at Archie Rodgers, for whose ire was rubbing on short notice if he won. He won decisively enough, but is getting the runaround on the promise. Rodgers preferring to box Archie Bell at 127 pounds, a weight he said he could not make a couple of weeks ago, when he caused Bell to pull out.

Tuffy Griffiths bokes Jack Gagnon, of Boston, in the main bout at the Arena in Philadelphia next Monday night. Tommy Brawley, local lightweight, meets Maurice Hostiger, of Hostiger, Mass., in the semi, and Eddie Elkins battles Billy McMahon in New York, while Chuck Taggart, of Butler, likely will meet Bucko Freeman in a half eight rounder at Cumberland, Md., the same night.

Cowboy De Lisle, of Lawrenceville, will box Jimmy McGraw, of Martins Ferry, O., in the semi-final to the Young Rudy-Paul Oser bout at Washington, Pa., next Monday night.

Buddy Lawless, Auburn, N. Y., welterweight, who holds several victories over Young Jack Thompson and Sergt. Sammy Baker, was married a few days ago. The bride was a Syracuse girl.

Franklin, Pa., will have an outdoor arena this summer.

The Northwestern Pennsylvania amateur boxing championships will be staged in the Auditorium at Erie on April 7, 8 and 15, under the direction of Jack Barry.

Jimmy Hogan, Erie middleweight, has joined the stable of Bob Bagster and will box on the card with Tommy Freeman and Jackie Fields, the welterweight champion, at Cleveland April 8. Billy Edwards, another member of the stable, also will be on this bill.

Johnny Mellon, of Detroit, is doing his training here for his 10-round windup with Jack Goodman, of Cleveland, at Motor Square Garden next Monday night.

Boxing will be returned to Exposition Hall at the Point next season if a move-ment now under way to obtain a lease on the premises from City Council is successful.

Mickey Duffy, of Johnstown, and Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, will box the eight-round semi-final at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. Ted Tapak, of Monaca, and Young Joe Walcott, of Washington, Pa., are in the second bout.

MEINE TO FACE CUB BATTERS TOMORROW

By Staff Correspondent.

OAKLAND, Cal., March 26.—Heine Meine will be the first of the Pirate sharpshooters to face the fury of the Cubs' attack. Manager Ens stated this morning that the St. Louis Dutchman would be asked to do the seven-inning distance at Wrigley Field, Los Angeles, tomorrow afternoon, provided all goes well for Heinie.

Ens intended to stick to his plan of working his hurlers in couplets. Jess Petty has been finishing up for Heine and the Silver Fox will be ready in the bull pen for the inaugural with the National League champions.

With Grimes and Traynor out of action and a chance that Lloyd Waner will be unable to play, Ens has to be content with a ready-made battle front. It is not disparaging to Stewie Clark to point out that the Buccos miss their gallant captain, who is suffering with iritis. Pie still wears the black glasses, but he states that his condition otherwise is fine. Aside from the blurred optic, the Somerville greyhound appears ready for a big season.

Traynor is not likely to don baseball togs while the club is in Los Angeles. He will still have two weeks in which to re-condition himself if he stays away from baseball for the remainder of the stay in California. Pie is glad he had the two troublesome teeth extracted. The third baseman thinks he will be the better for this loss. Meantime, L. Waner is perked up a bit.

Lloyd may take a little workout today, and if he feels even close to condition he will take his place in the order against the Cubs.

Doneghay Named To Handle Soccer Cup Final

Edward J. Doneghay, former member of the Western Pennsylvania Valley Soccer Referees' Association, has been selected to referee the grand final of the National Challenge Cup, featuring the Fall River Club, winner in the East, and the Hungarian Burells, winners of the West.

The first game will be staged at the Polo Grounds, New York City, next Sunday, and the second game will be played in Cleveland a week later. Since Eddie left Pittsburgh two years ago he has had remarkable success in the eastern part of the country and has handled many of the big games.

Doneghay came to Pittsburgh after playing with Bethlehem Steel in 1916 and joined the famous Braddock team. After finishing his playing career, he joined the referee's ranks.

DUKES TO NAME FLOOR LEADER

Tomorrow night Coach Chick Davies' Dukes will choose a captain for their campaign of next year when 20 headliners, featuring Georgetown and others, will be played. The basketball lettermen will ballot at their annual banquet in the Keystone Athletic Club.

The dinner is to be informal and the only speakers will be Coach Davies, Rev. John F. Dodwell, chairman of the Duquesne Athletic Council, and John D. Holahan, graduate manager of athletics. Following the awarding of sweaters and monograms, impromptu speeches probably will be made by the players and newly-chosen captain.

Capt. George (Ganzy) Benedict, the present floor leader, as well as one of the Dukes' co-captains of football for next season, is favored to again clinch the basketball leadership.

Our 75c Dinners, served from 5 to 8 P. M. each business day, are unsurpassed.

By JESS CARVER

Sharon High sends another of it champion basketball teams roistering into the final of the P. I. A. A. tournament. The Mercer County school crashed the gate of the final of the state tourney for the second year in a row by defeating Lewistown in a semi-final struggle in the Pitt Stadium last night. The score was 34 to 24.

Sharon now will meet Lower Merion, Eastern regional champion, for the state title in the Palestra of the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia Saturday night.

FOURTH IN ROW

Victors for the fourth year in succession in District No. 8, Sharon this season again mowed down the best the W. P. I. A. L. could officially offer in the way of competition by downing New Kensington at Grove City last Friday, and then last night, battering out a 10-point margin triumph over the champions of District No. 6.

Last night's affair was a wild and wooly one, with Sharon outclassing its eastern opponent for all but a few minutes of play. A ragged and slow defense proved Lewistown's undoing. The game was inclined to be rough, especially during the closing minutes of play, when Jim Murphy, Sharon center, and Cleland, pivot man of Lewistown, tried their best to trade a punch or two.

SHARON CUTS LEAD

Sharon overtook an early Lewistown lead in the second period. At the end of the first, the Easterners were out in front by 6 to 5, but Sharon, due to some excellent work on the part of Murphy, Deems and Compton, led by 15-11 at the half.

In the third period, or just as it was nearly over, Lewistown whittled down a Sharon advantage that had reached the 20-15 stage, and Reynolds' goal from under the basket pulled things into a deadlock just as the quarter ended.

LATE RALLY WINS

Sharon blossomed forth in all the glory of a real attack in the final period, Murphy hooking in a trio of goals as Deems, Compton and Laycock each counted once to pull far ahead of the now badly disorganized District No. 6 passers. Lewistown failed to score a field goal in the last period, contenting itself with four foul points.

Murphy led in the scoring with 14 points. He was stopped and outplayed by Cleland during the first half, but evened matters with his rival in the final period. Reynolds, diminutive Lewistown forward, was the star of the contest for his team, exhibiting fine speed and a mastery of floor play. The lineup:

| Sharon | | Lewistown |
|---|---|---|
| Deems | F | Hasson |
| McCamant | F | Reynolds |
| Murphy | C | Cleland |
| Laycock | G | Barlow |

Score by periods:

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Sharon | 5 | 10 | 5 | 14—34 |
| Lewistown | 6 | 5 | 5 | 8—24 |

Field goals—Murphy 5, Deems 3, Compton 4, Laycock, McCamant, Reynolds, Hasson, Cleland 2, Carruthers 2.

Fouls—Deems, 0 out of 2; McCamant, 2 out of 4; Murphy, 4 out of 8; Laycock, 0 out of 1; Reynolds, 4 out of 6; Cleland, 2 out of 5; Carruthers, 4 out of 4.

Team fouls—Sharon, 6 out of 15; Lewistown, 10 out of 13.

Umpire—Bruce Snyder. Referee—Bill Dayhoff.

The Tip Off

Despite the inclement, (at least) weather of yesterday, they parked 'em in at the Stadium for the Sharon-Lewistown game. Sharon brought a couple special train loads of fans along on M. Al Leslie's well-known chauffeur line. Lewistown was almost as well represented.

Bill Dayhoff worked his first game in Pittsburgh, serving in the capacity of umpire. The former Buckeye star has become quite portly, but still resembles Larry Conover, of Penn State. Both can take a bow on that one.

Dr. Richard Booth, who used to shatter Bone for Pitt, was among those notables present and was seen stalking from the floor following the contest with Jock Sutherland. The lattern first was sporting a new necktie. (Fashion note).

Dr. Harold Clifford Carlson, Panther basketball mentor, addressed the sport banquet of the Kiwanis Club of Ambridge last evening prior to Lincolning in at about 60 per to the Stadium game.

To return to Bill Dayoff. The blond Buckwheatian put local officials to shame as far as sartorial getup is concerned, appearing on the floor in white flannel knickers, white shirt, black bow tie and black hose. He looked like a cross between Oscar Dawson and Al Black on the football field.

Lighthorse Deems, chunky Sharon forward, was again the dynamic ball hawking power in the Mercer Countaite offense. His defensive work left little to be desired. He popped three neat ones.

The Pittsburgh part of the crowd rushed from the Stadium to the Labor Temple to see the Veronse and Duquesne Lafayettes begin their series for the County League championship. The rush was led by Julius Levin, the Rudy Vallee of this department.

NO. 5—LESSONS IN BUNTING.

Bunting the ball looks easy. But it isn't. It is one of the hardest plays in baseball and requires a good eye, perfect touch and perfect judgment of speed and distance. To be a good bunter you not only must be able to hit the ball but you've got to put it where you want it, either right or left as the case requires.

It took Eddie quite awhile to get bunting form down and we had a lot of laughs at his awkwardness, but he's got it pretty well in the picture.

If you look closely you'll see that Eddie's left hand is gripping the bat firmly at the end. The right hand is slipped half way up on the bat and is holding the bat very loosely. Ed couldn't understand what that was all about.

"Listen," I told him. "It's the right hand that guides the bat to send the ball in the direction you want it, and, by holding the bat loosely, this hand moves the bat into the ball and by its very looseness kills the impact of the pitch and drops the ball dead. When you hold that bat loosely and hit the ball it's like throwing into a bag of feathers. All the force is taken out of the throw and the ball drops dead when you want it.

"But you've got me stepping in the bucket," Ed argued.

"Sure," I explained, "when you bunt it is one time when you do step in the bucket. You face squarely around with the pitch, and that enables you to meet the ball without any swing and yet push it in the direction you wish."

Bunting in the direction you want is merely a matter of changing the angle of the bat, turning it to the left or right as you wish, much the same as a tennis player shifts his racquet for a placement shot. One thing, though, is important. The bat-guiding must be done with the right hand only by a right-hand hitter. (Reverse for a left-hand hitter.) The minute you tighten your grip to shift the bat with the left hand you get too much on the ball and instead of a bunt you get a pop fly to one of the infielders or the pitcher.

MISS WALL TO PLAY

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 26.—Miss Bernice Wall, several times Wisconsin state champion, will be a member of the group of American golfers, headed by Miss Glenna Collett, who will invade England this spring for the first international women's team matches.

Injunction Granted For Carnera Go In Denver

DENVER, March 26.—(AP.)—The huge bulk that is Primo Carnera will be displayed in a Denver ring Friday night against Jack McAuliffe despite the fact that the Colorado State Boxing Commission has declared McAuliffe an "unsuitable opponent."

District Judge Henry Bray yesterday granted the West Side Athletic Club a temporary injunction restraining the commission from interfering with the scheduled match at the Stock Yards Stadium.

McAuliffe, "the unsuitable opponent," was perhaps the most interesting of the witnesses and laughs echoed through the courtroom as he told how he was "technically knocked out" by a third rater.

Fight Results

MAROONS TOP BRUINS, 1-0

BOSTON, March 26.—(AP.)—The Montreal Maroons fought the Boston Bruins for almost 67 minutes here last night to gain their first victory out of three starts in the play-off series between the division champions of the National Hockey League. The score was 1-0. During the three regular periods, a 10-minute overtime session and almost 17 minutes of sudden death play, but one score was made, that caged by Archie Wilcox, one of the Montreal spare defense men.

The fourth game of the series will be played here tomorrow night. The lineup:

| Bruins. | | Montreal Maroons. |
|---|---|---|
| Thompson | G | Walsh |
| Hitchman | L | Boucher |
| Shore | R | Dutton |
| Barry | C | Stewart |
| Galbraith | L. W. | Northcott |
| Oliver | R. W. | Smith |

Boston spares—Weiland, Clapper, Gainor, Owen, Carson, Mackay, Coulson.
Montreal spares—Munroe, Wilcox, Ward, Phillips, Trottier, Dunsmore, B. Phillips, Robinson.
Officials—Newtson and Corbeu. First period—No score. Penalties — Boucher, Hitchman. Second period—No score. No penalties. Third period—No scoring. Penalties—Bill Phillips, Bal Phillips, Hitchman. Overtime scoring—1, Montreal, Wilcox, (Ward), 27:00. No penalties.

JACKIE DUGAN WINS

In the semi-final Joe Corelli, Pittsburgh, was knocked out in the fifth round by Young Demko, Weirton, W. Va. Ed Yarosz, Monaca, Pa., defeated Ray Mitchell, East Liverpool, in one of the four-round preliminaries and in the other Johnny Frakanjo, Weirton, W. Va., outpointed Frank Lenco, Midland, Pa.

O'NEIL RELEASED

BRADENTON, Fla., March 26.—(AP.)—George (Mickey) O'Neil, National League backstop for several years with Boston, Brooklyn and New York, last night was given his unconditional release by the St. Louis Cardinals to allow the retention of Gus Mancuso, formerly of Rochester. O'Neil, whose arm went bad on him, was rounding into good shape this spring.

Campus Comment

By KNUTE ROCKNE

EDUCATIONAL TREND

Knute Rockne

An exceptional educational report is that of Chancellor Brown, of New York University. In his "Philosophy of Teaching," imagination is given the prominence that memory once had. "Sheer repetition, rote, moderation, formation and information — they are at their lowest in this school of thought, while imagination, as initiative and creative activity, is at its zenith. While the energy of personal education lies in imagination, it must be energized by persistent reference to realities. First of all, it must be informed by what man has attempted and achieved in the past."

There is nothing new in this philosophy of teaching, as football coaches have been using this method with their quarterbacks for years. The method has been very sound and has been productive of fine results in the development of smart quarterbacks. The schools adopting this philosophy cannot miss the true way of education very much. To find in the forest of educational theories and fads—most of them weird, fantastic and impractical—a few trees of sound common sense is truly refreshing.

Greene County Star Joins Mobile Club

WAYNESBURG, Pa., March 26.—Harold Roberts, of Pine Bank, Greene County, has left for Mobile, Ala., where he will join the spring training camp of the Mobile club of the Southern Association. Roberts, a pitcher, played last year for Jersey City, in the International League, and had a good year. Prior to that time he performed for two years with Fairmont in the Middle Atlantic League and is claimed by many to be headed for the big leagues.

POLLIKOWSKI QUITS

Johnny Pollikowski, who has been umpiring on local gridirons for the last 15 years, has decided to retire from the game and will not umpire this year. He intends to continue his bowling interests, however.

ECKERSALL RITES SET

She's Never Heard of End Point or Specific Gravity But . . . .

SHE'S the 1930 girl, driving from the front seat and driving well enough to give many all-knowing and critical males some pointers on handling a car.

You could talk for hours on specifications of any kind of gas and she wouldn't understand a word you said. She's interested in eliminating knocks, not in hearing about "end points", in power on hills, not in "specific gravity", in get-away in traffic, not in "distillation". And, because she is a critical judge of values, she knows that even though AMOCO-GAS costs slightly more per gallon, more miles to the gallon and reduced operating expense makes it really cost less per mile.

The 1930 girl drives frequently, drives well and drives on AMOCO-GAS. She's read all the ads, tried all the fuels and found that only AMOCO-GAS will give absolutely knockless performance . . . the power, get-away, quick starting and speed that she demands.

She's glad to pay a few cents more per gallon because experience has taught her that AMOCO-GAS is the most economical fuel in the end.

You, too, are coming to AMOCO-GAS. Start today.

BULLS, BEARS BATTLE FOR CONTROL

Main Tendency Upward in Erratic Market; 50 Touch 1930 Highs, Others Fall

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP.)—The stock market pursued an erratic course today as opposing speculative interests continued to struggle for control of the price movement, but the main tendency appeared to be upward.

Fifty, or more, issues moved into new high ground for the year or gains ranging from 1 to 9 points, while a scattering of others sold down 1 to 5 points on profit taking and bear selling.

While the volume of trading was not as large as that of yesterday, the ticker again ran far behind the market, the delay at the end of the third hour being more than 30 minutes.

Two constructive business developments helped to maintain bullish enthusiasm. They were the report that export sales of copper yesterday were the largest of any single day since last September, and the Iron Age Review's report of a small upturn in steel production, the first since the middle of February.

MONEY PLENTIFUL

Call money renewed at 3½ per cent and was in fairly plentiful supply at that figure. The time money market was dull and somewhat firmer, presumably in reflection of the two increases in bankers' acceptances yesterday. Officials of the New York Federal Reserve intimated that they are committed to an easy money policy as a stimulus to business, but the rise in bankers' acceptances leads to the belief that no further reduction in the rediscount rate is contemplated at this time.

Several commission houses adhere to the theory that the recent rise in many issues has been too rapid, and urge a lightening of speculative commitments and scale buying of seasoned dividend paying industrials. Extensive switching from recent leaders to issues believed to be behind the market accounts for much of the recent irregularity.

RANGE WIDE

Vanadium Steel, which has been the spectacular individual performer all week, again moved over a wide range today. The stock, which dropped from a record high of 124½ to 114 in the last hour of trading yesterday, ran up to 122 today and then fell back to 116 before fresh support was forthcoming.

Public utilities were again in the forefront of today's advance. Electric Power and Light was the spectacular feature, crossing 89 to a new high for a gain of more than 10 points. Western Union, which has been weak on rumors of new financing, jumped 8 points; Brooklyn Union Gas 6, and American Power and Light 3⅝ to a new top at 115.

G. E. AT NEW HIGH

One block of 35,000 shares of General Electric changed hands at 80, followed by a further advance into new high ground. Among the many other issues to eclipse their previous 1930 high prices were United Aircraft, National Air Transport, Bullard Company, International Harvester, Johns Manville, Commercial Solvents, Mathieson Alkali, Conde Nast, Air Reduction, Columbia Gas, Superior Steel, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Barnsdall, Continental Oil, Houston, Colorado Fuel, Chicago and Eastern Illinois common and preferred, Atlantic Coast Line, Borg Warner and Midland Steel Products.

National Biscuit (old stock) dropped 4½ points, and United Carbon, Indian Refining certificates, Auburn, R. H. Macy and advance Rumely 2 to 3½. American Locomotive sold at another new low.

Bond Club to Hold Weekly Luncheon

Dr. Edward R. Weidlein, director of Mellon Institute, will speak on "Science in Industry" at the regular weekly luncheon of the Bond Club of Pittsburgh, to be held tomorrow at noon in the William Penn Hotel.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, March 26.—Wheat scored price gains today after an early downturn. Initial declines were associated with the weakness of Liverpool quotations, but commission houses here were active buyers, owing to reported dearth of moisture Southwest. Opening ⅛ to ⅛c off, Chicago wheat futures rose afterward to well above yesterday's finish, but top prices failed to hold well. Corn, oats and provisions developed firmness also, with corn starting at ⅛c decline to ⅜c gain and subsequently tending upward.

Crop reports from Kansas and Oklahoma laying stress on need of rain received particular attention of many wheat traders. There were also advices that in some sections the weather was too windy for wheat. On the other hand, a forecast of snow for Kansas and Nebraska brought about considerable selling at times.

Purchases of May delivery of wheat for Farm Board allies were a factor giving decided help at times to bulls and acting as an offset to bearish cable news. Reports at hand indicated France might have as much as 16,000,000 bushels of wheat for export. Meanwhile, North American export business was disappointing, overnight sales for shipment abroad consisting only of small scattered amounts, and not including any from the United States.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP.)—The Curb Market continued to work higher today, although price movements were largely narrow. The sharp downturn on the big board late yesterday made traders in this market rather hesitant during the early hours of trading, but a strong rally in Electric Bond and Share helped to restore confidence as the session wore on.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

New York Bond Market — Latest Financial News

Stock Exchange Topics

Street Less Confident Of Further Cut in N. Y. Bank Rate.

WALL STREET is momentarily a good deal less confident of the prospects for another early cut in the Reserve Bank rate. Yesterday's boost in bankers' acceptance yield rates is regarded as considerably shortening the chances for another cut in the official discount rate. Moreover, persistent strength in sterling exchange, which advanced another ¼ cent to levels about 1⅜ cents above the low of a month or six weeks ago, is accepted as arguing against a change. Sterling is now but little more than a cent below the rate at which gold might be expected to move toward London. Current strength in British exchange at the moment is ascribed to much the same causes as prevailed last fall when British capital was going home. The combination of low money rates, and realization of stock market profits is believed chiefly responsible for the rise while curtailed buying of American commodities is probably a contributory influence.

Despite the generous ratio of earnings to current market valuation that Union Carbide stock is selling for, it is being pressed to the fore of the general market list at every opportunity. Earnings for 1929 were the largest in the history of the company, amounting to $3.94 per common share, as compared with 72 cents per share on a smaller capitalization in the previous year. It still maintains its place at the helm of the chemical list, and research work into new fields continue to promise new sources of income for stockholders.

AMERICAN RADIATOR AND STANDARD SANITARY stock has been in a trading rut for some time, but several times in the past week it has given promise of emerging on the upside. The first consolidated report since the merger of these two companies was consummated in the early part of 1929 showed earnings per share of $2.04, which amply covers the dividend requirements of $1.50 per share. The outstanding position that this company holds in the construction industry can be seen in the statement for last year in which sales of the organization declined but 3 per cent, as against a decline in dollar volume of residential building of more than 30 per cent.

Not since the hectic days of the 1929 bull market and the culminating crash of October and November, have the stock exxhange facilities been swamped so far beyond their ability to carry the burden of trading as proved the case yesterday. The tape was crowded progressively behind the active pace of dealings from the opening, until by mid-afternoon, with heavy profit-taking evidently in progress, a gap of almost 50 minutes had been created. This tremendous rush, coupled with the steady rise in collateral borrowings, and expectations that another increase would be shown on Thursday, offered evidence quite indisputable of a return of public participation in the market on a large scale.

WALL STREET now hears that the annual report of the Radio Corporation will be out some time next week. While it is rather generally conceded that the report will make poor reading, the speculative fraternity has been anxious, for one reason or another, to get hold of it, and its patience has been sorely tried, to say the least. Delay in making it public is said to have been due to the inclusion of the results of Victor Talking Machine and other subsidiaries. The corporation is expected to reveal net equivalent to only about $1.60 a share, but it will be noted, it is said, that this showing will be after the most extensive sort of write-offs.

The manner in which bullish operations centered in the choicest stocks during yesterday's session spoke volumes for the keen discrimination which is being employed by forces back of the rise. A wide list of active stocks pushed into new high territory for 1930, and it was worthy of note that this list embraced very largely the "pick of the list." Air Reduction, American Can, American Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, Union Pacific and Standard Oil of New Jersey were in that category, while among the stocks that scored marked progress during the day were included General Electric, American Tobacco, American Power and Light and several of the amusement issues.

Zeppelins Soon to Start Regular Ocean Service

By B. C. FORBES

THAT Zeppelins will by and by be crossing and recrossing the Atlantic on regular schedule is assured by the ample financial support extended to Dr. Hugo Eckener by Charles E. Mitchell, head of the National City Bank and other responsible interests. Mitchell has been the mainspring of the United Aircraft Corporation, which is headed by F. B. Rentschler, brother of Gordon S. Rentschler, president of the National City Bank. United Aircraft's just-issued annual report shows that it is making real money.

TALKING of trans-Atlantic travel, General Passenger Agent Owen A. Smyth, of the United States Lines, says:

"Bookings on the Leviathan and the other ships of the line show a marked increase. In fact, bookings are well above normal and there is but little cabin space available on sailings from early May to the end of August."

THE showing made thus far by income tax returns suggests that there were extensive profits as well as losses incurred in the stock market last year. As a matter of fact, many of the "wise ones" sold stocks very freely before the smash came. It didn't take superhuman wisdom to reason that most shares had reached absolutely unwarranted heights and that drastic reaction was inevitable.

Incidentally, many who made big profits during the rise, reentered the market during the panic and bought very extensively. It is entirely possible that during the current year stock profits will generously swell many of the tax returns to be made out next March. It is just as certain that good stocks bought during the panic will eventually yield rich profits as it was that stocks bought at the height of the boom would eventually show severe losses.

WALL STREET is speculating on another reduction in the Federal Reserve Bank rate at New York this week. All things considered, it would be preferrable not to make another cut at this time. If need arise, such action should be taken later.

POLITICIANS are wonderful promisers, but not such wonderful performers. When the British Labor politicians were coaxing British voters to entrust the government of the nation to them, they declared that they would make short work of unemployment. That they would cure it in a jiffy.

The cold fact is that when Ramsay MacDonald's party took office last year the unemployed totaled 1,100,000. The number now unemployed as 1,539,000, an increase in unemployment of almost 40 per cent.

A SCALLOPY advance would still seem to be the course the stock market is most likely to follow this year.

STEEL DEMAND INCREASING

NEW YORK, March 26.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say:

Sentiment has improved in the iron and steel trade, but to what extent this change is based on hopes rather than on justifiable expectations is still uncertain. Among favorable straws are an upturn in steel production, following a continuous decline since the middle of February and scattered evidences of better demand.

Although neither the gain in output nor the expansion of business is large, the pronounced conservatism of buyers makes the industry unusually sensitive to fluctuations in the requirements of its customers. Mill backlogs are small, and price unsettlement discourages forward contracting. Hence any rise in commitments can be safely regarded as reflecting an increase in the actual needs of the consuming trade.

The operating rates for the two leading steel centers, Pittsburgh and Chicago, remain unchanged at 75 to 95 per cent, respectively.

The most impressive indication of a seasonal upturn in business is seen in the placing of 100,000 tons of plates with Chicago mills for gas and oil pipe.

Seasonal influences are also seen in better orders for sheets and other light rolled products from sources other than the automobile industry.

Less reassuring are the week's developments among consuming lines that have been giving the steel industry its greatest support. Structural steel awards, at 20,000 tons, are the smallest since the end of February.

The high pace of the farm equipment industry has been halted. In the automobile industry a few manufacturers have slightly increased production, but no material gain in motor car output is expected until May.

The scrap market, which is closely watched for any light it may throw on the future course of steel business, gives no signs of recovery, nor can the status of finished steel prices be considered encouraging.

Arnold Constable Sells Stewart Unit

NEW YORK, March 26.—Negotiations have been practically completed whereby Bonwit, Teller & Co. will lease for 21 years the new Stewart & Co. store of the Arnold Constable Corporation for an annual rental of $475,000. Bonwit, Teller also will purchase the fixtures of the Stewart store for $800,000 and inventories for approximately $400,000, paying therefor in common stock at $17 a share. This was opened by Arnold Constable last fall.

ALLIS BACKLOG LARGEST ON RECORD

Unfilled Orders March 1st Totaled $13,592,000; Net Income Shows Big Gain

NEW YORK, March 26.—Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company contemplates additional expansion of manufacturing facilities this year in line with increasing volume of business. Principal expenditures will be for additions to buildings and equipment at the West Allis works to increase production of the electrical and Texrope divisions and tractor motors. Further expansion of facilities at the former Monarch tractor plant in Springfield, Ill., also is planned.

Expenditures for extension of facilities in 1929 amounted to $3,345,555, the major portion of which was disbursed on the tractor, Texrope and welding departments at the West Allis works, and on the crawler type tractor division at Springfield. The remainder was expended for the purchase of assets of La Crosse Plow Company.

PRESENT TREND UP

Orders booked this year have been running materially ahead of those in 1929, the total for January, of $4,030,000, being more than 10 per cent in excess of the corresponding month of last year. February bookings exceeded those for January and indications are that March also will top the figure for the corresponding month a year ago.

For all of 1929, bookings established a new record, totaling $48,493,817 compared with $35,957,198 in 1928, an increase of more than 34 per cent. Against 1927, last year's bookings showed a gain of almost 60 per cent.

SALES AT NEW HIGH

Coincident with increased orders booked this year, backlog of unfilled business also has been gaining and on March 1, last, was at a new high record of $13,592,000, a gain of $2,521,000, or 22.7 per cent over March 1, 1929. Company carried over $12,872,676 of unfilled orders at the opening of this year, an increase of 32 per cent over January 1, 1929.

Sales billed, consequent upon the larger orders, have been increasing each year and were at a new high figure of $45,302,355 in 1929. This was a gain of 24 per cent over the total for 1928, and compared with $28,921,357 for 1925.

NET GAINS 47½ PER CENT

Net income registered the greatest gain last year over 1928, the increase being 47½ per cent as compared with 24 per cent for sales billed and 34 per cent on orders booked. Since a good portion of the company's expanded facilities was not available until the latter part of last year, the net income for 1929 did not give full reflection of expenditures thereon, and should show to better advantage this year.

Among the more important developments in the affairs of Allis-Chalmers last year was the acquisition of the right to manufacture the McMillan defiberizing machine. These machines make wood fiber from pulpwood logs and slabs ordinarily regarded as waste. Machines probably will be used extensively by wall-board mills, gypsum companies and others using wood fiber for similar purposes.

WESTINGHOUSE GETS BIG ORDER

PHILADELPHIA, March 26.—(AP.)—An order for electrical equipment amounting to approximately $1,000,000 was placed by the Reading Company yesterday with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

The order includes motors and control for the latest type of high speed multiple unit cars and high tension switching equipment for controlling the power to be supplied by the Philadelphia Electric Company through the new Wayne Junction sub-station.

This is one of the first steps in the Reading Company's plans to electrify the suburban passenger train service leading into the Reading Terminal here. The lines are to be ready for operation early in the spring of 1931.

Register 158,285 Cars in February

DETROIT, March 26.—New car registration in 38 states for February totaled 158,285, of which 65,952 of this number were Fords, or approximately 41 per cent, according to R. L. Polk compilations.

During January new car registrations for all states were 180,094 cars, of which 70,247 were Fords. In February, 1929, new cars registered in all states were 235,266, of which 74,544 were Fords.

Fewer Cars Handled By Pennsy System

PHILADELPHIA, March 26.—The Pennsylvania Railroad System handled 139,753 loaded cars in the week ended March 22, compared to 140,958 in the previous week and 156,810 in the 1929 week.

Pittsburgh Coal Co. Re-elects Directors

At the annual meeting of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, retiring directors were re-elected. Other business was of a routine nature.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Nothing Ever Happens

MR. PUDDINGFORD, librarian, came into the quiet little reference room of the great city library and glanced around.

Mr. Puddingford took pride in what he called keeping his fingers eternally on the "pulse" of the library.

"Well, well, what has happened today, Miss Grey?" he asked.

"Nothing ever happens," said Marcia Grey.

"Well, well that is as it should be in a well-regulated library, but you know I have to be about—I must keep my fingers eternally on the pulse of the library."

Marcia Grey jabbed a request slip on the day's filing spindle and said, "Yes, Mr. Puddingford."

What she was thinking was "Good lord—pulse—this library has no more pulse than a three-thousand-year-old mummy."

Mr. Puddingford glanced with approval at the neatness of Marcia's desk and at the thirty odd slips on the spindle which indicated that so many references had been sought and the needed information supplied. Then he sauntered out.

A pudgy man came in and asked for something "comprehensive" on the lost Dauphin. He explained that he intended to write something "funny" about it.

Without a flicker Marcia said, "Mark Twain wrote something rather humorous on that subject in 'Huckleberry Finn.'"

The pudgy man seemed quite disappointed as he ambled out.

Marcia sighed.

Nothing ever happened and she was just about fed up on nothing ever happening—only she didn't use such phrases as "fed up."

When Marcia found herself alone in the world, with a few thousand dollars in the bank and a college diploma, she visioned a pleasant and active life.

The opportunity came for her to take charge of the reference room of this large public library. It seemed to be an excellent opportunity, so she took it.

And then, as it seemed to Marcia, nothing ever happened.

Marcia's Ideal

Marcia couldn't drink gin. She couldn't pet. She had a healthy complexion and saw no need of cosmetics. She was rather fond of nice young men, but Marcia's idea of a rather nice young man was one with some aim in life above making whoopee.

Twice Marcia met young men who attracted her. They were fine, manly fellows. The only trouble was that one was engaged and the other one married. The few parties she went out on with some of her few girl friends failed to amuse her, to say the least.

Marcia's friends said she was a "dead one." No, they were a little more modern, they either said she was a "flop" or a "wet smack."

So Marcia helped people dig information out of books in her public library department, she read books regularly, she went three times a week to a gymnasium and now and then to a play or concert.

Little wonder that Marcia had for the past year, complained that nothing ever happened.

Marcia was thinking of changing her living quarters. For two years she had roomed with Mrs. Stevenson in a second floor front room. Mrs. Stevenson sold her rooming house and went "back home" to some mysterious place, a Mrs. Leverage took the house.

Mrs. Leverage thought it would be "jollier" to have both men and women in her place. Mrs. Leverage's parlor became full of jazz and dancing. Letty Unger was a newcomer. She said she was a professional dancer, although she didn't seem to work at it except to turn on jazz on the radio and dance with young Mr. Sneffle or old Mr. Torks or any other male who would dance.

Marcia's room being over the parlor, she found it was altogether too noisy for her. She had complained to Mrs. Leverage that radio and dancing after midnight wasn't her idea of rest.

One day Marcia heard Mrs. Leverage say to Letty she must "pipe down as the librarian woman overhead objects."

"Aw, that wet smack doesn't know she's living. Let her put cotton in her ears," was Letty's advice.

Marcia Startled

Marcia was walking the two blocks from the subway one day. It had been raining. Marcia was going to her room to look up in the papers some other rooming place. Thinking intently, she started to cross the street against the traffic lights. A car came along, swerved to avoid her and splashed her from a street puddle.

Marcia leaped back, saw the light was against her, and felt embarrassed, but the man in the car had swerved back to the curb and was getting out. He came to Marcia, hat in hand.

"I am sorry, Miss, about your dress, he said.

Marcia was somewhat startled. This was an almost unheard-of thing.

"It wasn't your fault — I shouldn't have tried to cross," Marcia told him, honestly.

"Just the same, if you would let me—I mean I've ruined your dress—if you'll permit me to——"

He extracted a bill fold and Marcia's cheeks turned red as she shook her head and backed away.

"Thank you—but it was my fault—and the dress can be cleaned," she said.

The lights changed and Marcia hurried across the street.

She looked back. The man was standing beside his car, watching her. She smiled and he lifted his hat and jumped into his car. Marcia went her way.

"Something almost happened, but it didn't," she murmured. "Nothing every really happens so far as I am concerned—and he was such a fine looking man."

So Marcia went to her room, put on another dress and went out to her favorite quiet little tea room for her modest dinner. After dinner she looked up rooms in the classified advertisements and jotted down a list.

To Marcia's surprise the very room she wanted was found only half a block away.

She moved in. And now and then she would look about on her way home wondering if she would ever see the handsome man who had offered to pay for the dress he had spattered.

"I'll never see him—nothing ever happens," Marcia complained to himself.

The very next day she saw him.

Letty Flops in Street

First she saw Letty Unger. Letty didn't see her. Letty started to cross the street and the man was driving along. He saw Letty and swung his car out. Marcia was staring straight at the man.

"You big stiff!" Letty yelled and as the man drove on Letty suddenly flopped right in the street and howled.

The man stoped his car and came back.

"I guess he broke my leg!" yelled Letty.

Two policemen came and a big crowd. Marcia hesitated, then got out of the crowd. She detested crowds.

"The poor little fool — so eager for notoriety," was what Marcia thought of Letty.

Letty lost no time. She brought suit for $100,000 against Dr. Laurence Sessons, who had so cruelly run her down with his car.

The papers made a little sensation of it. The "sob sisters" described how Letty Unger's career was ruined just as she had become a famous dancer—now she could never dance again.

Marcia read this when she got to her room the third night after witnessing the "accident." It made her boil.

And this Dr. Laurence Sessons was really such a careful driver and such a wonderful young man!

Marcia had an idea. She wrapped up a clean old Turkish towel and went back to her old rooming place. The slovenly maid let her in and Marcia waited in the front hall.

Pretty soon Letty came tripping down stairs. She had a "boy friend" waiting in the parlor. The radio was going, as usual, so Letty and the boy friend danced a little. Letty's knee was bandaged. But she danced right actively just the same.

"If anyone comes, Kid, you flop in a chair and look ready to weep," the boy friend said to her. "We'll get you a trip to Florida and a car a block long out of this case."

Mrs. Leverage came. Marcia innocently gave her the old towel, saying she had unintentionally taken it when she moved away.

"Anyway, you're honest, Mrs. Leverage said, almost graciously.

Visits Doctor

Marcia went directly to the office of Dr. Laurence Sessons. She had to wait until ten, because his office hours were until ten and there was a dozen or so patients waiting.

"I say, you're the young lady I spattered — couldn't forget you," said the doctor when Marcia was shown into his office. "Well, well, what can I do for you? I can make amends this way, perhaps."

"I'm quite healthy., thank you," said Marcia, "but I want to tell you something."

Marcia told him.

Doctor Sessons was delighted. He had his lawyer leave a bridge party and come over while Marcia told him the story.

"I—I've never been in court—I dread it, but—" and Marcia shuddered at the thought.

"The case will never come to court," the lawyer assured her.

He was right. A "roomer" at the Mrs. Leverage house, who got a room there next day and was really a detective, got sufficient evidence, and Letty, to escape prosecution, had to confess that she had merely "flopped" because it looked like a chance to get damages.

Doctor Sessons dropped into the reference room at the library a few weeks later. He had been seeing Marcia quite frequently.

"Miss," he said, very soberly, "I want some information."

"Yes, doctor," Marcia answered. She took a requisition blank and a pencil.

"Never mind putting it down—what I want to know is whether you will marry me?"

Martha looked at him a moment, picked up a small book, turned the pages, put a red ring around a paragraph and handed it to the doctor. The book was a dictionary. He read:

YES, n. A reply in the affirmative.

Congress Should Adopt Canada's Immigrant Plan

Profiting by American mistakes, Canada has adopted a system of selective immigration that may well serve as a model for the United States.

Canada does not stop at excluding the obviously unfit. Canada goes a long step further and from among all the applicants for admission gives preference to those BEST QUALIFIED TO MAKE USEFUL CANADIAN CITIZENS.

There is no authority under existing law for the American government to select for admission the best among the applicants for admission to this country. All that our government is authorized to do is to admit within the quota limitation for each country those applicants that cannot be excluded on the score of unfitness.

As a result this country is getting "the run of the mill" instead of the best type of immigrant. And the whole country suffers by such a slip-shod method.

Upwards of 2,000,000 Europeans are said to have taken some step toward getting immigration visas at American consulates, although the annual quotas of European countries total only about 150,000.

Under existing law there is no provision for expediting the admission of the type of immigrant most needed. And this in spite of the fact that the secretary of labor reports that cases are constantly arising "in which some American industry, institution or interest can very clearly demonstrate that it needs the service of some particularly qualified person resident in a foreign country."

The man needed may be one whose services are in great demand because he is the keyman in some new industrial development which might afford employment to thousands of Americans. But such a man must wait his turn because less desirable candidates for admission are ahead of him on the list.

SECRETARY DAVIS HAS ALREADY CALLED THE ATTENTION OF CONGRESS TO THE NEED FOR REMEDYING THIS CONDITION. HE HAS URGED AN AMENDMENT TO THE IMMIGRATION LAWS WHICH WOULD ENABLE THE GOVERNMENT TO EXERCISE THE SAME PREFERENCE THAT THE GOVERNMENT AT OTTAWA EXERCISES, BUT CONGRESS HAS THUS FAR TURNED A DEAF EAR TO ALL SUCH APPEALS.

Why should the United States lag behind Canada in a matter so vital to the nation's welfare? We have restricted immigration, we have provided for excluding the unfit. What we have thus far failed to do is to set up machinery for seeing those best qualified to become useful citizens.

Especially should the selective principle be applied at a time when every effort is being made by government in state and nation to reduce unemployment as rapidly as possible. Only those aliens should be admitted who can demonstrate not only their personal fitness but also their economic and occupational desirability.

WHAT CONGRESS SHOULD DO AND DO AT THE CURRENT SESSION IS TO AUTHORIZE THE SECRETARY OF LABOR, AFTER FULL HEARING AND INVESTIGATION, TO GIVE PREFERENCE IN THE ISSUANCE OF IMMIGRATION VISAS TO THOSE APPLICANTS FOR ADMISSION FOR WHOM A REAL NEED EXISTS IN THE HOUSEHOLD OF THE NATION.

Having finally adopted the wise policy of restricting immigration on the quota basis Congress should clinch the success of that policy by authorizing the application of the selective principle.

Selective immigration works well in Canada. It will work equally well in the United States when Congress has the common sense to give the selective system a fair trial.

They Still Buy

It's a Habit.

Morton May, president of half a dozen of the country's biggest department stores, says of business:

"Things are not only getting better—they are better. The country is definitely over the worst of the slump. As a matter of fact, we are finding out that the depression wasn't really as bad as we thought.

"People are buying freely and sensibly. Retail prices are lower than they have been since the war, and quality is better. Men and women are steadily spending more, not only for necessities but for the luxuries that for a brief time felt the pinch of the November stock market flurry.

"So far as permanent business was concerned, the trouble was principally SCARE."

Mr. May's views, interesting and accurate, reflect the present situation and forecast the future. He could have omitted everything in his statement but the last sentence, however, and still told the story.

Cut Rates

In Airplane Tickets.

Since the recent cut in airplane passenger tickets women are beginning to fly. Before the reduction only 16 per cent of passengers were from the so-called softer sex. Now the percentage is 23.

Airlines are waking up to the psychological factors in selling their service. Hitherto, most of their efforts have been devoted to proving that air travel is safe. That hardly seems necessary among a people who cheerfully die by the thousands in automobiles.

What is important is to sell flying to WOMEN. Men don't count. And the only way to sell it to women is to sell it as a bargain. Airlines should take a hint from the department stores.

What woman, planning a trip that costs $20 by rail, could resist the ad, "BY AIR, $19.98?" There isn't any.

Fair Signals Are Flying

Drawn by Nelson Harding

The business skies begin to clear,
The storm flag's down at last,
And "fair" say all the signals now
Run up upon the mast.

The ship that had put out to sea
Has ridden out the gale,
And now returns as we can see
By smoke that tells the tale.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Educational Squabbles

WHEN Darrow and Brookhart debate people come from far and near without getting further or closer.

Naturally, like most of the census, Darrow and Brookhart debate about prohibition, a subject that has about exhausted its moots.

"Bugs" Baer

Their argument is strictly the preamble to a thirst. We have heard this oratorical outburst several times and we're convinced that it's a brother act.

Brookhart took the negative in New York, but we think he switches when the team gets to a town without a telegraph office.

Darrow is the famous lawyer who traces his ancestry back to a monkey trial in Tennessee.

Brother Clarence lost that case, too. He was ably aided by Deadly Fumes Malone, the international divorce mechanic.

The monkey lost that verdict because Darrow forgot to bring his client into court.

While these two fellows are arguing nits and nats about prohibition, the Literary Digest has offered a magnificent reward for its apprehension, alive or exhausted.

Both Darrow and Brookhart are very courteous to each other. They realize that their arguments are foolish. But they never forget that they are getting paid for it.

New York audiences are with Darrow. They gave Brookhart the old heckleberries. The audience turned on the steam while Brooky was speaking. That didn't annoy Brookhart because he knows that it is Darrow's turn to get hissed in Georgia and Iowa.

You may razz the argument of a porcupine, but you can't kill its points. Darrow and Brookhart have now got all the nation scientifically charted. They bow in some states and are hissed in others.

Even the ladies seemed to resent Brookhart's arguments. They know that the boy who hollers wolf never comes home with a silver fox.

But when Brooky gets Clarence in Alabama it is Darrow's turn to listen to the punctured tires. A debate like this can go on until the last ticket is sold. Both boys get a brass ring and are off for another happy ride.

We like to hear them debate because it's the first time we ever heard a Senator talking one at a time.

There will be no actual results from this Siamese dialogue. Like Tennyson's brook, it goes on forever and never gets any wetter.

A BEHOLDER OF MIRACLES

By Herbert Kaufman

IN 1855, when Andrew Mellon arrived in Pittsburgh, the now greatest smithy on earth was annually forging five million dollars' worth of iron products on her anvils.

The city had seven hardware establishments and its six fabricating plans were delivering half the steel work used in the petroleum trade. Pittsburgh was then selling almost five thousand barrels of oil per year. Her prosperous bottle and window glass manufacturers were fast monopolizing continental trade with a hundred thousand dollar monthly output.

Fifteen thousand persons were employed by her various industries.

At that time, Commodore Perry was negotiating a commercial treaty with the prisoner—Mikado of Japan, whose empire didn't contain a steam engine, government school, metal plow, accurate map, derrick or power press.

IN 1855, folk were still wondering if the French hadn't hornswaggled us in the Louisiana purchase. And a backwoods Illinois lawyer, named Lincoln, had just begun to attract eastern attention by his radical views and audacious pretensions.

When Mr. Mellon learned to spell, there were no such words as chloroform or antitoxin, bacteriology or dynamo, aeroplane or rapid transit, subway or telephone, phonograph or elevator, skyscraper or radio, motion picture or automobile, submarine or hydro-electric, incandescent light or aluminum—even in the dictionary.

The first rail west of Chicago hadn't been laid; Omaha was a teepee site; Seattle, an empty mud-flat; Los Angeles, a Mexican shack-town, and Denver, a rattlesnake warren. The combined fortunes of all the millionaires in the United States—including John Jacob Astor's, Commodore Vanderbilt's, George Peabody's, and Stephen Girard's—didn't total half a billion dollars.

AND an entire decade of transactions on the New York Stock Exchange wouldn't equal a single present week's dealings.

Mr. Mellon remembers how Philadelphia's elegant mercers and linen drapers sneered contemptuously at mention of the "omnibus stores" of the prairie states, from which Marshall Field's, John Wanamaker's, Gimbel's and the May company descend.

Anybody who has personally witnessed the inclusive development of our transportation and communication systems; the rise of the United States Steel Corporation from a Scotch runt's scrimpings to a multi-billion enterprise—who saw the transformation of western wilderness into orchards, granges, ranches and universal larders; must feel confident that no circumstance can long intimidate or halt our progress or prosperity.

EXPERIENCE has taught Mr. Mellon to expect an occasional bark-splitting pain. Every fresh surge forward in our economic history was preceded by some readjustment twinges. If we didn't periodically prune back for healthier growth, we wouldn't root soundly.

Panics and depressions are corrective agents which compel us to diagnose social and commercial errors and provide antidotes against their recurrence.

The loose practices and reckless financial habits that breed Black Fridays, Great Northern smashes and 1929 collapses, invariably clear the future for broader distributions of wealth and greater opportunities for capital, energy and ambition.

That's the message which Mr. Mellon's birthday—and the robins—bring us.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

REMEMBER the Mother Goose rhyme of the little old lady who went to market to sell her eggs but fell asleep on the King's Highway? And how, while she slept, the "peddler named Stout, cut off her petticoats all round about," so that, when she woke, the little old lady cried out in horror and surprise—"THIS IS NONE OF I!"

Seemed just a funny rhyme when you heard it as a little lad, didn't it? But how real it has become with the years. How often you, too, have cried, facing the consequences of some stupid lapse—"THIS IS NONE OF I!"

All of us setting out to market to sell our eggs. Heads filled with dreams, hearts warm with hope, all of us meaning to do our best. Honestly meaning to do our best. And then suddenly—just why we never can tell—we begin to ease up. And before we know it, we're trapped like the little old woman. Something in us goes to sleep—our brain—or our conscience. We forget all our fine plans. We forget the job we had set ourselves to do and, in a sort of nightmare, we commit some foolishness, some dishonesty, some cruelty, something we would never have done in our normal moments.

Then, waking from our lapse, we find ourselves shorn and shamed and cry—"Surely, surely, this is none of I!"

"I couldn't have done this dreadful thing. Why, I've never wanted to do a wrong thing in my whole life. I've always wanted to do right. I've always meant to be honest and kind and clean. Truly I have. And I haven't the least idea how I blundered into this mishap. I hate it all as much as you do! Won't you try to understand and believe? Won't you forgive?"

How often YOU'VE said that! And how indignant you've felt when people DIDN'T understand . . . when they insisted that you blundered deliberately!

But aren't there times when YOU won't understand? Those thousands of sinners and fools whom you constantly criticize and condemn, have you ever realized that they, too, are crying pitifully—"SURELY, TRULY, THIS IS NONE OF I!"

We all mean so well, yet blunder so stupidly. We all start out with such fine eggs in our baskets—and end in a ragged, spattery muddle! And how charitable we are to ourselves when this happens. How easy it is for us to realize that WE didn't mean to go wrong. But when it comes to the other fellow—THAT'S DIFFERENT!

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

A NEIGHBOR that come to the Whax house says, "Say, Mrs. Whax, is that the same parrot that used to swear so much?"

"Yes, sure."

"But it can't be. This one is green, and don't swear at all."

"Yeah, I know. He hopped out in the front yard Sunday when Dad was under the car, fixing the gears or something. He heard Dad's swearing, and he turned green and quit talking altogether."

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THE horse's teeth, then, are admirably adapted for chewing up grasses; and the size and peculiar shape of his head is due to the need for finding room for these powerful and deep-rooted living millstones, and for the muscles to work them.

Now when we look back to the fossils of the Eocene (VA), the earliest period of the Cenozoic, we find nothing resembling a horse.

H. G. Wells

We find no mammal so specialized as a horse. In the earliest Eocene, almost all the mammals were small, they all had either four or five toes to each foot, and their teeth were short, low crowned and provided with more or less rounded or conical cusps, never with grinding ridges.

Obvious carnivores with teeth for slicing and cutting, like those of lion or wolf, did not exist, nor obvious herbivores, with grinding and chewing teeth, like those of cow or elephant. In the later stages of the Eocene period definite carnivores and herbivores can be recognized, together with other well marked types; but these early forms are all extremely different from any living animals.

When Owen described Hyracotherium in 1856, for that is the first name in our history he never even guessed at the relationship between it and the horse; now not only do we know that the one is ancestral to the other, but we can fill all the gaps between the two.

If we go back stage by stage through the rocks of the whole Cenozoic period (V) we find that the horse has recorded its pedigree in fossils.

There are four main stages. In the last the fossil horses resemble the living forms in all essentials of teeth and feet, differing only in details of proportion. They are all grass-plain animals.

In the stage before this there are no one-hoofed horses. Instead we find smaller creatures, of obviously horse-like type, but with three hoofs on each foot; the two outer hoofs, however, are small and must have been useless in running, since they did not reach the ground, but hung in the air like the dew-claws of deer and other animals.

The teeth had a less elaborate grinding system, and were much shorter. Fossil bones of these—shall we call them the fathers of the horses?—are not uncommon in China, and (with others are dug up to be sold to apothecaries as "dragons' teeth," that essential ingredient in the Chinese pharmacopoeia.

Prof. Watson tells us that even the Chinese laborers employed to dig them up recognize the skulls as like those of their donkeys.

In the next assemblage of forms the grandparents, so to speak, still older, the ancestral horses were no larger than a large dog or a small Shetland pony.

They also were three-toed; but all three hoofs touched the ground, and in addition they possessed on the forefoot the trace of a fourth toe, in the form of a little splint against the cannon bone; the tooth pattern again was less elaborate, the whole tooth shorter and there was no trace of the cement which in all later forms filled up the valleys between the ridges of enamel and dentine, and so ensured a flat grinding surface throughout.

Yet one can easily recognize the skeletons even of this stage as those of horses—three-toed and rather lumpish horses, but horses.

Finally, in the earliest stage, the far ancestors, in which we can still definitely detect the tendencies which culminated in the modern horse, none of the animals were bigger than a medium-sized terrier; there were four little hoofs on the forefoot and three on the hind; sometimes the hind foot also showed two splint bones representing the missing first and fifth digits; the teeth were very short, with only indications of the system of grinding ridges, and the premolars were not so large nor of so complicated a pattern as the molars.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 26.—In the oaken shadows of a haughty Fifth Avenue jewelry establishment is an elderly and scholarly gentleman whose entire life has been spent in the study of precious jewels—scientifically, romantically, traditionally and geographically.

He is Dr. George Frederick Kunz, who is past 70, and has traced the romantic history of every gem of importance. Some have dated back six thousand years. Dr. Kunz has also collated the origin of the mystic ideas mankind formed of gems in all ages — the superstitions and omens.

Sometimes he has spent ten years in digging up the complete history of a single stone and in his laboratory has lived through the romances of jewels that have dethroned kings, defaced ancient empires and otherwise brought death, misery and destruction.

He has explored the diamond fields of Kimberly and poked about other far away corners of the world for lore. The diamond, according to legend, preserves peace and stands for purity. Arkansas is the only section of America where the diamond is found.

One of the myths is that wearing the opal betokens ill fortune. Instead it stands for hope and success. Sentiment associated with stones are: Agate—health and wealth; Cat's eye—warns of danger; Pearl—innocence; Turquoise—prosperity; Sapphire—constancy, and Ruby—charity.

The natal stones of the various months follow: January, garnet; February, amethyst; March, bloodstone; April, diamond; May, emerald; June, agate; July, turquoise; August, carnelian; September, chrysolite; October, beryl; November, topaz, and December, ruby.

The star sapphire at the moment is one of the favored jewels of the very rich. Various stones have had their recurrent rise and fall in popularity, but the diamond has shown the greatest endurance. The diamond must be square. The round cut is as outmoded as the stem winding watch.

Experts who forecast boulevard residential changes in the metropolis now decree that in 10 years the toney boulevard will be Riverside Drive. Much of the Drive's aristocratic aura suddenly swung to Park and Madison avenues in recent years. Many mansions were torn down for hurriedly constructed apartment houses and the Drive was shorn of some of its class. The pendulum is now swinging back. Geographically, it is ideal. With the rippling Hudson at its feet and the cowling and beautiful Jersey hills in the background, it offers the most beautiful vista in town. A great drawback has been the uncovered railroad tracks at the river edge, but that eyesore is shortly to vanish.

An ancient jehu in a faded plum-colored uniform skirts the curb with his horse-drawn open carriage after the theater and cries out to the passing throng: "Be exclusive. Get a thrill. Avoid the rabble of Broadway!"

There are a half dozen model exchanges to which illustrators may telephone for types and which are furnished instantly. Thus if the artist is in need of a model who must be tall, a blonde and look chic in a bathing suit, he telephones and the type arrives—bathing suit and all. The exchanges take a percentage of the pay. Some exchanges have as high as 200 models ready and waiting.

One of the well-known models is a roly-poly midget. He poses with a bow and arrow as cupid.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

MR. EMPLOYER or Mr. Superintendent are you giving your men an opportunity to advance?

Because certain men are particularly good in a particular line of work do you keep them at it so that they have no chance to learn other branches of the business?

Some of your men may be getting discouraged and mechanical in their efforts because they can't see a way to step ahead in the business.

They feel that something better is due them and they are willing to work.

If there were an opportunity in sight for advancement they would do better and have a greater desire to please you.

It would directly benefit you both.

Of course there is no use in wasting time on a man who is perfectly satisfied to remain just where he is or on the one who is unwilling to put forth the requisite energy and take the extra time to learn advanced work.

There are comparatively few such men.

Most workers want to step up if for no other reason than higher wages.

But keeping an energetic man down lessens his interest and desire to do better.
